LONDON, Feb. 9 [Wednesday]—(AP).—The Russians have captured Nikopol, one of the world's greatest sources of manganese, cleared the Nazis from their large bridgehead across the lower Dnieper river, and routed seven German divisions which left behind 15,000 dead and 2,000 prisoners, Moscow announced today.

Premier Marshal Josef Stalin issued two orders of the day to announce these victories, which nipped off the tip of the Germans' easternmost penetration into Russia and took from the Nazi military machine probably its biggest single source of manganese, used in making steel and prized as one of the most vital of war's raw materials.

Russian gains also were recorded on other fronts. Moscow said a 10 mile advance was made to within 17 miles of the northern rail hub of Luga, the Dnieper bend trap was tightened on 10 German divisions by the capture of nine towns and the repulse of Nazi counter-attacks, and several more populated places were taken in the drive from Novosokolniki toward Latvia.

Clear Area 75 by 22 Miles.

The 4th Ukrainian army first cleared the bridgehead opposite Nikopol, a stubbornly held stretch of territory more than 75 miles wide and 22 miles deep, and thus wiped out the last German hold on the left bank of the Dnieper except for positions along the river's upper reaches above Gomel, far to the north.

The Russians inflicted a heavy defeat on the seven German divisions in four days of battle to take this "strategically important" bridgehead, Stalin announced. They also captured the district center of Kamenka, 25 miles northwest of Nikopol, and 40 other localities.

Then the 3d Ukrainian army, which already had fought into Nikopol, captured the city by storm with aid from the 4th army.

Large stores of German war equipment were seized at Nikopol, the Russians said.

Trapped Forces Not Mentioned.

The soviet war report left the implication that many thousands of Nazi troops had succeeded in escaping the Ukrainian armies' drive by fleeing westward down the Dnieper in the direction of Kherson and Odessa. As recorded here by the soviet radio monitor, the war bulletin failed to follow up the previous day's report that five German divisions cut off in the Nikopol trap were being wiped out.

The Germans rolled into Nikopol in August, 1941, and quickly turned its resources to their own ends. For two years they are estimated to have been getting more than half their manganese from the Nikopol mines.

NAZI WAR BULLETIN

Of Russia, Tuesday's German war report, as broadcast by Berlin, said:

"The situation on the eastern front east of Zhashkov [south of Kiev], south of the Berezina river and near Vitebsk was marked by heavy defensive fighting yesterday. All soviet attempts to break thru were frustrated by determined resistance.

"In the area of Zhashkov, where 17 tanks were destroyed yesterday, heavy fighting is going on.

"West of Lake Ilmen and north of Luga [northern front], soviet attacks supported by tanks and planes were repulsed in counter-attacks and embittered hand-to-hand fighting. North of Nevel, west of Luga and near Narva, German attacks were successful and resulted in local improvement of German positions."

Camera Tells How Guns Rip Japs to Death

In order to present the page of Marshall pictures, the political map of the United States in color, scheduled for today, was delayed until tomorrow.

Most of the Marshall pictures were taken by Frank Filan, Associated Press camerman who represented the war time still picture pool. Filan was the photographic hero of Tarawa, where he produced the first and best pictures with a camera he borrowed after his own equipment was wrecked. His pictures show graphically how Namur and Roi Islands were turned into a shambles.

Fighting Ends on Kwajalein; Raid New Isles

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, T. H., Feb. 8. (AP).—Warship bombardment and air strikes against Marshall Island bases still in Japanese hands were resumed Feb. 6 and 7, Adm. Nimitz said tonight. The text of his announcement:

"Aircraft of the 7th army air force, search planes of fleet air wing two, and warships of the Pacific fleet continued attacks on enemy held atolls in the Marshall Islands on Feb. 6 and 7. Several small enemy boats were sunk at Jaluit atoll on Feb. 6 by search planes of fleet air wing two and fighters of the 7th army air force."

Except for Jaluit, there was no mention as to where the attacks occurred. This policy of not naming henceforth the bombed Japanese bases in the Marshalls was announced by a fleet headquarters spokesman who said it was designed to keep the information from high Japanese quarters.

"Kwajalein Is Ours."

Meanwhile, Adm. Nimitz wrote finish to the Kwajalein invasion with the brief announcement today that organized resistance on the atoll "has ceased, and its capture and occupation have been completed."

There still was no mention of ground action on the extreme western portion of the atoll, in the Ebadon Island area. It was assumed this had been cleaned up by 4th division marines.

The end of the Kwajalein operation came eight days after United States forces had landed on islets adjacent to the main objectives, Roi and Kwajalein Islands.

Nimitz's Goal: Bases in China.

Adm. Nimitz said in an interview his aim is to get the forces under his command moving across the Pacific and setting up bases in China.

His object is "to get our ground and air forces into China as early as possible," he said, for "in the last analysis I do not believe we can defeat Japan from the sea alone.

"That's the simple strategy of the Pacific war. I believe the Japs can only be defeated from bases in China because they draw food, iron, and other supplies from Manchuria [Manchukuo] and China, and as long as they have access to these they will be difficult to beat.

"Furthermore, we want air bases in China from which we can deliver air raids—not sporadic ones—but like those the Germans are receiving."

BRITISH FORCED BACK IN BATTLE OF BEACHHEAD

Nazis Press Attack All Along Line.

THE 5TH ARMY BEACHHEAD SOUTH OF ROME, Feb. 8 (AP).—The Germans forced a slight retirement in the British sector today while continuing fierce pressure at a number of other points on the fan shaped beachhead. The pressure appeared generally stronger than at any time since the allies began defensive fighting last Thursday.

Tanks Support Attacks.

Twenty-four hours of uninterrupted fighting with massed batteries firing from both sides produced only minor changes in the beachhead perimeter. The Germans are still attempting to whittle it down. All along the front the Germans are on the offensive but they were solidly counter-punched after shallow penetrations.

Nazi forces of 100 to 200 men, supported by two or three tanks each, pressed forward slightly on both the American and the British sectors with a series of individual attacks.

The fighting erupted at numerous points of the beachhead perimeter at 2:10 a. m. and continued fiercely after daybreak. Heavy allied artillery fire helped to contain small German penetrations.

Dig In Under Darkness.

Infiltrating the northwestern sector of the British held line, a minor German force dug in under the cover of darkness.

Artillery fire rolled like continuous thunder and black smoke hung thickly over the model farm village of Carroceto [Aprilia], north of which the British have been heavily engaged for six days.

American infantry outposts with tank support had a hot fight during the night around a road junction known as "Dead Woman." Officers said this morning that the outcome of the scattered engagements was "fairly even."

Americans captured a handful of German prisoners and suffered comparatively light casualties, altho the enemy managed to occupy several stone farm houses which in this campaign have been used as machine gun and mortar nests and for observation.

In Loop Hotels You Make a Bed to Lie in It

"Here are your sheets and pillow cases, sir. Would you mind making up your own bed tonight?"

This plea from harried hotel clerks and assistant managers is being made every night in the week at several Chicago loop hotels, as grateful guests joyfully scramble for cots in executive offices, private dining rooms, or mezzanines—anything except park benches.

"Don't blame us if you have to clean your own rooms and change bed linens yourself," weary managers tell the more tyrannical guests. "Blame it on the war labor board."

Inflation Is the Bogeyman!

The WLB was soundly berated yesterday by William J. Liggett, assistant manager of the La Salle hotel, who exclaimed: "We've begged the burocrats to let us raise the wages of help, so we can keep our maids, but they say that would cause inflation. Great Scott! How can you cause inflation with a maid earning only $3.50 a day?"

An honorably discharged soldier, Liggett himself makes up from 15 to 20 beds a night as emergencies arise.

"But what can you do in a 20 floor hotel," he asked, "when only three or four maids show up for work?"

Fighters' Kin Best Sports.

Guests who have relatives in the army are the gamest sports, he says; those who haven't sacrificed anything to help win the war the the worst.

"But the army brass hats are the most terrible complainers," Liggett declared. "They're evidently so used to having 50 privates running around waiting on them that they can't bear the inconvenience of a civilian hotel in war time."

The Stevens hotel, also short of help, handles the problem a little differently. "When would-be guests apply for a room," a hotel spokesman said, "we tell them that all rooms with service are sold out. Then we explain that if they'd like to stay on a floor without maid service we will take them in. Many are startled at first, but when they find that there are no other rooms in town, they come back. The floor clerk issues their linens, and they make their own beds."

Close 100 Rooms for Day.

At the Palmer House, where many of the Negro maids have been continuously employed since the days of the old Palmer House, the condition is less acute. "No guest has had to make his bed or clean his room," Miss Caroline Meyer, executive housekeeper, said, "but at the termination of a recent convention we had to close 100 rooms for 24 hours until we could restore them to order."

At the Bismarck, as at virtually all loop hotels, there is a shortage of maid help, but guests have not yet had to do their own work, Paul Schmidt, assistant manager, reported. A similar condition prevails at the Morrison hotel where, because of the rapid turnover of rooms, guests frequently have to go into a room before it has been cleaned, Charles M. Rowe, assistant manager, disclosed. The Sherman hotel reported similar conditions.

BELGIAN PRINCE, NOW A U. S. ARMY PRIVATE BECOMES A CITIZEN

Richmond, Va., Feb. 8 (AP).—Pvt. Joseph De Riquet De Chimay became a naturalized United States citizen today in ceremonies for 40 Camp Lee soldiers and in so doing renounced his title—dating back to the Roman empire—as a prince.

Pvt. De Chimay is a native of Chimay, Belgium, where he still owns land and houses which, he said, are now in the possession of the Germans. He first came to the United States in 1939 "to look up a very pretty American girl in South Carolina" whom he had met in France, he explained. "But," he said, "she married a marine."

When the war broke out he tried to enlist, but was rejected. He was drafted in 1943.

$55,949 Takes This Case Out of the Routine Class

Cleveland, O., Feb. 8 (AP).—Albert Kalin, 51, inventor of a Diesel motor governor, was convicted on a traffic charge in Municipal court today. To Judge William J. McDermott it was "just a routine case,"—until Probation Officer Edward J. Crawley reported Kalin was carrying $55,949 in cash, war bonds, and treasury notes when arrested. Kalin's only comment: "I'm going to pay my income tax."

Hunt for Child Swallowed by Walk Cave-In

Pittston, Pa., Feb. 8 [Special].—Rescuers worked frantically tonight but with dwindling hope of finding alive a little girl suddenly swallowed by a sidewalk cave-in this afternoon as she walked with her aunt along a quiet residential street in this mining town.

A crowd estimated at 2,500 persons hovered about the yawning hole in the street as policemen, firemen, Red Cross workers, and miners sought without success to find some trace of the victim, Jule Ann Fulmer, 3 year old daughter of a navy seaman.

The child was returning from a shopping trip to a neighborhood store with her brother, David, 9, and her aunt, Mrs. Marie Mitchell, about 1:15 p. m. She had been clinging to her aunt's hand, but loosed her grasp and lagged behind a few steps to toy with an orange the grocer had given her.

30 Foot Pit Appears.

Mrs. Mitchell heard a noise, turned around, and screamed. The child had disappeared. A hole the size of the four foot square flagstone extended 30 feet into the ground. The orange, thrown from the child's hand, rolled along the ground, the only evidence she had been there a second before. The aunt and David were saved only by having stepped onto the next stone.

The aunt's screams brought firemen with ladders. A fireman who descended into the pit found several openings leading off from the shaft that had been opened into a catacomb of abandoned coal diggings. Some of the shafts extend 600 feet into the earth.

Cribbing Collapses.

Thruout the afternoon and into the night men worked with a windlass digging sand and clay out of the hole. They had reached a depth of 75 feet tonight when cribbing collapsed and filled the opening with hundreds of tons of earth, nullifying their work. But they vowed not to give up the search until the child was found tho they had virtually abandoned hope of finding her alive.

The child is the only daughter and youngest of four children of Seaman and Mrs. George Fulmer. The father is stationed at Norfolk, Va. Mrs. Mitchell's husband, John, also is a seaman.

For some time, particularly in the last year, this town of 18,000 has been subjected to similar cave-ins of coal mine workings. Last March a series of them damaged 150 homes, the high school and a Catholic church.

'I Loosed Gas on Woman,' Killer Admits

Edward Damiani, 29, charged with murder in the poison gas slaying of Miss Agnes Olsen in a currency exchange robbery last July, admitted from the witness stand in Criminal court yesterday that he released the gas that asphyxiated her. He asserted he had not known the gas was lethal and, in a bid for the sympathy of the all-woman jury, said he was subjected to "brutal third degree methods by police."

As Damiani testified in a hesitant, halting manner his co-defendant, Alvin Krause, 29, listened intently, and every official present seemed tense. There is animosity between the two men and Chief Bailiff Joseph Lelivelt has taken precautions to guard against a possible break for freedom by either. Each is guarded by three bailiffs and a dozen more are stationed about the courtroom.

Tells of Using Gas Twice.

Damiani not only admitted using gas in the robbery of the exchange at 311 N. Pulaski rd., when Miss Olsen was overcome, but confessed that 30 minutes later he loosed the same type of gas when he held up another currency exchange at 4755 Fullerton av.

The all-woman jury is pledged to impose the death penalty if it finds the defendants guilty of murder, but Damiani apparently hoped for more leniency from them than he could expect from a judge if he pleaded guilty.

Atty. Harold Levy, defending Krause, insisted that any testimony by Damiani involving Krause should not weigh against Krause in the jury's deliberations and Judge Ward agreed. Rules of evidence forbid testimony by one defendant against another. Once, when Damiani faced toward a door instead of going to the witness chair, a bailiff jerked him back into his chair. Levy immediately moved for a mistrial because of this action in the presence of the jurors, but he was overruled.

Mother Forced into Seat.

The nervousness of the bailiffs was noticeable thruout the session. Later when Krause's aged mother appeared and asked to see her son; court attaches swarmed around her, forced her into a seat, and refused to let her move.

Damiani said he insisted to police that Krause was innocent but eventually named him in his confession because of their insistence that he do so. Sgt. John Hanrahan, he said, showed him Krause's picture, saying, "He was with you and you know it."

Later, Damiani testified, he was placed in a cell with Charles Young, reputed leader of a west side robber gang, and Miss Mary Ryan, who lived in a Madison street hotel with Young and in whose room police had found a gas cylinder left there by Damiani.

Young pleaded with him to confess because he was "hooked anyhow" and his confession would bring about the release of Young and Miss Ryan, Damiani said.

Tells of Promise of Help.

Further, Young promised to get him an attorney with an "in" in the state's attorney's office and supply him with money, he said. Young and Miss Ryan were released after Damiani confessed and Young is now reported to be in the army.

Telling of alleged police brutality, Damiani said he was handcuffed and hung from a door.

He was under cross-examination when court recessed until today, when Krause is expected to testify. Judge Ward said he would hold a night session to expedite the trial.

SINCLAIR WEEKS NAMED SENATOR IN LODGE'S POST

Boston, Mass., Feb. 8 (AP).—Sinclair Weeks, treasurer of the Republican national committee, was appointed to the United States senate today by Gov. Saltonstall, who immediately announced he himself would be a candidate for the post in the fall election.

Weeks was named to succeed Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., who resigned four days ago to go on active duty with the United States army. Weeks said he would not be a candidate for election in the fall.

Lodge defeated Weeks in the Republican primary in 1936. He was reelected in 1942 and Weeks thus will serve only until the next election.

COP CONTENDS NO 3D WOMAN WAS IN ROOM

Daughter Ridicules 'Absurd' Story.

Lt. John A. Quinn.

Lt. Quinn declared further his belief that Mrs. Williams first shot at her daughter, and that the oft described assassin, a gunwoman wearing a black Persian lamb coat and flowers in her hair, was nonexistent.

His startling exposition, shared by no other ranking police officers, and contradicting hitherto accepted theories that stamped the shooting as the crime of a third woman, was given at the end of a five hour inquest in the county morgue. It was immediately and bitterly challenged by other investigators and by Mrs. Goodbody and her relatives.

"Absurd," Says Daughter.

"It's absurd and untrue," protested Mrs. Goodbody. "It's ridiculous," asserted her stepfather, Williams, who is attached to the state department in Washington. "It's fantastic beyond belief," declared her aunt, Mrs. Robert A. Roos. "It's Lt. Quinn's personal opinion, and not ours," said Supervising Capt. John Ryan and District Capt. Frank Reynolds, his superiors.

Nevertheless, Quinn's statement, made before an expectant audience that had sat thruout a day-long inquest listening to Mrs. Goodbody and other witnesses, came as a thunderbolt. It was not expected, altho Quinn's views, formulated immediately after the shooting and held unchanged since, were known to some fellow investigators. Coroner Brodie and his assistant chief, James J. Whalen, promptly adjourned the hearing to 1:30 p. m. March 3.

Picture Stays Unchanged.

For several hours a dozen other witnesses had combined to draw a picture of the murder, and their cumulative efforts, while clarifying a little here and confusing a little there, failed to change the accepted outline of the case. In brief, this was that a mysterious woman, hiding in Mrs. Williams' room in the Drake hotel Jan. 19, fired upon, but missed, Mrs. Goodbody and fatally wounded Mrs. Williams.

Then Lt. Quinn was summoned to the stand by Coroner Brodie. A young looking veteran of more than 25 years on the police force, Quinn won acclaim in January, 1918, for his single handed capture of Earl [Immune] Dear, a gunman, who had just killed a private chauffeur. Quinn felled him with one punch to the jaw. Dear was hanged in June, 1919.

Lt. Quinn's testimony was casual enough until the coroner asked if he had formed any conclusion about the crime.

No 3d Party in Room.

"I have," he replied. "It is my belief that there was a fight between Patricia [Mrs. Goodbody] and her mother, and I do not believe that there was a third party in the room."

Coroner Brodie abruptly leaned forward. Assistant State's Atty. Joseph A. Pope moved in to hear better. Capts. Ryan and Reynolds perked up in their chairs, while Detective Chief Sullivan looked on without change of expression.

"I believe that while Patricia went to the bathroom," continued Quinn, "her mother went to a trunk which was in a corner of the room and took out a gun. Then, I believe, she went in [to the bathroom] and shot at Patricia, and Patricia ducked. I think that there was a struggle, and that the third shot [thru the window] went wild. I think Mrs. Williams then was shot accidentally."

Mrs. Goodbody was not present to hear the statement. She collapsed two hours earlier, after her testimony, and was taken to the apartment of her aunt, Mrs. Roos, in the Ambassador East hotel. But the reactions of her sister, Miss Elizabeth Born, her father, Edgar R. Born, first husband of Mrs. Williams, and of Williams were obvious. Born laughed derisively. Miss Born walked angrily from the room. Williams muttered, "It's fantastic."

Prosecutor Pope, finally making himself heard above the uproar caused by Lt. Quinn's statement, reminded Quinn that various witnesses had testified to the presence of a third woman, supposedly the killer, near the Williams room. Specifically, he recalled the testimony of C. P. Brewster and Stanley Cook that they saw " a fur clad woman running" down the eighth floor corridor after the shooting.

"Some One Passed Room."

"I never heard of any one running down the corridor," said Lt. Quinn doggedly. "I did hear, however, that some one passed the room after the shooting.

Lt. Quinn then sought to justify his line of reasoning. When he reached Mrs. Williams' room, he said, he found Mrs. Goodbody there, and also her father, Mr. Born, and the latter's friend, Tom Rosenberg, a lawyer, who had been summoned by phone before police were called. Quinn said he first questioned Mrs. Williams, then Mrs. Goodbody.

"I said to Patricia, 'Tell me what happened in that room,'" said Quinn. "I told her it looked as tho there had been a struggle. Patricia said all she knew was that a woman in a black Persian lamb coat fired at her from behind the bathroom door, saying, 'I am going to get you.' I said I didn't see how she could have missed her, and I told her I didn't think she was telling the truth.

Sentence Unfinished.

"I continued questioning Patricia, when suddenly she seemed to come to. She leaned back in her chair, and crossed her legs, and said, 'Well, I'll tell you.' I thought she was going to tell everything, but just then Rosenberg stepped in and said something about going to the hospital."

Lt. Quinn said that in reconstructing the shooting he placed himself behind the bathroom door where Mrs. Goodbody said the gunwoman hid. Behind the door were an ironing board and an iron, he said. Quinn said he thrust his right arm out in a position to shoot any one seated in the bathroom, as Mrs. Goodbody had said she was.

"I convinced myself," said Quinn, "that no 45 year old, heavy set woman, wearing a heavy fur coat, as the killer has been described, could have concealed herself behind that door.

"No one firing from that angle, with gun outstretched, could have missed shooting Patricia."

Shots in Four Directions.

Also, added Quinn, the four shots known to have been fired were directed in as many directions, and one scorched a closet door. He did not explain what significance this had to him. Some of the bullets admittedly were fired at such close range that Mrs. Williams and even her daughter suffered powder burns.

Quinn then mentioned that in a dresser drawer of Mrs. Williams' room he found a ring of 10 keys, two of which showed bloodstains. They are a mystery to him, he said. That ended his story.

The rebuttal came a few hours later from Mrs. Goodbody herself as she lay in bed in her aunt's suite in the Ambassador East. With her were her sister and a lawyer, Max Bloomstein.

"Lt. Quinn's story is completely absurd and untrue," Mrs. Goodbody said. "I'm withholding nothing. I've told everything I know that happened. I've told it over and over again."

Insists Assassin Hid.

Her voice quivered as she spoke. At times Bloomstein spoke for her. But on her own, Mrs. Goodbody insisted the woman assassin did hide behind the door, that she did fire at her from behind the door. "But I have no picture of her, I don't know whether she was red haired or gray haired," she said.

In 45 minutes on the witness stand earlier in the day Mrs. Goodbody told under oath what she said was all she knew about the case. It varied little from previous statements, except she remarked that she "didn't think" she saw the woman killer fleeing down the corridor.

Questions were shot at Mrs. Goodbody by Coroner Brodie, by Deputy Whalen, by Detective Chief Sullivan, by Capts. Reynolds and Ryan, and by Pope. Coroner Brodie particularly asked if she recalled telling him that the assassin had cried out, on firing, "I'll get you." But Mrs. Goodbody's recollection was that the woman said nothing. Later Lt. Quinn quoted her as saying the gunwoman cried, "I'll get you."

No Enemies, Says Daughter.

Mrs. Goodbody was asked if her marital life was happy—her husband, Lewis J. Goodbody, is in Bombay, India—whether her relations with her mother were harmonious, and whether she had any personal enemies. The answers were that she was happily married and had been on good terms with her mother, and that she had no enemies.

The coroner also interjected a bit of mystery by inquiring whether in the last 30 days "some woman had not spoken threateningly or harshly on the phone to her" from New Orleans. The answer was no. Whalen at one point asked whether, when she cried out, "Stop that crazy woman," as the killer fled, the word "crazy" carried any special significance. It did not, Mrs. Goodbody replied.

"Neither Owned Gun."

Mrs. Goodbody said that neither she nor her mother ever owned a gun and she added that, like her, her mother had no enemies. At one point Mrs. Goodbody was instructed to pick up the death gun and demonstrate how the assassin fired at her. She hesitated, picked it up, and bent her head downward quickly to show how she avoided the bullet.

Mrs. Goodbody's statement that the killer said nothing on firing was at variance with the testimony of two ambulance men who took Mrs. Williams to the hospital—Fred Lindsey, 1133 Wrightwood av., and Pringle Terrill, 5249 N. Christiana av. They quoted Mrs. Williams as saying the killer shouted, "I'll get you." Both quoted Mrs. Williams as saying the killer was about Mrs. Goodbody's height. Terrill in addition told of seeing a woman, "with fear written on her face," fleeing from the Drake after the shooting.

E. E. Jantz (left), Drake hotel key clerk, to be questioned again, and Louis Andrews, assistant waiter captain, who was asked to take lie detector test.

Hotel Employes Heard.

Among other key witnesses were Edwin E. Jantz, a key clerk; Louis Andrews, a waiter captain, also known as Leo Andrews, and John D. Tierney, a house detective.

Jantz, who lives at 4035 Sheridan rd. and once was a school principal in Racine, Wis., was grilled as to whether he ever impersonated a female or associated with men who did so. He denied this, except that he said he attended a Parent-Teacher association masquerade in Racine years ago in which men posed as women and vice versa.

Jantz said he gave Mrs. Williams' key to her at 6:20 p. m., that a duplicate key then remained in her key box, and that he was positive she came to the desk alone.

"I was at the desk, looking into space, when Mrs. Williams came up the lobby stairs, and I saw no one else," Jantz insisted. Mrs. Goodbody had declared she accompanied her mother.

Testimony on Key Disputed.

Jantz's story that the duplicate key was in the box was disputed by House Detective Tierney, who said it was missing at 8:45 p. m. and back at 10:30 p. m. It is presumed the killer entered Mrs. Williams' room with a key, probably the duplicate key Tierney declared was missing for a time.

Andrews assumed the role of a vital witness because of his testimony that immediately after the shooting he saw a fur clad woman on the sixth floor, and that because of her "brilliant red hair," he thought she resembled "Mrs. Murphy." He referred to Mrs. Ellen Bennett, a key clerk, and ex-gun girl, once convicted of assault, who was living in the Drake and posing as the wife of Patrick F. Murphy, a guest.

Mrs. Bennett was held and questioned five days last week, but convinced police she had no knowledge of the crime. Andrews said the red haired woman he saw was in a hurry and turned toward the service stairway, on a lower floor of which the murder gun later was found. At the end of his testimony, Andrews was asked by Prosecutor Pope to submit to a lie detector test.

Busboy Recites Description.

Another witness was Walter Shawkee, a busboy, first in Mrs. Williams' room after the shooting. He jotted down on paper her description of the slayer, which was that she was middle aged and gray haired. He denied having seen the woman. He was followed by Dr. T. J. Coogan, 1245 Astor st., who told of administering first aid to Mrs. Williams.

One of the day's most interesting witnesses was Williams. He expressed the opinion that his wife's slayer was either demented or a robber, and that his wife was slain by mistake. She had no enemies, he said, and he smiled negatively at suggestions that her unpublished book on their life in Japan inspired an international motive.

It was his further belief, he said, that his wife struggled with her assailant to protect Mrs. Goodbody. Mrs. Williams was fearless, he said, while, in contrast, Mrs. Goodbody was timid. As he left the stand he inspected the death gun, saying he never saw it before.

HOLDUP KILLER'S BODY UNCLAIMED IN JOLIET PRISON

The body of Robert Scott, 43, lay unclaimed yesterday in state prison at Joliet, where he had served 17 years of a life sentence for participating with his brother, Russell, in the holdup murder of a Chicago drug store clerk. Scott died in prison Monday night.

The warden's office said there had been no reply to a message sent to his widow, an actress known professionally as Kay O'Donnell, believed to live in Toronto, Ont.

Prison officials said the convict's known estate amounted to $74. Russell Scott, who sought to throw full blame for the slaying on his brother, hanged himself in a county jail cell Oct. 8, 1927, while awaiting a sanity hearing.

As a result of a suggestion by Mayor Kelly, an ordinance designed to stop black market dealing in railroad tickets will be offered to the city council today by Corporation Counsel Hodes.

The proposed ordinance will make it illegal for any one to sell tickets from Chicago to any point within the United States at a profit of more than $1 over regular rates charged by the railroads.

SOLDIERS FIGHT POLICE IN NEGRO QUARTER; 6 HURT

Asheville, N. C., Feb. 8 [Special]. —A city policeman was struck with a brick and three Negro soldiers and two white military policemen were slightly injured in a melee in this city's Negro section early today as 600 members of a Negro engineers battalion celebrated their return from a construction job.

The Negroes were on their way to Camp Sutton, near Monroe, N. C., from the Tennessee valley authority's Fontana dam, where they had been working. They had been quartered for the night in a tobacco warehouse but gathered about midnight in the Negro quarter. Fighting broke out when two military police arrested a hilarious soldier.

Chief of Police C. W. Dermid said he sent city officers to the aid of the unarmed military police and that order was restored after a few scuffles and without resort to shooting. Officers with shotguns and gas bombs surrounded the area but did not enter it. The chief said several Negro shopkeepers reported damage to their establishments and said the soldiers helped themselves to food and drinks without paying.

U. S. ABANDONS COSTLY AMAZON RUBBER EFFORT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 [Special].—After two years of costly effort, the United States is pulling out of the business of developing rubber production in Brazil's Amazon valley, it was announced here today by a spokesman for the Rubber Development corporation, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Hereafter, it was said, the government will let Brazil manage and take all responsibility for natural rubber development. RDC will buy top grade rubber from Brazil at 60 cents a pound on shipboard, and the American managers and experts who for two years have sought to wrest rubber from the jungle thru New Deal alphabetical methods will come home.

New Price Is Increase.

The new price of 60 cents a pound represents an increase of 15 cents a pound over the price agreed upon between the United States and Brazil two years ago. The Brazilian government has agreed to make $500,000 available immediately to keep production under way.

Announcement of the new agreement with Brazil was regarded here as an admission that the RDC Amazon program has been a failure. Huge sums have been expended in recruiting, transporting, and maintaining rubber workers, with estimates on costs running from $1.12 a pound to as much as $50 a pound. About 24,000 tons of Amazon rubber reached the United States in 1943, according to RDC.

Flour for Rubber Workers.

When this country's Amazon adventure was begun in 1942, the rubber reserve company was given supervision of the project by RFC. A year ago RDC took over to enable RRC to concentrate on the synthetic program. Hopes were originally expressed that 50,000 tons of rubber a year could be obtained from Brazil. The American program included the equipping of rubber workers with sewing machines, shotguns, patent outhouses and white flour.

WIFE DIVORCES R. H. M'CORMICK FOR DESERTION

Mrs. Eleanor R. McCormick, 1260 Astor st., was granted a divorce yesterday from Robert Hall McCormick, a lawyer, in the Circuit court of Judge Robert J. Dunne on a charge of desertion. Mrs. McCormick's attorney, Arthur D. Welton Jr., told the court they were married Jan. 22, 1903, and separated Jan. 10, 1930. In response to questioning by McCormick's attorney, William F. Ader, Mrs. McCormick said that she waived alimony; that an out of court property settlement had been agreed upon. Two witnesses accompanied Mrs. McCormick into court, Mrs. Adelaide H. Ryerson and John H. Chapman. The McCormicks are parents of three children, Eleanor, Helen, and Robert H. Jr.

ASKS EXPULSION OF 2 TRUSTEES AT LAKE ZURICH

A petition demanding the expulsion from office of two veteran trustees of the village of Lake Zurich was filed yesterday by Charles Mionske, a contractor and subdivision owner. He charged that Ferguson Harkness, a trustee for 22 years, owes the village $98 on a water bill, and Henry Schaefer, a trustee for 26 years, owes $48 on a water bill and is $28 delinquent on personal property taxes. Mionske's attorney, Philip Populorum of Waukegan, said the delinquencies are sufficient cause, under the law, for expulsion of the trustees.

2,200 YANKS DIE UNDER RIGORS OF JAP PRISON LIFE

Col. Dyess Tells How Men Turned to Religion.

The late Lt. Col. W. E. Dyess' story of his life in Japanese prison camps in the Philippines after the fall of Bataan proceeds today with an account of new brutalities inflicted upon American soldiers confined there. Lt. Col. Dyess was killed in an airplane crash in California last Dec. 22, several months after his escape from the Japs.

Filling Up on Malted Milks

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Catherine Rust (right) serves the late Lt. Col. W. E. Dyess (left) three malted milks at fountain of Ashford General hospital in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Mrs. Dyess watches her husband, then a major, satisfy a desire he had since he was captured by Japs in the Philippines.

In our first week at O'Donnell prison camp the Japs began impressing American and Filipino prisoners into labor gangs despite the appalling physical condition to which they had been reduced by starvation, disease, and lack of medical attention.

Each day the Jap guards led out the details of men, half of whom were unable to stand, let alone work. Oftener than not, these men failed to return in the evenings. There were deaths by the dozens in the barracks each night. And these were men the Japs contended were physically able to work.

The prisoners were organized into companies of 200 each with an American officer at its head. The officers went along with the men, but were not allowed to supervise the work. If we could have assigned the men to the tasks, sparing the enfeebled soldiers and shifting the heavier work to the stronger ones, we might have been able to save many lives.

Insulted and Abused.

But we were used chiefly as interpreters and as butts for the jokes, insults, and abuse of the Japs. By May 15, a month after our internment at O'Donnell, less than 20 men of each company were able to go on detail and not many of these were able to labor in the hot sun.

For those unable to go on detail the Japs had another treatment. Regardless of physical condition they were lined up, each time when the heat was greatest, supposedly to stand inspection.

Many of these inspections never came off. At other times the Japs would pretend to count us. The idea was to keep the prisoners standing as long as possible in the glaring heat. Many collapsed and died.

In the two months we spent at O'Donnell more than 2,200 American war prisoners died. The Filipino death toll was many times this. Most of the deaths were caused by disease bred of mosquitoes, filth, heat, and abuse. But if the Japs had allowed us just a little more food I am convinced there would have been far fewer deaths.

A Land of Plenty.

The Philippines were a land of plenty. In addition to their own food supply, brought with them when they invaded, the Japs had vast stores captured from the Americans and had access to the bountiful natural food resources of the islands. Therefore, the conclusion is inescapable that the Japs deliberately had set out to starve us.

Our diet was chiefly rice, served three times a day. The Japs gave us meat twice in two months. Neither time was there enough to flavor our watery soup. On these two occasions less than a fourth of the men got any meat to eat and the portion for those who did was one piece, less than an inch square.

Once in a while they gave us inferior sweet potatoes. Many of these were too rotten to eat. Nevertheless, it was necessary to post guards at the garbage dumps to prevent starving men from eating those that had been thrown away. The sweet potato ration per man was usually one spoonful.

Receive Mango Beans.

Until the last of our stay at O'Donnell there were no knives with which to peel the potatoes. They were boiled with their skins on and mashed with a two by four timber in a 55 gallon oil drum.

Occasionally we were given mango beans, a kind of cow pea. These were considered a great delicacy. A spoonful of beans plus some of the watery soup in which they had been cooked helped make a tasty meal when poured over rice.

Once or twice there was flour, which we mixed with bean juice to make a pasty gravy. The issues of coconut lard—practically our only protein—totaled one teaspoonful for the two months. A little food trickled thru from the American and British Red Cross, but the parcels the Japs permitted to reach us were scanty in relation to our needs.

Japanese authorities forbade outside purchases by those who had managed to secrete their money. As a result, Jap soldiers set up an intramural black market. The tiny tin of fish which we purchased for $5 for our dying squadron mate was typical of the goods and prices in the black market.

Camp Kitchens Filthy.

The filth that pervaded the camp was not absent in the kitchens. These were shacks with dirt floors. They hummed with flies and mosquitoes. There were no cleaning facilities.

Each American kitchen was provided with two cauldrons, a shovel for scooping up rice, and the 55 gallon drum already mentioned. There was no water for washing these utensils or the food.

There was water only for cooking and drinking. I was in O'Donnell prison 35 days before I had a bath—in one gallon of stolen water. My clothing was unchanged or unwashed for six weeks.

The stream that meandered thru the reservation was befouled from the dysentery epidemic. Delirious men had to be restrained forcibly from drinking its vile waters. Several Filipinos eluded the self-appointed guards, drank from the stream, and were dead in a few days.

During the last 10 days at O'Donnell the rains came, flushing out the little waterway. We washed our clothing and bathed—without soap, of course. No razors were allowed in camp, so we had long straggly beards.

Our talk and thoughts were almost continually of food; food we had enjoyed in the past, food we craved now, and food we intended to enjoy upon our release. At first I wanted steaks; big Hereford steaks from Shackleford county, Texas. Then my fancy settled upon eggs. I wanted them fried and by the platter.

Each night as I lay down to sleep I was tortured by this craving. I dreamed of them. Sometimes it seemed I was wallowing in gargantuan plates of eggs, smashing the yellows and absorbing them thru my pores.

As it always is in dreams, I never could taste or smell the eggs. Invariably I awakened, madder than hell and hungrier than before. When a man actually is starving he loses all desire for food and merely grows weaker and weaker. The artful Japs gave us just enough food to keep us in an agony of hunger at all times.

Talk of Milkshakes.

Our talks about food sometimes almost drove us crazy. I recall one agonizing session that had to do with chocolate milkshakes. I said if I could have all the thick milkshakes I could drink I would give $500 for them. This seemed to hit the spot with the others. Our misery descended to new depths.

There was little talk about the folks at home. Our thoughts of them we kept bottled up within ourselves. When I thought of my parents, my sister, and my wife I always calculated the time of day where they were.

This was done by subtracting 24 hours from Manila time and adding eight hours. This gave me San Francisco time. Addition of two more hours gave me central war time, which is observed at Albany, Tex., and Champaign, Ill., the homes of my loved ones. But I never mentioned them to the other fellows.

Some of the men became more and more reticent and eventually ceased to talk at all. A captain in our immediate group would allow days to pass without uttering a syllable. Another captain talked incessantly to any one who would listen and to himself. He had been strafed and bombed repeatedly. The doctors said he was demented.

As is always true of men cast away in adversity, we began to think a great deal of religion. This was chiefly in our minds and souls, however. There was little surface indication of the trend except for Bible reading. A few Testaments had been smuggled into the camp and the Red Cross had sent in a few.

During the entire time I was in Japanese prisons I never saw an idle Bible. In the daylight hours those little volumes were being read constantly. You never saw men on their knees at prayer, either singly or in groups. But there was a very definite communion between ourselves and God.

In the early days at O'Donnell prison the Japs forbade us to hold divine services. Later the Protestant and Catholic chaplains who, like ourselves, were prisoners of war, renewed their appeals and permission was granted.

Impressed by Sermons.

Protestant services were held outdoors each Sunday in the early morning, before the sun grew too hot. The fellows sat on the ground around the chaplain. They sang a few hymns every one knew. The sermons impressed me greatly. They were simple, yet solid. Oratory and what is known as "pulpit personality" were absent.

The chaplains spoke to us as God might have; simply and directly. A lot of us embraced religion, but it was not a whooping and hollering religion. We prayed, but did it silently. I asked for help and strength and for forgiveness when I felt I had transgressed or had shirked my duty as a Christian.

I never thought of God or addressed Him as a distant, awesome being somewhere in the sky. I felt much closer to Him than that. It may seem strange to some, but I thought of Him as "The Old Man"—the affectionate, respectful title soldiers apply to a commanding officer.

When it was necessary to take a long chance I would say to myself: "I have nothing to worry about. The Old Man will see me thru."

Bullet Crystalizes Belief.

I was brought up a Presbyterian and had been taught predestination and fatalism, but it was a Jap bullet that crystalized these teachings into belief. I was over the enemy lines in a P-40 when a slug came up from below, knocked off part of my radio set, and zinged out thru the top of the plane. If I hadn't been leaning over to look out the left side of the cockpit it would have caught me just back of the chin and have plowed upward into my skull.

I thought about this a great deal when I got down. What prank of fate had saved me from that bullet? I decided it could have been only one thing: It simply had not been my day to get it.

When I had pursued that line of thought to its conclusion I was a fatalist. This fortified me in the last days of Bataan and thru the tragic days I spent in Japanese prisons.

We had just begun to look forward to the Sunday services when the Japs ordered them discontinued. After a couple of weeks, however, the ban was lifted.

Catholic Boys Attend Mass.

The Catholic boys attended mass in one of the prison buildings. There was no altar, the priests having to use benches or whatever was available. There were, of course, no candles or vestments.

The Japs allowed the priests enough flour to make the thin, unleavened wafers or Hosts used in Holy Communion. In camps where we later were confined, the priests were supplied with vestments by the international Red Cross. The Japs also permitted construction of altars.

None of us ever was able to understand why the Japs allowed us the solace of religion. It was a strange departure from their policy of inhumanity. There probably was a selfish reason. Maybe they thought religion would soften us. If they figured that way they figured wrong.

Crush Japan to Save Captives, Bataan Groups Ask in Capital

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—Rescue of the survivors of Bataan and Corregidor and an advance on Tokio must be the nation's primary war aims, representatives of organizations working for the relief of American prisoners of war in the Philippines said today on their arrival in the capital for two meetings of their groups.

"The White House has said it is impossible to get relief to our boys in Japanese hands, so the only thing to do is rescue them," said Dr. V. H. Spensley of Albuquerque, N. M., founder and president of the Bataan Relief organization.

Albert McArthur, president of the American Bataan clan, Maywood, Ill., said the American people demand an offensive against the Japanese and that the official release of accounts of Japanese atrocities on American survivors had intensified that demand.

Groups from 16 States.

Mrs. Lucy Palermo of Chicago, president of the Bataan Relief organization of Illinois, also was in Washington for the meetings.

Dr. Spensley will preside at a meeting Thursday of representatives of 37 Bataan relief groups from 16 states. He said he will suggest a petition or resolution calling upon each organization to urge congress to speed action for a major offensive against the Japanese.

Sen. Chavez [D., N. M.] will be the prinicipal speaker at Thursday's meeting. Sen. Reynolds [D., N. C.], chairman of the senate military affairs committee, and Rep. Knutson [R., Minn.] also are expected to speak, Spensley said.

Fund Raising Specialist.

The other meeting of Bataan relief groups will be held tomorrow afternoon at the call of the "organization committee for the Bataan Relief Foundation and Philippine relief," with headquarters in New York. Its guiding spirit is George Djamgaroff, public relations and fund raising specialist. Brig Gen. John Ross Delafield of New York will preside as temporary chairman, according to the committee's announcement.

The foundation's meeting will be held in the offices of the president's war relief control board, which coordinates fund raising appeals for war relief organizations. Charles P. Taft, state department adviser and acting chairman of the control board, said the Bataan Foundation meeting was not sponsored officially and that the board's only function was to provide a meeting place.

BRITAIN ASKS PROBE OF NAZI DEATH EDICT FOR 5 WAR PRISONERS

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—The British government today asked the Swiss government, its intermediary with Germany, to investigate a German report that five British prisoners of war, recaptured in Italy, had been sentenced to death.

"These men are prisoners of war and therefore entitled to all the privileges and protection conferred upon such prisoners by the Geneva prisoners of war convention," said a foreign office statement. It asked for "full particulars with the least possible delay."

The German news agency DNB said in a broadcast that six escaped war prisoners had been arrested in the Piedmont Alps of northern Italy, and five had been sentenced to death. It gave no reason for the sentences, except that the men "have been the terror of the population."

TARAWA NATIVES NURSED YANKS, ASSERTS MARINE

Pvt. LeRoy Hlavacek

Pvt. LeRoy G. Hlavacek, 23, a marine machine gunner who was wounded by a Jap sniper in the invasion of Tarawa, said yesterday that the natives of the Gilbert Islands' atoll welcomed the American troops and did everything possible for the comfort of the wounded. He is at his home at 4856 Huron st., on sick leave.

The natives brought gifts of fruit to the wounded soldiers, sailors, and marines, he said, and fanned them with palm leaves as they lay in the temporary hospital rooms. Hlavacek, who was shot in the leg, said two natives attended him almost constantly.

Red Cross Tents Shelled at Anzio Beachhead.

BY DANIEL DE LUCE.

2d Lt. Esther Collins

WITH THE 5TH ARMY ON THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD, Italy, Feb. 8 (AP).—A jammed beachhead evacuation hospital—so plainly marked with Red Crosses that it couldn't have been mistaken for anything else—was bombed by a German dive bomber yesterday. Today the death toll from the attack had reached 27, with 68 wounded still in a critical condition.

Altho first reports indicated the attack was deliberate, Acting Commander Lt. Col. Hubert L. Binkley of Denver, Colo., said a summary of eye-witness reports indicated the German bomber may have jettisoned his bombs while trying to escape from a Spitfire on his tail.

The dead included two officers, three nurses, one Red Cross worker, 15 enlisted men of the hospital personnel and six patients who had been waiting to be admitted. Forty-five hospital workers were wounded, including nine officers and three nurses. About 20 patients received new injuries. The American nurses were the first to die thru direct enemy action in this war.

Chicagoan Tells of Attack.

Second Lt. Esther Collins of 5961 W. Superior st., Chicago, explained that fewer patients were hit than hospital personnel because the patients were stretched out on their cots. Doctors, nurses, and attendants were standing and caught the full blast from the waist upward.

[Lt. Collins, 30, is the daughter of Mrs. Katherine Collins. She was superintendent of nurses at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium until she entered the army three years ago.]

Lt. Helen Talboy of Des Moines, Ia., said, "We lost the chief and assistant nurse. Operations had to cease. One of the surgeons was wounded in midoperation. Blood plasma bottles were broken and medicine was flowing on the floor."

The X-ray laboratory was wrecked and considerable equipment, critically needed to care for the wounded from the continuing struggle on the beachhead, was destroyed.

Land Near Red Cross Marker.

Other nurses related that Lt. Talboy took charge. She collected the surviving nurses, gave them bandages and first aid equipment and started them caring for the wounded. She helped to supervise the first aid work and saw that the dead were covered as quickly as possible.

Some of the witnesses estimated the plane swooped in as low as 500 feet and dropped its load of anti-personnel bombs, which tore thru the big green hospital tents—situated a mile from the nearest military objective—and in some cases shredded the canvas like fishnets.

One of the witnesses, Corp. Jeff Young, told of walking out of his tent just as the plane come over.

"That pilot knew what he was doing all right. He seemed to aim right at the Red Cross. I dived for a foxhole—and just made it."

Saved by Arrival of Mail.

Several other survivors owed their lives to the arrival of the mail. They were away from the administration center when the bombs struck in the late afternoon.

A British army captain, who was visiting a wounded American friend, said "we heard the plane. Then a blast blew me off the cot. A beautiful nurse, who had just been talking to us, was on the ground dead. She had just told us, 'I have received such lovely letters from home this morning. Today is perfect.'"

Praise from all the officers and men was high today for the courage and efficiency of the nurses surviving the attack. When the bombing was over, the entire surviving personnel went right on with its work.

A mass burial will be held tomorrow. All will be buried in a common grave in the new American military cemetery at Nettuno.

Claim Attack on Hospital Ship.

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Berlin radio asserted today that British planes bombed and machine-gunned the 900 ton Swedish Red Cross ship Wiril in a harbor of the Aegean island of Chios yesterday, killing a Dr. Nielson, Swedish Red Cross representative, and members of the Swedish crew. No comment was available immediately from Swedish or allied sources.

The broadcast said six multi-engined British planes made three low level attacks which started fires on the motor ship. Among the wounded was a Greek physician, Dr. Champlakos, the broadcast added.

"The Wiril was far distant from any military target," it continued. "She was clearly marked as a Red Cross vessel. The fact that the ship was bombed three times in a low level attack in the noon hours proves the intention of the British to violate international law."

[The American Swedish news exchange in New York said Stockholm had announced the bombing of the Wiril by six British planes and that K. E. Nilsson, a representative of the Red Cross, and four members of the crew were seriously injured. The Wiril was partially burned, the agency said.]

Scram! Presidential Fight Private, Britons Warned

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Giving a hint to Britons, the Daily Mail carried a cartoon today on the "Grand All-American Presidential Championship" under the caption "Seconds Keep Out." The cartoon depicts a gym with Roosevelt and Willkie rapping punching bags and Dewey skipping rope while the doorman with an Uncle Sam beard sneers at a meek British face trying to peek in the door and orders, "Scram, this is private, see!"

tor along the highway running thru Cisterna appeared to have entrenched themselves strongly, but elsewhere around the beachhead the front line is fluid and subject to change from day to day.

[A dispatch filed by Homer Bigart for the combined American press said the Germans had committed fresh reënforcements to battle. There were two sharp engagements in the Cisterna di Littoria area. A small gain by the Germans in one attack was balanced by a slight advance of Americans in a neighboring sector. The constant feeling-out of allied lines may presage an effort to crush the bridgehead, Bigart said. The Germans are operating with increasing boldness.]

Senior officers said the battle terrain was similar to that of northern France in the first World war, except that foxholes with two or three men in each have taken the place of long trenchworks. The infantry on both sides must endure grueling artillery fire and allied positions are exposed to observation from the inland hills held by the enemy.

Down 19 Nazi Planes.

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Feb. 8 (AP).—The allied air force again has demonstrated its mastery over the Anzio beachhead by shooting down 19 out of a force of 70 attacking Nazi planes. But any hopes allied commanders may have had of an early conquest of Rome now are gone.

Wave after wave of bomb carrying Focke-Wulf fighters swept over yesterday in a savage attempt to wreck allied landing operations and harass defending troops. American and British fighters ripped into them so effectively that most enemy formations were broken up before they reached their objectives.

Allied medium bombers attacked railway yards at Viterbo and oil storage tanks at Leghorn. German troops and concentrations of supplies were hit at Cisterna.

In all, 26 enemy craft were destroyed during the day, including two gliders downed over the Gulf of Genoa. Five allied planes were missing.

Allies "Consolidate Positions."

Eighteen days after the initial landings, the American and British force on the beachhead is fighting on an area inclosed by an arc some 30 miles in length and extending inland about eight miles. But it is faced by a probably superior German force.

Today's allied war bulletin said merely that 5th army troops "consolidated their positions in the beachhead area." It was disclosed that the Nazis used flame throwers and tanks in their most recent attack Saturday night west of Cisterna, when they penetrated American positions for 500 yards.

Lt. Gen. Clark was within 100 yards of a German bomb explosion on the main beachhead road yesterday and rescued a British driver from the wreckage of a burning truck. The 5th army commander was on a brief inspection trip.

After five days of fighting in the streets of Cassino on the main front, the Germans still hold three-fourths of the shattered town, including its center. They also hold open a supply corridor into the embattled place, tho American infantry is slowly closing in on this passage in a grim, uphill struggle.

GERMAN WAR REPORT

Of the fighting in Italy, Tuesday's German war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin said:

"On the fronts of the landing head of Nettuno, there was only slight fighting on Monday. An attack by an American battalion was smashed and three enemy tanks were destroyed. In the evening, strong German shock troops in the area of Aprilia [Carroceto] broke stubborn enemy resistance and improved local German positions. Long range artillery again shelled enemy ship concentrations and disembarkations at Nettuno. One transport was set afire.

"The air force, by day and night, is effectively attacking enemy disembarkations in the Nettuno and Anzio harbors.

"On the southern front, enemy pressure northwest of Cassino was continued tho no major fighting took place. Enemy regrouping operations, due to severe casualties of the last few days, were recognized."

MIDWEST YANKS IN TANKS BATTLE NAZIS IN CASSINO

Illinoisans' Blast Sniper Nests and Pillboxes.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Feb. 8.—As American and German tanks battled for control of the northern outskirts of Cassino today, a graphic account of the fighting inside the town was given by tank crews emerging after supporting the infantry advance 48 hours.

Corp. Sam Fortess of 1607 S. Ridgeway av., Chicago, a gunner of a Sherman tank that entered the town Sunday afternoon, told of continual machine gun and sniper attacks which rattled bullets against his machine while the crew cleaned out pillboxes and smashed sniper nests.

"We couldn't keep our heads out of the turret long enough to get a breath of fresh air," said the lanky, red bearded former truck driver. "We fired our 75 [millimeter gun] at the Germans at less than 50 yards range. The main trouble was that it was hard to maneuver. The enemy has a line right across the northern edge of the town. Every block seems like a new defense line."

Another Beard Blossoms.

Another Illinoisan from the same tank group, Pvt. Lawrence High of Danville, a radio operator and assistant gunner, said he stuck his head out just once and drew several sniper shots, one of which splintered the periscope above his head. After that, said this youth who has grown a Van Dyke beard, he was content to remain inside the tank.

Sgt. Pickney Upchurch of Peoria, Ill., won high praise from his comrades by ignoring the enemy fire to toss hand grenades thru windows which Nazi riflemen were using for cover. When the grenade supply was exhausted he leaned out of his tank to fire a tommy gun.

When Sgt. Wilbert Stoppenhagen of Decatur, Ind., took a look out the turret of his tank his helmet was pierced by an enemy machine gun bullet. The bullet passed thru covering of the helmet, the inner core, and the cloth cap worn underneath. Miraculously, it failed to touch Stoppenhagen.

Yanks Shell Castle.

"I guess that's what you call knocking at the door," the tank commander said seriously. "But really, I didn't feel anything except a jar and a warm flash across my head."

He had a new helmet today and was back tinkering with his tank engine, ready to return to the battle as soon as ordered.

From the edge of the town, where the Germans were shelling roads and by-paths constantly, it was possible to watch the tanks smash the buildings in which the Nazis were entrenched while the enemy guns sought out the Shermans. Adding to the noise were the concussions of the shells landing on our positions on the hills above, where doughboys were attempting to cut off the Germans from their last observation point over the Liri valley.

Great Peril Seen in Allies' Delay at Anzio Beachhead

BY WES GALLAGHER.

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Failure to exploit the early success of the landings in the Anzio-Nettuno beachhead south of Rome may jeopardize a major allied position in the Mediterranean for the first time since 1942.

The bridgehead, designed as a great offensive thrust to break the back of German resistance, instead has become a costly Tobruk-like defensive position.

Forced to supply the beachhead from the sea, the allies face a steady drain on shipping thru attacks by German rocket glider bombs.

Few Nazis There at Outset.

In the original landings scattered handfuls of Germans stood between the allied force and the two key roads to the 5th army front and Rome itself.

The allied command had two choices:

1. A dash for Rome and the highways, then to risk the ability to bring in supplies and keep the Germans so disorganized they could not mount a successful counterthrust.

2. To move inland a few miles, bring all supplies and make sure they could not be shoved into the sea, and then move forward.

Early Advantages Lost.

The latter course was chosen, despite the fact the allies had achieved the goal desired by all generals—numerical superiority at a given point of attack.

It now is apparent the advantages of surprise and numerical superiority have been lost.

Because of the allied domination of the skies, there is little danger of being thrown into the sea, but progress from the beachhead may be as slow as that on the 5th army's Cassino front, where every inch is contested.

The decision to take a cautious role in the bridgehead is not the responsibility of any one commander but must be shared equally by Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark, Gen. Harold Alexander, and Gen. Henry Maitland Wilson, all of whom were on the scene and could have taken the responsibility for a push forward.

Briton Defends Position.

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—Nothing in the present situation suggests the allies have lost the initiative in Italy, Brig. Gen. Horace Sewell, military expert of the British information services, asserted today. Gen. Sewell's formal statement apparently was prompted by remarks of an unnamed British military official, who said yesterday in Washington, D. C., that the allies appeared to be losing some of the initiative in the beachhead south of Rome.

"The German attack on the beachhead is a defensive action on their part . . . and is designed to eliminate the threat to their line of communication," Sewell said.

TELL HOW NAZIS' ROCKETS PIERCE WARSHIP ARMOR

NAPLES, Feb. 8 (AP).—When the great invasion of Europe begins one responsibility of the allied air forces will be to prevent use by Germans of rocket glider bombs. It is no breach of security to say this Nazi weapon is a potent threat against shipping. The Germans know it, the allies know it.

An invasion fleet at anchor is like a flock of sitting ducks unless air cover intercepts the control plane which directs the gliders by radio.

Anti-aircraft Handicapped.

Anti-aircraft fire is only partly effective against the small winged projectiles which sweep down swiftly and are difficult to hit. The Germans used glider bombs against the invasion fleet at Salerno and at Anzio during the 5th army's thrust. Censorship prevented disclosure of its effectiveness until Winston Churchill announced its use at Salerno. At Anzio correspondents were forbidden to say the Germans were using rocket bombs.

These restrictions have now been lifted.

What Rockets Look Like.

From descriptions by eyewitnesses it is learned the bombs are about 20 to 30 feet long, with tail fins acting as stabilizers and rudders. Each bomb has a wingspread of some 15 feet. In flight it resembles a small plane.

It is armor-piercing. At Salerno one rocket that hit a ship penetrated thick steel deck plates, exploding in the craft's interior.

The bomb is attached to the belly of a twin engined Heinkel bomber, the control plane. When approaching the target the bomber's pilot releases the glider, drops the flaps on his plane's wings to slow his own speed as the bomb shoots ahead into the pilot's vision.

After release the glider is controled visually and directed by radio. The glider can make a sharp turn to swoop on its target from the side if necessary.

Are Always Under Control.

Unless the control plane is in trouble or the glider is hit by shrapnel the bomb appeared to observers to be under complete control at all times.

Rocket bombs do not always score hits. Many fall into the sea, either because the pilot loses control or because they overshoot the target.

Whether the enemy can muster a large fleet of gliders is not known, but it is logical—and the allied air forces go on the assumption—that the Germans can concentrate large numbers against an invasion armada. And the air forces must protect shipping from this attack.

Witnesses describe a red and green glow at the tail of the glider when the rocket is in flight. This is caused by the propelling charge. At Anzio beach Capt. Clark Neal of Clarendon, Ark., was at a ship rail when the Germans attacked with glider bombs.

"I saw one heading for a ship near us," he said. "It made a screaming sound in flight and looked like a small plane. There was a light in the tail end which changed from green to red. It looked like a faint tracer."

RUSSIA REPORTS POLES ARREST 50 FRIENDS OF REDS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

MOSCOW, Feb. 8.—Polish military authorities in Jerusalem have arrested 50 Polish officers and men in the last three months, a Tass news agency message from Istanbul, Turkey, said today.

The prisoners were charged with sending a telegram to Gen. Berling, commander in chief of the 1st Polish corps in the U. S. S. R., in which they declared their desire to fight against the Germans on the Polish borders and expressed opinion that the way to Poland thru Smolensk was shorter than by way of Rome, the dispatch said. They were reported to have expressed opinion also that Poland's future lay in friendship and close collaboration with the U. S. S. R.

Among those reported arrested were former lawyers, doctors, government officials, and school teachers, including three women.

GERMANS OPEN SLOVENIA DRIVE, SAYS TITO RADIO

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—A new German offensive along the Adriatic coast in Slovenia was reported tonight by the "Free Jugo-Slav" radio.

An earlier broadcast said Nazi forces in the Croatian province of Lika had captured the railway station of Perusic, on the Belgrade-Split line. It said the forces of Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz had killed 40 Germans in crushing a Nazi detachment near Brod in the Bosnia-Sanjak area. In Slavonia, a German motorized column was beaten, and near Jastrebarsko, in Crotia, units of a cavalry division were annihilated.

The Nazis, it was explained, are rushing reënforcements to the new action near Perusic.

About 100 Negroes were driven from their rooms in a three floor apartment building at 5442 Prairie av., yesterday by a fire started by a cigaret. The damage was $6,500.

Sweden Hears Quisling's Troops Will Aid Invaders

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 8 (AP).—The Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter said today that Quisling troops in Norway are ready to aid an allied invasion of Norway. It estimated Quisling troops at 4,500. Quisling's Nazi sponsored legion plans to kill their leaders and go over to the invaders, said the newspaper.

JAP GENERAL'S ICEBOX RAIDED; BEER FOR YANKS!

Marines Capture His Luxurious Home.

BY JACK TURCOTT.
[New York News Correspondent.]

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Feb. 8.—The entire Japanese military structure in western New Britain seemed on the edge of collapse today after the enemy commander and his personal staff had fled toward Rabaul from an elaborate headquarters town erected in the wilderness.

Evidence found by United States marines from Cape Gloucester indicated that hundreds of natives, impressed as slave labor, had deserted Lt. Gen. Ideao Matsudo's headquarters and fled into the hills as soon as they learned the marines had overrun western New Britain.

Matsuda's jungle city, an elaborate layout in the midst of miles of well constructed roads and railed paths, disclosed huge caches of captured allied equipment, including foodstuffs.

Iceboxes with Beer!

Iceboxes in the officers' quarters alongside half a dozen mess halls disgorged cases of coco cola and beer, plundered from the Philippines; large piles of tinned Batavian margarine; cans of British potted meats, cocoa, and large stocks of toilet articles. All this testified to the manner in which Matsuda pampered himself. A large stack of third grade books from American schools in the Philippines was found in one barracks.

Eeverywhere the marines found ammunition, formal dress uniforms, and even electric razors.

Matsuda and his staff obviously had made a hurried departure. Huge iron tureens in the kitchens were still filled with soup.

House Is Luxurious.

The general lived in a luxurious two story bamboo-cocoanut palm house surrounded by gardens. His bedroom on the second floor contained an American bed with an eight inch thick mattress and highly polished tables and chairs. Downstairs he had a private prayer room with an altar facing the rising sun.

Beneath the house was a deep, elaborate air raid shelter in which half burned candles, dishes, and scraps of food testified how the general spent many hours sweating out air raids.

Matsuda's luxurious town is run now by 1st Lt. Edward S. Rust of Detroit, Mich., who won the silver star at Guadalcanal. Nicknamed [Mayor Matsuda], Rust sleeps in the general's bed, and reports it is the best he has found since leaving home.

Down 13 More Planes.

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Feb. 9 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Gen. MacArthur's headquarters reported today that 13 more planes were shot down at Rabaul, New Britain, Sunday.

As has been the case on so many days, the enemy's principal fighter base of Lakunai was the target. One hundred and twenty-four tons of explosives hit that field.

In addition to the 13 downed, 10 more probably were destroyed on the seventh raid at Rabaul in nine days.

The targets included shops where planes are repaired and revetments where they are dispersed. These were enveloped by fires and rockd by explosions. The Lakunai runway, which has kept Japanese engineers busy repairing after each attack, again was damaged.

60 Japs in the Air.

Sixty Japanese fighters were in the air, forewarned by the knowledge that the allied air force has been coming over at about the same time daily. "Our own damage was minor," the bulletin said.

A spokesman disclosed that on Sunday night, American destroyers moving to the northern end of Bougainville in the Solomons attacked Green Island, sinking a large enemy barge.

On New Britain, Japanese air attacks are increasing against the American beachhead at Arawe. Some soldiers and natives were wounded in the latest attack. Anti-aircraft fire broke up an enemy air attack on the other New Britain beachhead at Cape Gloucester.

A total of 594 Nipponese aircraft was destroyed in the air in January against allied losses of 119. The figures were disclosed today by a compilation of official reports.

Another 80 Japanese planes were destroyed on the ground and probably 192 more in the air, for a total of 866 enemy aircraft. That total was surpassed only once, last October, when the allies loosed their first great raids on Rabaul and destroyed 506 enemy planes in the air and 337 on the ground and probably accounted for 169 more.

Lose 400 at Rabaul.

The allied total of 119 for January compared with the previous high of 76 in July, 1943. The losses in both months exceeded these figures somewhat, for on various occasions bulletins did not give exact figures.

Japan's effort to hold Rabaul cost heavily in January, as in previous months. More than 400 planes were destroyed there, and probably 132 more. Allied losses there were 78 planes.

AMERICANS RAID FRANKFORT AND 'INVASION COAST'

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Strong formations of Flying Fortresses smashed at the great industrial city of Frankfurt in western Germany today, climaxing a day's aerial offensive in which perhaps 2,500 sorties were flown from British bases.

The R. A. F. took over the night shift of the nonstop aerial assault as a fleet of bombers roared across the channel. The Berlin radio left the air after stations in western Germany warned that allied aircraft were approaching the reich.

A joint United States army force and British air ministry report said American fighters escorting the fortresses to Frankfurt shot down 16 German planes and the heavy bombers accounted for three.

The cost of all the day's combined operations was 12 American heavy bombers, one medium and one light bomber, two fighter bombers, and nine fighters.

The parade of raiders started with a force of approximately 200 American Marauders which hit the enemy's anti-invasion fortifications in northern France. Later Liberators and smaller bombers joined in the attack.

Altho the medium bombers' target was not specified, Flight Officer Rochard E. Robins of Pittsfield, Ill., a Marauder pilot, said: "They can turn the target over to the German scrap drive."

TWO AMERICAN SUBS LOST; WAR TOLL REACHES 19

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 (AP).—A long-range United States submarine of the type that has prowled close to the shores of Japan itself, and a small, old raider are long overdue and obviously lost, the navy announced today.

The missing submarines are the 1,525-ton Cisco, commissioned last May, with a crew of 65 men, and the 850-ton S-44, built 18 years ago and carrying a crew of 45.

Officially listed as missing in action were the skippers, Comdr. James W. Coe, 34 years old, of Richmond, Ind., in the Cisco and Lt. Comdr. Francis E. Brown, 32, of Reno, Nev., in the S-44.

The submarines probably were on patrol in the Pacific. The navy has lost 19 submarines since the start of the war. Against those losses, the undersea arm of the fleet has accounted for 572 Japanese vessels sunk, probably sunk, or damaged.

U. S. TELLS FINNS TO QUIT FIGHTING AGAINST RUSSIA

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP).—The United States has renewed a warning to Finland she must shoulder all responsibility for fighting at the side of the Nazis, Secretary of State Hull said today.

At his press conference President Roosevelt indorsed Hull's statement, giving emphasis to the government's attitude.

This darkened the picture as painted for the Finns by Moscow which broadcast a threat that two devastating Russian air raids on Helsinfors were the prelude to blows aimed at knocking Finland out of the war.

"The crazy Finnish imperialists will likely awaken to see the Red army before the gates of Helsinfors," the Moscow radio said, quoting the offical newspaper Izvestia.

[A dispatch from Berne, Switzerland, said the newspaper Suisse, suggesting Premier Edwin Linkomies of Finland had resigned Tuesday, reported Berlin as officially commenting that the move was an "outright betrayal of the reich by an ally for whom Germany had shed her blood."]

Repeating His Warning.

Hull's statement, in answer to a question about communications between American and Finnish governments, said this government recently told Finland, as it has in the past, that the responsibility for the consequences of Finland's collaboration with German and continuance of war with a number of the allies must be borne solely by the Finnish government.

The United States maintains diplomatic relations with Finland, which is at war with Russia and Great Britain. The allies never have told Finland how she must get out of the war, Finish spokesmen say here. They maintain the Moscow pact on unconditional surrender is directed at the axis powers, and Finland is not included.

Finns Rejected U. S. Proposal.

In August, 1941, the United States forwarded a Russian offer to negotiate peace with Finland. The Finns turned it down.

It is known that up to about a year ago, this government made several attempts to promote peace betwen Finland and Rusia.

MRS. F. D. R. EYES CARIBBEAN TRIP TO BUOY MORALE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 (AP).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today she may visit service men at United States bases in the Caribbean.

She told her press conference such a trip is under consideration, but that no final decision has been reached.

"The boys there [in Caribbean posts] are struggling against the feeling that they endure loneliness and what for?" she explained. "They feel out of it. If I make the trip it would be because my going might give them the feeling they're doing an essential job."

4 NAZI PLANES SHOT DOWN BY YANK IN A DAY

A UNITED STATES FIGHTER BASE IN ENGLAND, Feb. 8 (AP).—Lt. James M. Morris of Detroit, Mich., today became the first American fighter pilot in the European theater to claim destruction of four German planes in one day. And just for good measure the 23 year old flyer shot up a locomotive after his combats.

Piloting a P-38 Lightning, Morris first downed a Messerschmitt-109. Then he got two Focke Wulf-109s. After turning home alone, he sent another ME-109 spinning to earth.

SENATE PASSES CONGLOMERATE ARMY VOTE BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sen. Ferguson.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—The senate passed a hodge-podge of soldier vote legislation today after Sen. Nye [R., N. D.] had accused President Roosevelt of an "insulting" soldier vote message to congress "in part of a seeming program to carry the American people a little closer to fascism and dictatorship."

The legislation was in two parts. One was the house state ballot bill, to which the senate attached a modified version of the Green-Lucas federal ballot bill. The other was the Green-Lucas bill.

Now Go to Conference.

Both bills now go to a senate-house conference, where it was predicted that the Green-Lucas bill would be sidetracked while the conferees struggle with the problem of harmonizing the house stand for a state ballot and the administration-dictated federal ballot plan, which has been severely altered by amendments the administration could not defeat.

Altho the senate's state ballot bill as amended provides a federal ballot commission to be appointed by the President, and a federal ballot, state ballot advocates said it would reduce use of the short federal ballot to a minimum, even if it prevails over the house bill.

U. S. Ballots Curtailed.

Curtailment of use of the federal ballot was accomplished thru an amendment offered by Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.]. It provides that federal ballots be used only if state ballots are not delivered on time. Thus it would effectually limit distribution of federal ballots, Senators said, unless the army and navy fail to coöperate in delivering state ballots.

The administration strategy or confusion which impelled Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.] to push thru two bills puzzled many. But some, getting accustomed to the snarl in which the senate soldier vote legislation has been since Mr. Roosevelt demanded passage of the Green-Lucas measure, suggested this explanation.

Want Ace-in-Hole.

Angered by the President's charge that its state ballot bill was a "fraud," the house rushed the bill thru to passage last Thursday. House conferees, reflecting the house temper, might try to remove the Green-Lucas provisions which the senate attached in passing the house bill. In that case the senate would still have an extra Green-Lucas plan before the conference, if that would help any.

The day's voting was almost overshadowed by the plea of Sen. Nye against passage of the Green-Lucas bill, which Nye said would deny the service men and women a full vote. Asserting that it has been intimated that a senator's chance for reëlection depends upon bowing to the administration ukase, Nye said:

"Never have I felt deeper disgust than I experienced with the purpose behind that insulting message which the President sent to congress in support of this Green-Lucas-Roosevelt proposal. That purpose was one of frightening congress into doing a thing it would not do if left to its own choice.

Part of Program.

"The message was more of this insistent effort which has been on for many, many months to discredit congress and build good-will for the executive at the expense of representative government.

"It was part of the seeming program to carry the American people a little closer to fascism and dictatorship. . . . The people of America, including America's great and courageous boys in the military service, one day will rise in acclaim of what the house did last week when it refused to be browbeaten into submission to the will of the President.

"My disgust with the undertaking by our President is approached only by my disgust with those who, hiding out somewhere behind Robin Hood's barn, get word to me in their roundabout ways that if only I will comply, and support this Green-Lucas-Roosevelt plan, I need have no fear of serious opposition in seeking renomination and reelection in my state this year."

Must Vote by Names.

Three weeks of wrangling over the soldier vote ended late in the day when the senate passed the modified Green-Lucas bill, 47 to 38. Yielding to Republicans and southern Democrats who had united for a state ballot, administration leaders had been forced to give up their plan to require soldiers to vote by parties. The bill has been modified to provide for voting by candidates' names.

As rewritten to meet objections, it forbids officers to march service personnel up to the polls for mass voting, and likewise bans officers from suggesting that soldiers and sailors vote for or against any candidate. Officers, indeed, are forbidden even to suggest that the men and women vote.

The President's federal ballot commission, tho retained, would have no power to pass upon the validity of ballots cast.

Taft Amendment Beaten.

Sen. Ferguson's amendment to the house state ballot bill was regarded by leaders as especially significant because all but half a dozen states have provided for absentee soldier voting or plan to do so. Thus, if state ballots are delivered on time, the federal ballots would be necessary for only the voters from the few states which do not institute absentee voting for service personnel.

The voting drama of the day came on another amendment offered by Sen. Taft [R., O.] to limit by law the federal ballot to soldiers and sailors from the states which fail to provide absentee voting legislation by July.

The administration forces were able to beat this amendment only 45 to 41. Many predicted that the Taft plan would be revived in the conference, and that it might be the basis of a compromise on the state and federal ballots.

The roll call vote on the Taft amendment was:

FOR THE AMENDMENT [41].

AGAINST THE AMENDMENT.

REPUBLICANS—Aiken, Austin, Burton, Danaher, Davis, Ferguson, Langer, Tobey, Vandenberg, Wiley—[10].

DEMOCRATS—Andrews, Barkley, Bone, Chandler, Chavez, Clark [Idaho], Clark [Mo.], Downey, Ellender, Green, Guffey, Hatch, Hayden, Jackson, Kilgore, Lucas, Maloney, Maybank, McFarland, Mead, Murdock, Murray, Pepper, Radcliffe, Stewart, Thomas [Okla.], Thomas [Utah], Truman, Tunnell, Tydings, Wagner, Wallgren, Walsh [Mass.], Walsh [N. J.]—[34].

PROGRESSIVE—La Follotte—[1].

Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.], one of the authors of the Green-Lucas bill, was accused of delaying the soldier vote program while the administration forces were fighting modification of the bill. Near the end of a long speech by Lucas Sen. Brewster [R., Me.] told him:

"The issue is not whether the soldiers vote, but whether the senate votes. Will you let us?"

Three Injured

A Clark street car, derailed turning into its terminus south of Howard st., crashed into an unoccupied store building at 7537 N. Clark st. yesterday, slightly injuring three passengers.

The car was piloted by Alvin Davis, 44, Negro, a student motorman receiving instructions from Motorman G. W. Jones, 61. Those hurt were Miss Susie Butler, 68, of 3239 N. Ashland av.; Mathias Mutter, 34, of 6560 N. Damen av., and George Patris, 48, of 4612 Kelso av.

Mrs. Marcyanna Krauklis, 77, of 821 W. 33d st., was fatally injured yesterday by a street car as she was crossing Halsted st. near 33d st. She was pronounced dead at the Evangelical hospital. C. L. Norton, 64, the motorman, told police Mrs. Krauklis stepped from between two parked automobiles.

SMALL CICERO PRIMARY VOTE PICKS 2 SLATES

Fewer than 5,000 votes were cast yesterday in Cicero's primary election for town officials. Because there was no opposition on either the Republican or Democratic tickets, the 80 precincts were grouped into 18 polling areas. John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the board of election commissioners, said the vote would not be tabulated until today.

The candidates nominated for the election of April 4, one of the few municipal elections in Illinois conducted on party lines, are:

Democratic—Henry J. Sandusky, president; Joseph J. Janda, town clerk; Edward W. Chadl, collector; Ted J. Zaremba, supervisor; A. B. Petkus, assessor, and S. E. Wawrzyniak, trustee.

Calls Fall Election Fight of People vs. Racketeers

Voters will decide in November who is going to run the nation—the people or labor racketeers—Harvey Campbell, executive vice president of the Detroit board of commerce, said yesterday at a luncheon of the Rotary club of Chicago in the Morrison hotel. Post-war political parties are likely to shy from labor indorsement because of the resentment towards labor "by the boys coming back," he said.

Oh, Yeah?

POLITICIAN FINED FOR 'ARRESTING' NOMINEE IN 1943

Maxwell Barbour, Negro political worker in the 3d ward, was fined $1 and costs yesterday in the Municipal court of Judge Dougherty on his conviction of the false arrest and imprisonment last April 4 of Morgan L. Fitch, then Republican nominee for city treasurer in the April 6 election. The fine was the minimum under the law.

Fitch testified that Barbour and four other Negroes forced him at the point of a gun to accompany them to the Wabash avenue police station, where he was held more than an hour. Two other Republican workers were "seized" with Fitch, in front of the home of Ald. De Priest [3d], and taken to the station.

Barbour charged that the three were distributing campaign printed matter of a type calculated to incite racial discord. Judge Dougherty reminded Barbour that the city maintains a police force to make arrests.

LIKE 3D TERM F.D.R. SIDESTEPS QUERY ON 4TH

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—President Roosevelt today sidestepped committing himself on his fourth term aspirations by engaging in banter at his press conference.

To the direct question, "would you accept a fourth term nomination?" he replied that the interrogation was one of those things that went back to the killer of stories—no news on that today. The phrase is one Mr. Roosevelt frequently employs at his press conferences.

It was used in 1939 to kill stories about the third term. On Oct. 27 Mr. Roosevelt said there was no news when he was asked to comment on the statement of the then secretary of agriculture, Henry Wallace, that the international situation had increased the need for the President to run again.

FOUR OF FAMILY DONATE BLOOD FOR THIRD TIME

A sister and three brothers made their third trip together to Red Cross headquarters at 5 N. Wabash av. yesterday to donate their blood to the Red Cross blood bank. As was their established custom, they paused en route to purchase war bonds. Three other members of the family are in the army and navy.

The sister is Mrs. John Zimmers, 1315 W. 82d st., whose only son, Wendell, has received an appointment to West Point. The other blood donors are Leslie Gossage, 1737 Sayre av.; Harold of 6022 N. Claremont av., Cecil of 6152 S. Mozart st., and Floyd, 2605 W. 79th pl.

A 19 year old brother, 2d Lt. Robert Gossage, has been missing in action for a year. He was a gunner in a bomber which was downed over Europe. Another brother, Corp. Lee Gossage, 22, is in action in Italy, and Van Gossage, 20, is a seaman 1st class on the U. S. S. flagship Idaho.

ROBBED IN HALLWAY.

Charles Ross, 111 S. Francisco av., a collector for a loop store, was robbed of his watch, valued at $30, and $5 in currency by two Negroes who seized him in a hallway at 3718 Indiana av. yesterday.

U.S. FIGHTS MOVE TO KILL SEDITION CASE CHARGES

Claims 'Continuing Plot' from 1933 to Date.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—A verbal attack against the United States government or its officials made "by an honest citizen" would not be seditious; by a "Nazi agent," it would, according to O. John Rogge, special assistant to Atty. Gen. Biddle, who is opposing efforts to quash indictments in the so-called sedition case.

Rogge, who is prosecuting the case, made the declaration after Dellmore Lessard, counsel for Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling of Chicago, one of the 30 defendants named in an indictment returned Jan. 3, charged the indictment was faulty. Lessard said it was faulty because the defendants were accused in it of making statements which, if made before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, could not be considered seditious.

Claims Right to Opinion.

Lessard read all of the 24 allegedly seditious statements set forth in the indictment and characterized as propaganda circulated by the defendants to undermine the morale of the army and navy. He asserted that each represented a statement of personal opinion or political thought, which was the right of every free man under the Constitution.

Lessard cited some of these statements as follows:

"The United States is governed, not by the duly elected representatives of the people, but by a group of alien minded persons opposed to American principles and ideals and seeking to overthrow the Constitution of the United States."

"President Roosevelt, by his war mongering policies, is draining dry the resources of the United States to save communist China, imperialist Britain, and atheistic Russia from inevitable defeat."

"The Japanese attack upon Pearl Harbor was deliberately invited by the public officials of the United States in order to involve the United States in a foreign war."

Rogge Answers Arguments.

Rogge replied to arguments made today and yesterday by seven attorneys for five of the defendants on demurrers to quash the indictment. These arguments were based on the grounds that the indictment was "duplicious," barred by the statute of limitations, defective, and seeks to charge the defendants with committing acts from 1933 to date that did not become criminal until June, 1940.

Rogge said the present indictment [which is the third obtained against some of the defendants because two earlier ones were emasculated when brought into court] was drawn in light of the arguments and suggestions made concerning the first two. It is "not duplicious," because it "simply charges one single continuing conspiracy," he said.

The argument that it is barred by the statute of limitations because it was returned more than three and one-half years after proceedings to prosecute were commenced cannot be considered, Rogge said, because the indictment charges that a conspiracy was a continuing one.

He challenged the argument that it is faulty because it sets forth that the National Socialist party came into power in Germany in 1933, and that the defendants cooperated with the Nazis after that time [which was prior to enactment of the sedition law]. He said this statement was written into the indictment to set forth only the "evil intent" of the defendants and the indictment would be no good without a statement of "intent."

Rogge told the court that even if it should find that conspiracy prior to the sedition law's enactment is charged in the indictment, the indictment should nevertheless be sustained. It was on this point that Justice Jesse Adkins threw out the first count of the previous indictment. Rogge told Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher, who succeeded Judge Adkins in the case after Adkins became ill, that Adkins' ruling should be held in error.

Justice Eicher did not rule on the demurrers today. Three persons named in the indictment, George E. Deatherage, James True, and George Sylvester Viereck, were arraigned. All entered pleas of "not guilty."

Charges Cruelty

Mrs. Eleanor C. Gaess with her daughters, Doris (left) and Darlene.

Mrs. Eleanor Gaess, 26, of 1732 Kimball av., a life insurance agent, was granted a divorce from Leroy, 31, of 1017 Fry st., a dry cleaner, by Superior Judge John A. Sbarbaro yesterday on grounds of cruelty. Under questioning of her attorney, Irving Eisenman, she testified that they were married April 28, 1934, and separated on Nov. 1, 1943. On Jan. 27, 1937, she testified, she lit her first—and her last—cigaret at a party they were giving and her husband punched her in the mouth, forcing a tooth thru her lip. She was awarded custody of their three children: Doris, 9; Darlene, 7, and Leroy, 4. She was awarded $15 a week for support of the children and household goods except the alarm clock, which he was allowed to keep.

BRITISH LEARN WHAT EVERY U. S. HUSBAND KNOWS ABOUT HATS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 8.—One thing that seemed to have been made clear in parliament today was that burocratic control is unable to fix prices on women's hats. Hugh Dalton, president of the board of trade, admitted he had given "anxious thought to this difficult problem," but explained there was such a variety of hats that he was doubtful whether utility models even at fixed prices would be welcomed.

One woman member insisted that manufacturers be allowed to market a miscellaneous assortment and then control the prices, but Dalton pointed out, "It is impossible to control the prices of anything which cannot be clearly defined."

Another member wanted Dalton to take action "to control the amazing shapes and sizes and the waste of materials," and a third commented, "No power on earth could prevent women from paying money for hats."

STEVENS HEADS '44 COMMUNITY AND WAR FUND

Elmer T. Stevens, president of Charles A. Stevens company and chairman of the 1943 Community and War fund campaign, yesterday was elected 1944 president of the fund at the annual meeting held in the stockholders' room of the Continental Illinois National bank. He succeeds Aubrey H. Mellinger, president of the Illinois Bell Telephone company.

Other officers named were Edward L. Ryerson, Thomas J. Condon, and Harris Perlstein, vice presidents; James R. Leavell, treasurer, and Pierce Atwater, executive secretary. Citations were presented to Mellinger, Stevens, and the division chairmen of the campaign for their contributions to the fund's success in raising 12 million dollars in the 1943 campaign.

Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and principal speaker at the meeting, said that the Community and War fund had effected a saving of $500,000 in campaign costs by consolidating the appeals of the United Service organizations and 17 war relief agencies.

New Red Attack on Vatican Says Pope Let Fascists Rise

Broadcast by Moscow

MOSCOW, Feb. 8 (AP).—Soviet Russian agitation against the Vatican continued today with publication in all newspapers of a New York story by Tass containing comments on a pamphlet issued in New York by a German refugee, Leopold Mannaberg, titled "Vatican Policy in Europe."

The Tass [soviet agency] dispatch said the pamphlet "emphasizes the leading role the Vatican played in the Fascists' and Nazis' rise to power and the Vatican's continuous support of the world's reactionary forces."

Says Germany Aided Vatican.

"The Vatican supported naziism in Germany because it could not wage a struggle against Russia without the aid of Germany," Tass said.

[The pamphlet was published by the Agora company of New York, and Albert Fehring, Agora official, said the company was affiliated with Christ Mission, Inc., a Protestant organization. Fehring said Mannaberg came to the United States four or five years ago and now is living in Virginia. The pamphlet said: "The author obtained his decree of doctor of philosophy at the University of Heidelberg, Germany."]

In early attacks on the Vatican by the soviet press a number of charges were made.

Following are significant passages of the article in the Feb. 1 issue of Isvestia, official newspaper, in which Dmitri Petrov declared the policy of Pius XII. pro-Fascist:

"The Foreign Policy association of the United States of America has just reviewed the foreign policy of the Vatican. . . . The association points out that 'friendly as well as hostile commentators think the long lasting tie between the Vatican and fascism will bring about hatred as well as persecution.'

"The Lateran agreement between Mussolini and the Vatican became the cornerstone of the Vatican's policy toward Italian Fascists.

"This agreement was Mussolini's victory in that he secured support and leadership of the Italian church. The Vatican, to please Mussolini, approved dissolution of the Italian Christian Democratic parties in which the voices of fascist opposition continued to be heard. As ascertained by the association at that time, the Vatican smothered any oppostion to the fascist regime."

Cites Recognition of Petain.

Next Petrov took up what he termed the Vatican's "unglorified role" in the Hitler-Mussolini adventure in Spain.

"When Italy attacked France," Petrov continued, "the Vatican remained silent. It is typical of its foreign policy that it was one of the first to recognize Petain's regime which was established by Hitler. In fact, the Vatican sanctioned pro-fascist activity of Italian cardinals and bishops who acted for the support of Mussolini and his war policy.

"Now the tune has changed. Pope Pius XII.'s declarations of equal love for all people on the 4th anniversary of the war and at Christmas, 1943, does not conform with the Vatican's practical policy which not only has maintained diplomatic relations with Hitler but helped Hitler strangle the Italian people. The Vatican has played into the hands of fascism which is despised and hated by the people. Now the Vatican assumed the course of preaching love of all peoples. The fact remains that in the great historical battle of all freedom loving peoples against the enemy of humanity the Vatican has assumed the position of a direct accomplice of fascism. . . . No wonder their hate of Hitler now also includes the Vatican.

"The Vatican is harvesting the fruits of its own policy. Catholics who live in England, America, Spain, Poland, and other countries are becoming convinced of the pro-fascist character of the Vatican's policy."

Blast Fails—Prelate

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 (AP).—Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen, in criticism of soviet agitation against the Vatican, declared today it is natural for the Catholic church to be opposed by a government "that has between eight and 10 million political prisoners doing slave labor in Russia."

"No democratic nation has charged the Vatican with 'lack of sympathy,'" the prelate said. "Only the Fascists, Nazis, and the soviets have done so and that is because the Vatican condemned all three."

The soviet press published charges the Vatican supported Franco in Spain and Mussolini in Italy, and naziism in Germany. Msgr. Sheen commented:

"The second blast of the soviets became necessary because the first fell flat. Why does the soviet want the Vatican shorn of power? Because the Vatican is the only obstacle in Europe to its barbarization by the soviets.

"Now that Stalin attacks one of the four freedoms, we make use of the fifth freedom—the right to say thanks for showing us the serpent beneath the flower."

VATICAN SPEAKS OF RAID, VOWING CHARITY TO ALL

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—The Vatican radio, commenting on the Fascist raid on St. Paul's Basilica in which 64 Italian officers and Jews given sanctuary were arrested Thursday said tonight the church would never yield in offering charity to every one.

The broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, said: "Charity is above human constitutions. On this point the priest never can yield Men of honest views will permit us to continue with it." The Swiss radio said there were no diplomatic relations between Mussolini's puppet state and the Vatican.

The Rome radio, answering Vatican criticisms, said Italian war material was seized in the raid and added:

"The Osservatore Romano [Vatican newspaper] confuses extra territorial rights with immunity just at a time when Negroes of Gen. Clark's army [Lt. Gen. Mark. W. Clark] run thru Italian streets." In reply, the Vatican radio ridiculed Fascist claims of finding war loot.

2 ILLINOIS GOBS ARE NAVY'S EYES IN ARMY SHOP

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT AN AMERICAN ARMY SUPPLY BASE SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Feb. 8.—This is an army installation—"Put 'Em Together Corporation," says a signboard over the entrance—but right in the middle of all the soldiers are two Illinois sailors keeping an eye on things for the navy.

The things they put together are motor vehicles, a jeep every six minutes, and command cars or three-quarter ton trucks at a rate of 30 or 40 daily. But what interests the sailors are the Diesel motors being rebuilt after hard usage elsewhere. Some are covered with rust from lying on the bottom of the sea.

Hopes to Fight in Pacific.

The sailors are Storekeeper 2d Class Stanley Runyard of Antioch and Seaman 1st Class Joseph Kon of 5401 S. Richmond st., Chicago. They handle parts and supplies for the motors.

Neither sailor has yet had sea duty, but Runyard said he would like to join the fleet in the Pacific. He has been in the navy 25 months. Kon has been in the navy 14 months. Both boys have been in England since last summer.

The jeep assembly line is turned with a winch on an army truck, the whole operation moving forward every few minutes at a blast of a whistle.

The assistant shop officer is Lt. V. R. Geissler of Pratt, Kas., who is in charge of 75 men on the line. The outfit is kept on its toes, he explained, by two day leave passes granted for any time saving or safety first ideas advanced by the men.

Make Special Tools.

With its own machine and blacksmith shop, the unit makes many tools which are needed for special jobs. In a small room, Geissler showed this correspondent what looked like a junk pile of old rails, steel beams, and odd pieces of iron.

"We hide every piece of metal in here we can find against the day we might need it," Geissler grinned.

Six British civilians work in the shop as a nucleus to turn the place over to newcomers in event the entire unit moves out.

To offset a water shortage here, the mechanics have rigged up a Rube Goldberg device which carries the water from Diesel cooling systems to the roof. It runs down the roof into rain spouts and back into the motors, which are given an eight hour test run after overhaul.

F. D. R. Proclaims End of Chinese Exclusion

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt signed a proclamation today putting into effect the repeal of the Chinese exclusion act and fixing a Chinese immigration quota of 105 persons a year. The ban on Chinese immigration was repealed by congress last December in a move sponsors said would offset Japanese propaganda claims that the United States discriminated against orientals.

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Feb. 8 [AP].—Pierre Boal, United States ambassador to Bolivia, arrived today from Cali en route to the United States. Boal declined comment on the Bolivian political situation. He is expected to leave here tomorrow for Miami.

USE 'HAWAIIAN' DOLLAR IN DRIVE AGAINST JAPAN

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 (AP).—American troops on the offensive in the Pacific area are using the "Hawaiian dollar" originally devised as a weapon of economic defense.

A joint treasury, war, and navy department announcement tonight told of the use of the specially printed currency, asserting it emphasizes the change brought about in the central Pacific during the last year.

"The introduction of the special 'Hawaiian dollar' in July, 1942," it said, "was taken as a step toward the complete economic defense of Hawaii, while today the 'Hawaiian dollar' is being used to facilitate the offensive against the Japanese held islands thousands of miles from Hawaii in the direction of Tokio."

The currency bears overprints of the word "Hawaii" at either end of the face and in large type across the reverse side. It is the only legal currency in Hawaii and may not be brought to this country.

WHEN AN AUTHOR FIGHTS A JAP—ANOTHER STORY

Title Hint: How to Battle in Marshalls Cave.

KWAJALEIN, Marshall Islands, Feb. 4 [Delayed]—(AP).—Capt. Roy L. Atteberry is the author of booklets known generally as "How to Make Every Foxhole a Happy Home," prepared for the Attu campaign of the 7th army division, and a more recent little volume on "How to Get Along While Ousting Japs from an Atoll."

In addition to his staff duties Atteberry doubles as self-styled amateur expert in Japanese and Marshallese languages.

Searches Fox Holes.

Today he put some of his language booklet information to use. His story:

"We knew there were some of these Marshall Island natives in foxholes in one section and I went up with some interpreters to try to get them to come out. We were close to one big reënforced cave where we were fairly sure some of them were and called down the entrance in Marshallese. I got out my book to find out the phoentic words to tell them to come out.

"Explosives had blown away part of the roof of the cave and we could see what I judged to be about the front third of it. Finally we called down in Japanese and I guess our Japanese was better than our phonetics because one little fellow came out.

"After he calmed down some we asked him whether there were any others in the cave and he nodded, 'yes.'

Sees Something Move.

"Anyway, I went down in and looked around. The place was a horrible mess with dead Japs all around. But over in one corner I thought I saw something moving and went over to it. It was another native all right, but he was terribly wounded and just barely breathing. His leg was blown off, and he died while I was trying to fix a bandage for the stump.

"A soldier with a rifle was standing in the entrance to the cave covering me while I worked and just as I saw the native was dead he called down to me, 'I think something is moving over there in the other corner.'

"I went over that way and thought I saw something move myself. It just never occurred to me that it wouldn't be another native. There were a lot more dead Japs piled up there so I pulled some of the bodies away and moved a barrel.

"But it was a Jap, just as alive as the day he was born.

Never Scared Before.

"I just stood there a second. I don't think, honestly, that I was ever really scared before in my life. Not like that.

"He was fumbling with a grenade and I saw him pull the pin. I forgot all about the fact he'd have to bang it on something to activate it. I just jumped for him and grabbed it.

"At the same time the soldier in the doorway began firing. I got the grenade after what seemed a tremendously long time and jumped back with it to throw it away. I don't know how the soldier had managed to miss me before when the Jap and I were wrestling. But he missed me then and he did not miss the Jap later. He fell over with half a dozen bullet holes in him.

"The grenade never did go off."

JAPS AMBUSHED AND KILLED BY ALLIES IN BURMA

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 8 (AP).—Allied troops have consolidated their gains near Tiddim in the Chin hills sector of Burma, and twice have ambushed Japanese troops, inflicting considerable casualties, a bulletin from Adm. Louis Mountbatten's southeast Asia command said today.

Allied bombers staged damaging raids Saturday on the Heho and Aungban air fields 90 miles southeast of Mandalay, the bulletin said, and attacked other Japanese airdromes.

R. A. F. dive bombers raided Taung Bazaar and Badana near Buthidaung in western Burma, where "our land forces continued to engage the enemy." Loss of Taung Bazaar to the Japanese was disclosed yesterday.

CHINESE PREDICT JAP FLEET WILL BE DESTROYED

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 8 (AP).—The American naval bombardment of the Japanese island of Paramushiro has created a tremendous impression on the Chinese, who take it as testimony of the great strength of the United States fleet and its readiness to meet the Japanese navy in a showdown battle. The Chinese newspaper Ta Kung Pao predicted that even before the collapse of Germany and before a large portion of the British fleet could come to the Pacific, the Japanese would engage the American fleet in large scale action—and the Japanese fleet would be destroyed.

GENERAL'S SON BURNS TO DEATH IN TANK DURING NAMUR FIGHT

NAMUR, Kwajalein Atoll, Marshall Islands, Feb. 8 (AP).—Capt. James L. Denig, son of Brig. Gen. Robert L. Denig. marine public relations director, was killed a short time after United States tanks began mopping up this island. As tank commander, he was riding in one of three tanks which were to sweep half of the island. His tank became lost.

Six Japanese jumped his tank. One tossed a hand grenade inside, setting the tank afire. Infantrymen following the tank killed all six Japs. But Capt. Denig was burned fatally. He lived 15 minutes. Another member of Denig's tank crew also was burned to death.

Corp. Michael Giba of Hammond, Ind., said a Jap climbed on his tank, held a grenade against the periscope, and blew himself up. The periscope was only broken.

YANK ASKS TO GO FISHING; NOW IT'S ALL HE DOES

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Feb. 8 (AP).—When Sgt. Earl I. Long of Columbia, Mo., told his commanding officer he wanted to go fishing the officer obliged by giving him a permanent assignment to do nothing but fish.

Now Long supplies his unit's mess with all the fresh spotted coral trout and king mackerel it can use and his outfit gets a cash credit for a lot more they can't eat.

Long was stationed at a 5th air force service command depot on the Australian coast when he got the idea of supplying fresh fish for his mess. He joined up with an Australian fisherman on a 45 foot boat, the Pandion. In the few months since Long drew his assignment, his outfit has been credited with $1,310 worth of fresh fish.

5-MAN RUBBER BOAT FIRST TO INVESTIGATE KAWAJALEIN BEACHES

ABOARD JOINT EXPEDITIONARY FORCE FLAGSHIP, Feb. 8 (AP).—Rear Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner grinned gleefully and slapped Maj. Gen. Holland M. Smith of the marine corps on the back.

"The more audacious the stuff you try," Turner said, "The surer your chances are of pulling it off against these Japs."

Turner was gleeful because a five man reconnaissance party had taken a rubber boat in broad daylight within 400 yards of Kwajalein to survey surf and beach conditions. A battleship stook by covering the tiny boat, but it wasn't shot at. Volunteers in the rubber boat were an ensign, two army lieutenants, a chief petty officer, and a seaman.

6 ITALIAN SHIPS HELD IN SPANISH PORTS RELEASED

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Six of seven Italian merchant ships in metropolitan Spanish ports have been released and three have sailed, it was announced officially today.

The seventh is held because of an ownership dispute. Negotiations are in progress concerning seven others.

Negotiations on Italian warships are being handled separately. None has been released. Release of the six ships from Spanish ports occurred after the Duke of Alba, Spanish ambassador to London, returned to Madrid a week ago. The action was regarded here as an indication that British-American pressure on Spain for strict neutrality was bringing results.

Chinese Bombers Raid Japs on Yellow River

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 8 (AP).—A Chinese bulletin tonight announced that a big bomber formation of the Chinese air force yesterday raided enemy installations on the north bank of the Yellow river, where officials have said the invaders are massing troops for a possible drive to the south.

Rickenbacker Says Plane Fell on Canton Isle Hop

New York, Feb. Feb. 8 (AP).—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker disclosed for the first time today that Canton Island in the Phoenix group was the destination of the army plane which crashed in the Pacific more than a year ago with him aboard. The World war ace, who was rescued with seven others after spending 21 days on a raft, made the disclosure in an address to students at Finch Junior college. He said the party was picked up on Funifuti in the Ellice group.

SHOW SHIELDS, OFFICIALS URGE ALL BOND BUYERS

This is "Show Your Shield" day in the 4th war loan drive. Mayor Kelly and Frank McNair, county drive chairman, urge all individuals and business establishments who have bought bonds in the present campaign to display the shield they received when the purchase was made. It is believed this will stimulate sales among persons who have delayed buying bonds.

Today also marks the start of a house-to-house canvass by 40,000 office of civilian defense workers, 27,000 Boy Scouts, and thousands of school children. At noon ceremonies will be held at Treasury center, 72 W. Adams st., honoring Cook county parents with several sons in the service.

Rallies in Six Stores.

Rallies will be held in all six Wieboldt stores tomorrow, with bands, radio singers and actors, and other special features. The employes plan to sell a million dollars worth.

A bond rally with a program of music will be held in the quarters of the Agudas Achim North Shore congregation, 5029 Kenmore av., at 8 o'clock tonight.

William S. Hart, pioneer business man in the Lake View district, who has four sons in service, will be honored at a rally in Lincoln theater, 3166 Lincoln av., at 9:30 tomorrow morning.

A war bond dinner attended by persons who buy a bond of $1,000 or higher denomination will be held in the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel Monday evening.

82 Per Cent of U. S. Goal.

The Chicago Real Estate board has reported to McNair that $300,000 worth of bonds has been sold to members in the current drive. Montgomery Ward and company has announced the purchase of 50 million dollars worth of government securities in addition to the bonds bought by the company's 75,000 employes. Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and subsidiaries have made a $23,505,000 4th war loan purchase. Seventy-five thousand dollars of this will be credited to the Cook county war finance committee.

National week-end sales of 319 million dollars in the 14 billion dollar drive pushed cash subscriptions last night to 11 billion 468 million dollars, or nearly 82 per cent of the goal, it was announced in Washington, D. C. Individual purchases were up 132 million dollars to 2 billion 906 million while 187 million in new corporate buying sent that category to 8 billion 562 million dollars.

McNair disclosed no new figures on total sales yesterday because Monday and Tuesday purchases have not been processed. The figure Saturday night was $512,490,000, 71 per cent of the county quota of $721,818,400. The drive closes Tuesday for corporation sales, but has been extended to Feb. 26 for individual sales.

N. J. DEMOCRAT DEFIES HAGUE ON U. S. PATRONAGE

Protests Appointment of New Postmaster.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 (AP).—A row over federal patronage in New Jersey, centered around Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, broke out in congress today with newly appointed Sen. Walsh [D., N. J.] announcing he intended to carry it to Robert Hannegan, new Democratic national chairman.

Walsh, protesting the designation of Dr. Edward Jennings as acting postmaster at Trenton, N. J., told newsmen he had failed to get a "yes or no" answer from Postmaster General Walker in reply to a question as to whether Hague "is to continue to get all the federal patronage in the state."

He said he saw Walker yesterday and "wanted a frank and honest answer . . . because it would help me answer my mail, and I could get neither a yes nor a no in answer."

Calls It "Stupid Politics."

"I told Walker," Walsh continued, "that to continue to permit Hague to name persons to federal offices would make the mayor very happy and give editorial writers all over the country more hooks to throw into the national administration.

"I think it is stupid politics."

Walsh said he didn't now have an appointment with Hannegan and did not know just when one could be arranged but he intended to ask the national chairman the same question he asked Walker.

Jennings, Walsh explained, was designated Trenton's acting postmaster on the recommendation of Rep. Norton [D., N. J.], who also is state Democratic chairman.

Consulted After Decision.

"I was consulted on the matter," Walsh said, "after it was determined Jennings was to be named and I protested. However, no attention was paid to my protest to the naming of some one close to Mayor Hague, an action which permits him to go around poking people in the ribs and bragging what a power he is."

Walsh said Walker defended his designation of Jennings to the Trenton office by stating that Mrs. Norton was the duly elected state chairman and that he merely accepted her recommendation as speaking for the state party.

Walsh, executive vice prsident of Edison Industries, was appointed to his senate seat by former Gov. Edison to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sen. Barbour [R., N. J.]. Walsh said Edison also had opposed the Jennings appointment.

G. O. P. Invades Hague Domain.

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 8 [Special].—The Hudson county prosecutor's office in Jersey City resounded today with the tread of alien feet.

It was the Republican march into Mayor Frank Hague's political stronghold to take over an office that has been strictly Democratic for 10 years.

With a staff of four Republican assistants, Atty. Gen. Walter D. Van Riper took control of the prosecutor's office with the intention of operating it until Gov. Edge, a Republican, appoints a successor to Daniel T. O'Regan, a Democrat. O'Regan's term as prosecutor expired last Friday.

The invasion was a bloodless one. When Van Riper, who will serve as acting prosecutor, arrived at the county courthouse, he was greeted by William George and Frank G. Schlosser of O'Regan's office. They have been designated as special assistants to Van Riper.

Van Riper's four cohorts, named as special assistant attorneys general to help handle the office, were James R. Giuliano and Simon L. Fisch, both of Newark; John Grimshaw of Paterson, and Max Eisenstein of Palisades Park.

Giuliano was a member of the 1937 assembly committee that investigated the Hudson county vote whereby A. Harry Moore, Democrat, rode into the governor's office for a third term, defeating the Rev. Lester H. Clee.

NAB WAR PLANT WORKER, 32, FOR RAPING GIRL, 16

Carl Biedrinski, 32, of 1535 N. Bell av., a war plant worker, was arrested by North av. police yesterday for the attack early Monday on a 16 year old girl in the vestibule of a building at 2408 North av.

Sgt. John Touhy, who seized Biedrinski after he was seen loitering in the neighborhood, said his captive at first denied raping the girl but later admitted the attack.

The girl, employed as a bakery clerk, said her assailant menaced her with a revolver and forced her to disrobe. She was on her way to work, she said.

THE QUESTION.

Would you like to go back to school, and if so what would you like to study.

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS.

Florence Hanke, clerk, 4226 N. Clark st.—When I went to school I didn't care for history or geography at all and studied just enough to get by. Now I wish I could start all over again and learn enough about both subjects so I could have a better understanding of this whole international situation.

Manny Altman, store manager, 4313 N. Paulina st.—I quit school early because we were under the impression then that any job was more important than completing an education. Now I'd like to start right where I left off and finish my schooling. It's difficult now to study anything more advanced without the basic knowledge.

James A. Hart, petroleum chemist, Munster, Ind.—I not only have had the desire to go back to school, but the desire was so great that I did go back. I am studying petroleum chemistry in the evenings now and it's a big help in my work. A few refresher courses in mathematics would simplify my chemistry formulas.

James J. O'Malley, special railroad agent, 1552 E. 65th pl.—There's one subject that always has interested me. I wish I could go back to school to take a few more years of psychology. I've had two—just enough to arouse my curiosity. I don't want to be a psychologist, but want to know more about understanding people.

Mrs. Grace Stears, office worker, 7512 Luella av.—It's easy to see in my every day work that it would be to my advantage if I'd take a more extensive course in business training. I'd still like to go to evening school, but I never seem to get at it. There's no reason why I couldn't, but I just don't.

Mrs. A. J. Shachter, housewife, 7830 Jeffery av.—I was married while very young, right after I had finished my elementary schooling. I had intended to take up nursing, but this ambition was side tracked temporarily. Now that my children are grown, I'd like to go to a school of nursing and realize that ambition.

Unofficial returns from 203 of 216 voting places in the district gave Andrews 12,953, Farmer 12,671. Nomination is equivalent to election in this state.

The winner is expected to be a candidate May 2 for the full two year term. Steagall's term expires next January.

DEMOCRATS LINE UP PROSPECTIVE CANDIDATE LIST

BY THOMAS MORROW.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 8.—The "free and open primary," pride of the state Democratic party in the current campaign, received a terrific verbal massage today in the St. Nicholas hotel as party leaders peered about for candidates to fill out the state ticket. The primary will be held April 11.

Edward P. Allen, state chairman, stressed that the gathering was not a meeting of the state central committee and that there were to be no organization indorsements. He added that any one could run for anything if he just had a petition with the requisite names on it.

The meeting, a general rally for Illinois Democratic leaders, was attended by many members of the state central committee.

It was decided that President Roosevelt's name will be placed on the state's advisory Presidential preferential ballot in the primary.

Prospective Candidates.

Introduced as prospective state candidates and applauded by the gathering were Walter W. Williams of Benton and Mrs. Blanch Fritz, Bridgeport, state chairwoman, for congressman at large; Lawrence Arnold of Newton and William B. Hughes, Chicago, brother of Edward J. Hughes, present secretary of state, for that position; Svienbjorn Johnson, University of Illinois professor of law, for attorney general; E. C. [Ted] Hunter of Rockford and William Vicars of Pontiac, minority leader of the house, for lieutenant governor, and Edward J. Barrett, former state auditor and treasurer, for auditor. A new name was added to the list of prospective candidates when John C. Martin of Salem presented the name of a fellow townsman, Earl W. Merritt, for the post of treasurer.

Lucas Is Indorsed.

That President Roosevelt's coattails will be inhabited next November by the entire state ticket became apparent as the meeting progressed. All of the speakers stressed the win-the-war-with-Roosevelt theme and called for the party to urge a fourth term. A resolution adopted by the meeting said:

"We do hereby respectfully and urgently request that Franklin Delano Roosevelt shall consent to continue as the great world humanitarian leader by consenting to be the standard bearer of his party as a candidate for President of the United States in the national elections of 1944."

A second resolution indorsed the candidacy of Scott W. Lucas for United States senator.

MORE VOTERS THRONG MEETINGS OF G. O. P. CAMPAIGN CARAVAN

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 8 [Special].—Republican state candidates tonight appeared in the crowded court house here, marking their fourth successful meeting of the day. The campaigners, led by Gov. Green and Richard J. Lyons, candidate for United States senator, again expressed themselves as being thrilled by the public response.

"The crowds we meet are a political phenomenon," said State Sen. Arnold P. Benson, candidate for secretary of state. "It is nine months before the election, and yet we find the people out in force to see and hear the Republican candidates. They are not interested in platform jokes; they want information on serious issues. They mean business."

Farmers predominated in today's throngs. The 10 a. m. meeting in the Petersburg courthouse attracted more than 200 persons. At Virginia in Democratic Cass county, the courthouse was full at 2 p. m., with at least 50 persons standing, and many turned away. A similar situation was found at the Rushville courthouse, altho several of the Schuyler county officials are Democrats. Local observers told caravan members that many in the audiences had formerly been Democratic voters.

SPARKS INTENDS TO GO ON STUMP AGAINST WILLKIE

C. Nelson Sparks.

C. Nelson Sparks, former mayor of Akron, O., and author of "One Man — Wendell Willkie," indicated last night that he will follow up Willkie's primary campaign tour of Wisconsin with a series of speeches thruout the state to tell the people what he has learned about the defeated 1940 Republican nominee.

Sparks met here with Republican leaders of Wisconsin and Indiana and reported they had urged him to take the stump in their states, altho Indiana has no Presidential primary.

"I welcome the opportunity to prove to the voters of Wisconsin that Willkie is the biggest political faker who ever attempted to become President of the United States," Sparks said. "My information about Willkie is much more than is contained in my book."

Sparks said that Gov. John Bricker of Ohio carried Summit county by 6,000 while Willkie was losing it by 20,000 to Roosevelt in 1940.

UNION DEMANDS PLACE ON WLB; RAPS AFL, CIO

Strike Our Only Weapon, Says Mechanics' Chief.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 (AP).—Matthew Smith, leader of the Mechanics Education Society of America, defiantly told the war labor board today his union had taken up the strike weapon to win representation on the war labor board and would not put it down until some relief had been won.

Smith was called before the board to show cause why penalties should not be imposed upon his union for refusing to terminate strikes promptly in 44 Ohio and Michigan war plants. The strikes, which began last Friday, were called off "temporarily" by the union yesterday. Twenty-five thousand members had left their jobs.

Ask Roosevelt Action.

Soon after Smith had delivered his challenge, the board announced it is calling President Roosevelt's attention to the strikes so that criminal penalties may be invoked promptly in the event of another interruption. The board said its action also would permit immediate consideration of civil sanctions of the war labor disputes act.

Smith talked to the board in tones of defiance and sarcasm, and before the hearing ended he had obtained assurance of consideration of his demands for unaffiliated union representation on the board.

"We called off the strike temporarily," said Smith, "and we will no doubt call it on again when we report on the pious promises of this board to our committee."

Smith told the WLB that under present circumstances the MESA had the alternatives of "using the strike weapon or liquidating."

Accompanied by Eight Others.

He called the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations "our organizational enemies." He said it was unjust they should be the judges in decisions involving unaffiliated unions such as MESA.

Smith, under subpena, was accompanied by eight other officers and members of the union. Criticising the board, he said that "as a matter of policy, or indolence, the board never takes action on a grievance while the men are on their jobs and they never act on a grievance when the men are not on their jobs.

"I want to protest against what I call being pushed around. We felt our organization was at stake. We did not feel that our organization, even for purposes of war, was expendable."

He asserted that when a MESA wage demand was rejected by the WLB, the CIO put out handbills saying that if the employes had joined the CIO and thereby obtained representation on the WLB the decision probably would have been different. "We," said Smith, "cannot exist long under that set-up."

Charge Government Is Defied.

The board listened for about two hours and gave no hint in the hearing that it would "report these facts to the President, so that if any further interruption of work occurs, action may be taken to bring to bear the criminal sanctions of the war labor disputes act, and consideration given to invoking now the civil sanctions of the war labor disputes act by the government."

Under the war labor disputes act the government may sue the union in civil court if damages can be shown. The criminal provisions of the act would become operative immediately upon seizure of a plant by the government. Under those conditions, it would become a crime for any person to encourage a worker to leave his job.

The walkout resulted from a national labor relations board hearing at Toledo on a petition from the United Automobile Workers [CIO] for a bargaining agency election among workers in the Willys-Overland Motor Co. toolroom. Smith said toolroom employes previously had designated MESA their representative.

During the strike government officials, including the navy, appealed for continued production of landing craft, particularly, as vital to current and projected war moves.

CIO Wins NLRB Election in Paint Company Plant

Production and maintenance employes of the Sherwin-Williams Paint company, 635 E. 115th st., yesterday chose District 50 of the United Mine Workers union [CIO] as their bargaining agent in a national labor relations board election at the plant. The CIO union received 599 votes; an independent union 527, and the AFL International Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers Union, local 1351, received 40 votes.

ACTS TO EXPAND SUPPLY OF KNIT RAYON CLOTHES

The office of price administration acted yesterday to expand the supply and, in some instances, reduce the retail price of clothing made of knitted rayon. The agency predicted the regulation will stimulate production of women's and children's inexpensive undergarments by assuring manufacturers a slightly greater profit. Retail prices will not be raised.

The new regulation, effective Feb. 14, provides dollar and cents price ceilings for manufacturers, jobbers, and converters of rayon knit fabrics. These will replace as maximum prices the March, 1942, prices of each seller. The OPA said one type of jersey dress which retails at $8.75 may be sold at $7.75 as the result of lower prices manufacturers will pay for the fabric. In cases where the price is not reduced, the material will be of better quality, the OPA said.

The war food administration announced allocation of 7½ million bags of milled rice, of 100 pounds each, for civilians in 1944. The allotment will make available approximately six pounds to a person, or slightly less than American civilians have been consuming. The WFA said civilians will receive about 42 per cent of the mill supply of rice allocated for all needs this year. The total prospective supply is estimated at 17,904,000 bags.

The OPA announced a reduction of 4 to 4½ cents a pound in the winter ceiling price on fresh sliced codfish, and a cut of 3 cents a pound in the summer maximum prices. The reductions, effective Feb. 14, are at the wholesale level, but they will be reflected at retail under the OPA's new system of cents per pound markups.

PAPER SALVAGE DEALERS TO HEAR OFFICIAL OF WPB

Herbert M. Faust, salvage director of the war production board, will arrive this morning from Washington to address 100 wastepaper dealers and papers from every principal city of the middle west, south, and east. They are meeting with officials of the Chicago wastepaper salvage committee beginning at 10:30 a. m. today in the Bismarck hotel.

James T. Flannery of Washington, D. C., chief of the wastepaper section of the office of price administration, also will speak. Harold Shilling, midwest representative of the National Wastepaper Industry committee, arranged the meeting, at which Stuart B. Sutphin of Cincinnati, national co-chairman, will preside.

UNION STUDIES PLAN TO SETTLE FOUNDRY STRIKE

Plans for ending a strike of 2,000 foundry workers in 25 Chicago plants will be presented at 2 p. m. today at a meeting of Local 233 of the Molders and Foundry Workers union [AFL]. The meeting at union headquarters, 10 S. California av., was arranged after union officials received a telegram from the war labor board promising a new hearing of their plea for a wage increase if the men returned to work.

Joseph M. Jacobs, union attorney, said he had sent a telegram to William H. Davis, WLB chairman, asking the board to regard the workers' wage problem as "a rare and unusual case."

The strike began Monday after the regional WLB refused to approve a wage agreement submitted by the union and the Chicago Foundrymen's association calling for a 6 cents an hour increase for all workers.

Short Strike Ended.

A strike of 1,100 night shift workers at the Link-Belt company plant at 300 W. Pershing rd. was ended late yesterday. The strikers, members of local 281 of the United Automobile Workers [CIO], voted to return to their jobs at a meeting at 347 W. 47th st., and to settle their grievances by bargaining methods.

Paul Russo, assistant regional director of the UAW, said the grievances included questions of seniority, working conditions, and wages.

Called "Damnable Plot."

Patriotic workers continued to return to their jobs yesterday at the Automatic Transportation company's plant at 101 W. 87th st., where picketing by CIO union members was described as "a damnable plot" by E. F. Twyman, general manager.

Twyman said fewer than 100 of the company's 850 employes still were out, and production of navy equipment continued in every department. He described the picketing ringleaders as saboteurs, and said none of them will be permitted to return to their jobs.

Order: Work or Get Out!

At the Lake City Laundry, 520 W. 36th st., about half of the 200 employes quit work yesterday. Lt. George Barnes of the police labor detail told strikers to return to their jobs or get off the premises.

Charles Arentsen, vice president and general manager of the company, said a few agitators had provoked the strike in an effort to get an 8 cent an hour wage increase instead of the 5 cents agreed upon by the laundry industry. The strikers are members of the Laundry Workers union [AFL].

IOWA GOVERNOR SEEKS GILLETTE SEAT IN SENATE

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 8 [Special].—Gov. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa today announced he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator in the June 5 primaries.

He will seek the post held by Sen. Guy Gillette of Cherokee, a Democrat, who has been in office since 1936, when he was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sen. Louis Murphy. Gillette has announced he will not seek reëlection, but Iowa party leaders hope to persuade him to run again.

Hickenlooper, who is 47 and is serving his first term as governor, declared in a statement announcing his candidacy that "the alarming centralization of peace time power in federal government must be stopped and government by burocratic edict ended."

He pledged himself to coöperate in the war program "for the complete destruction of the axis powers and the just and full punishment of the axis outlaws of civilization."

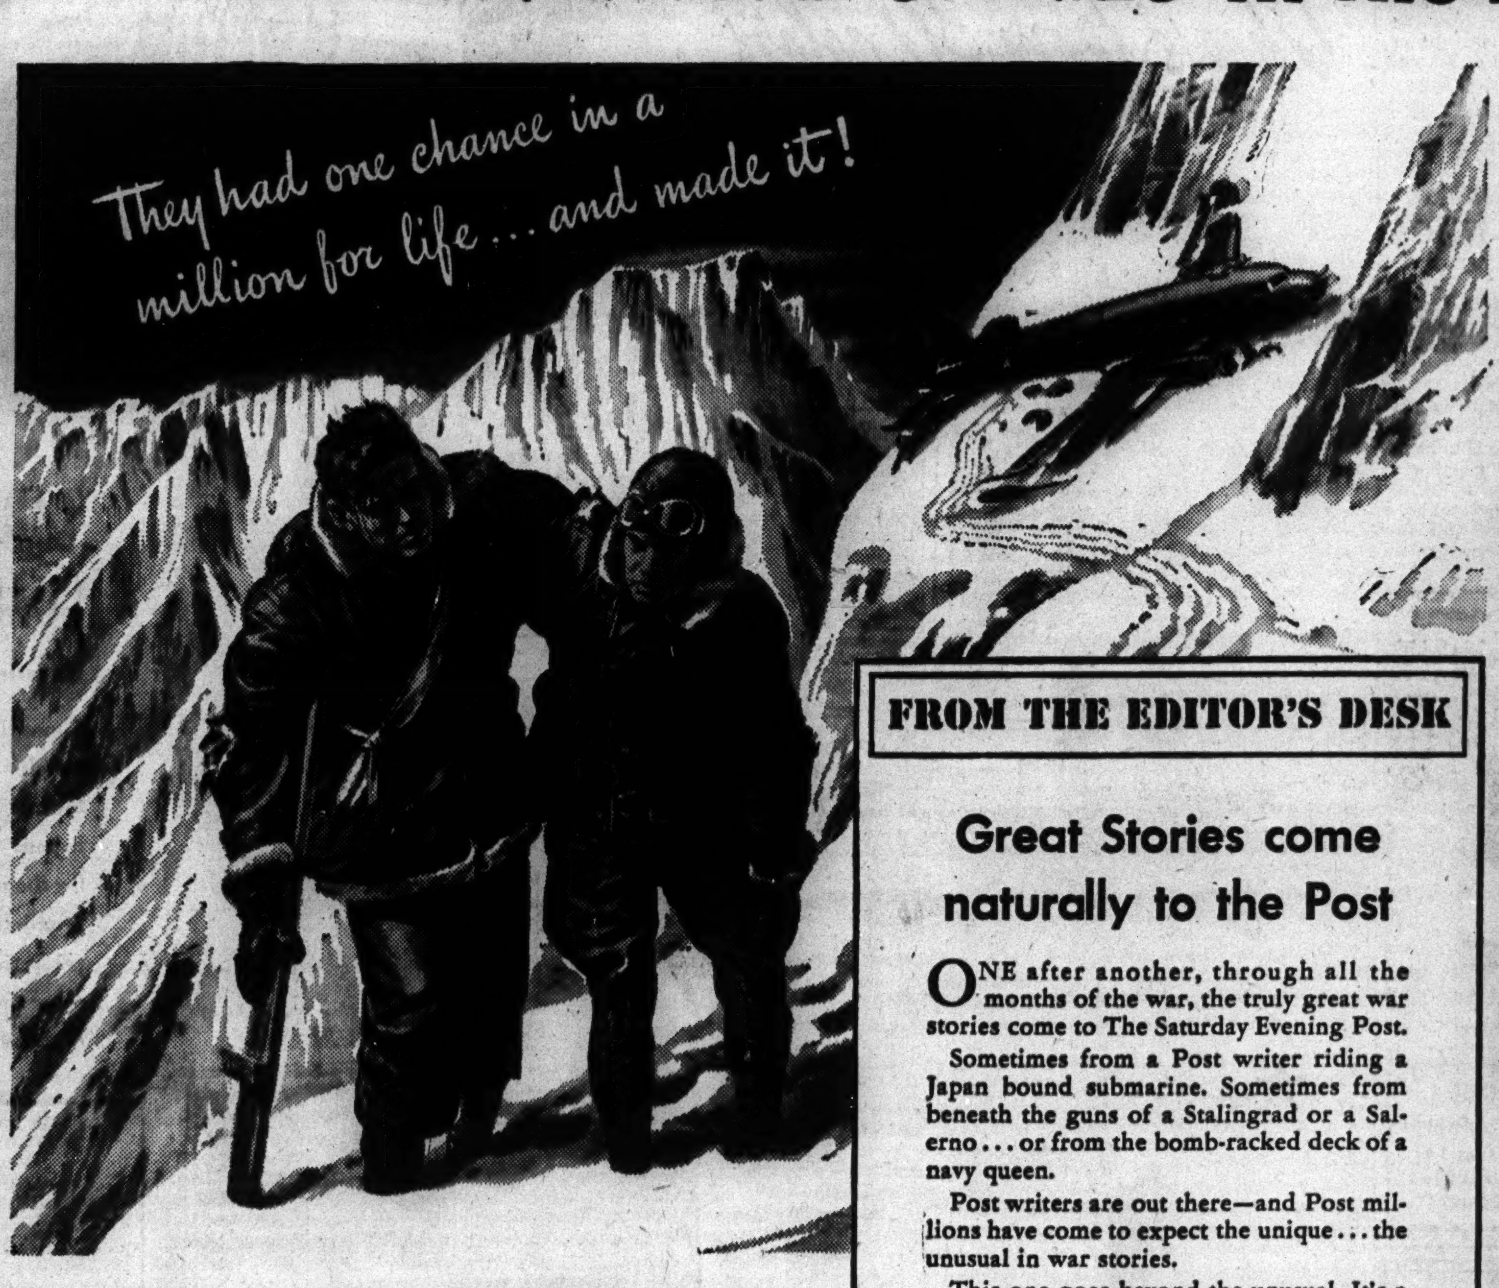
People are talking about the WAR ADVENTURE STORIES in the new Post



They had one chance in a million for life... and made it!

FLYING the "up-stairs Burma Road," their ice-crusted plane crashed on the roof of the world. By every law of chance, they should have died. But they fought and conquered the wild Himalayas. Crawling a bare 200 feet the first day... stunned... ankles broken... freezing... starving... they battled their way down deadly slopes into the land of the Mishmis—where no white man had ever stepped. This is the incredible story of their miraculous escape—of days and nights of horror, and the stark heroism that brought them through. Don't miss reading this rarest of war stories.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Great Stories come naturally to the Post

ONE after another, through all the months of the war, the truly great war stories come to The Saturday Evening Post.

Sometimes from a Post writer riding a Japan bound submarine. Sometimes from beneath the guns of a Stalingrad or a Salerno... or from the bomb-racked deck of a navy queen.

Post writers are out there—and Post millions have come to expect the unique... the unusual in war stories.

This one goes beyond the unusual. It's a story editors dream of getting. The experiences of Rosbert and Hammel perhaps could not have been dreamed or visioned. They had to be lived and endured.

These men are alive—at this writing. That the Post millions are privileged to read their story, simply reaffirms a well known fact—that the great stories come naturally to The Saturday Evening Post.

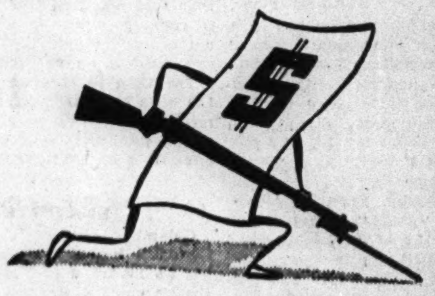
Not only to help your country but also to help yourself

A lot of dollars are needed right now to go out and fight for America. You know this. You know what the Japs did to Americans at Bataan and at Pearl Harbor. Of course you're fighting mad. And if you aren't actually in the fighting forces, you know you can still fight—you can make your dollars fight for you.

But perhaps you haven't thought enough about how the dollars you put into War Bonds not only fight for America, but also work for you and make a nest egg for you.

So this ad is asking you to buy War Bonds —not only to be patriotic, but also to do a good turn for yourself.

JOB No. 1



Fighting for America

Nothing else counts if the United States doesn't win this war. Uncle Sam is using millions of his finest young men to win it.

Billions of dollars are needed to put guns in their hands, stout clothes on their backs, good food inside them—to carry them to where the fighting is, to take care of them if they're hurt, to bring them back home when it's over.

That's why taxes are high, but paying taxes isn't enough. That's why most of us are buying bonds or stamps every payday—but that isn't enough.

That's why everybody has to turn extra dollars into fighting dollars—extra dollars being held to buy something tomorrow, next week, or next month. They're needed right now—during this 4th War Loan campaign.

JOB No. 2

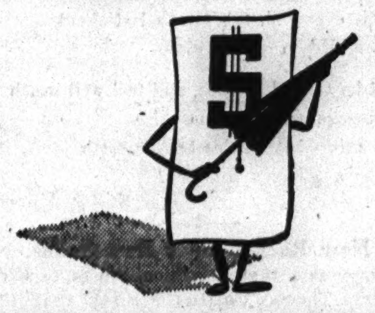
Earning for You

Your fighting War Bond dollars are earning dollars, too. They earn money—interest. In ten years' time three dollars put into Series E War Bonds will become four dollars—that's making your dollars really work for you.

Don't wait for Someone to Call on You

Maybe the man or woman who had your name on a list got sick, or was called away, or tried to call when you were out. So this ad is asking you to go to your nearest bank, department store, theater, or the place where you work, and turn your extra dollars into fighting dollars.

JOB No. 3



Standing Guard to Protect You Against "Stormy Weather"

Your War Bond dollars can be recalled in case you really need them. Any time after 60 days you can ask the Treasury Department, or any Federal Reserve Bank or Branch, for your money—and get it in about five days. Any bank will handle your request for repayment if you are known to them.

Your Series E War Bonds can't be worth less than you paid for them—if you've had them as little as a year they will have increased in value—and every extra six months they will be worth more.

They're better than cash—they're registered in your name (along with a co-owner or beneficiary if you wish), so your money's safe and you can get it back even if your bonds are lost, stolen, or burned.

4TH WAR LOAN

HERE ARE THE ADVANTAGES FOR YOU OF SERIES E BONDS

1 You can't lose money on these bonds—you can get back what you paid for them, or more.

2 After 60 days you can get your money back easily and quickly. Any bank at which you are known will attend to this for you and you wait, usually, only about 5 days to get your money.

3 After 1 year, you get back more than you paid for the bonds—the longer you hold them the more you get back.

4 At the end of 10 years, you get back 4 dollars for every 3 dollars you paid. You can't do better than this no matter what kind of United States Government Bond you buy.

5 You can't lose money on these bonds because no matter if they are lost or stolen or burned, the government will make them good—they are registered in the name of the owner and no one else is entitled to the money. They are safer than cash, for currency can be lost or stolen or destroyed.

6 You can have these bonds made payable to yourself, or to your wife or a child or someone else, or made payable to yourself but with another person named to receive the money in case you die.

7 Series E Bonds come in small denominations:
$18.75 buys a bond worth $ 25 at the end of 10 years
$75.00 buys a bond worth $100 at the end of 10 years
So you can buy these bonds often and money will keep coming to you as the bonds mature.

8 With them you can provide future income for:
old age
an education
a new car
a home travel
or any other purpose you may have in mind.

PROTECTED PRECINCTS OF SUBVERSION.

Eighteen of our American bolshevists, the last of the Marx-Leninists, have a message for their fellow citizens: If you want to be or to be known as a crackpot, first attach yourself to the government, preferably to the White House or the Supreme court.

The 18 Trotskyites know what they are talking about on this subject. Fourteen of them are in the federal prison at Sandstone, Minn.; three are in prison at Danbury, Conn., and the one woman Marxist is in an Alderson, W. Va., cell. The Supreme court would not review their case and they are in the clink.

When Earl Browder, the Stalinite secretary of the American Communist party, was crackpotting against the imperialistic war of Mr. Churchill and the Wall street war of Mr. Roosevelt and defending the civilizing influence of the firm of Hitler & Stalin, he was sent to prison for saying that he hadn't had a passport at a time when he most certainly had. This trifling with the state department didn't sever the tap roots of the American Republic which might have survived even his ideas of Mr. Roosevelt. Nevertheless, he was jugged. When he learned that lese majesty was really a crackpot idea, he was pardoned to promote the war effort. He is now a cultural institution and, attached to the White House, can do no wrong.

The little group of Trotskyite enemies of Browder learned nothing. They stuck to the doctrines of Lenin and were therefore obnoxious to the Stalinites. Their imprisonment is a good-will offering, of a sort, to Josef. It cleans up what was left on the slate after the murder of Trotsky in Mexico. It also satisfies Dan Tobin, head of the AFL teamsters, that his White House connection is good. Some of the Trotskyites were Minneapolis CIO teamsters who rejected Uncle Dan'l.

The 18 political prisoners were far up Queer st. with their program for America, but they were understandable as die-hard Communists devoted to the workers' state and the dictatorship of the proletariat. The first plank in their platform was for the military training of workers at government expense but under trade union control. They wanted, also, an officers' school under the unions.

By this means the captains of industry, the money changers, and the petite bougeoisie were to enter a truly transcendental world with a hedge of proletarian bayonets. But there is another proposal, not Trotskyite, to subject the country to a foreign army. This army would have an American contingent, but nevertheless would be foreign, enforcing the decrees and statutes of another government, of an all-over state, regardless of the American Constitution. The proposal seems subversive. Alongside it secession would appear a minor prank. None of the many advocates is in jail. One of the most earnest supporters sits on the Supreme bench as an associate justice. We know what they mean in Washington by unconditional surrender.

Another person on the federal pay roll is author of the thought that we should give up some of our constitutional rights, of our "Bill of Rights rights," in order to form a brotherhood with the Russians. He is the Vice President of the United States. Mr. Stalin has offered him a rare opportunity to give up the bills of rights and, by uniting with Kamchatka, to form one of the new soviet autonomous republics. Mr. Wallace has not complained that the federal bureau of investigation has its agents on his trail. He has immunity for subversive ideas.

Indeed, if process servers were working in protection of the American form of government they might be shadowing the White House door and giving Stephen Early no end of trouble in covering up for the highest political personage in the land. None less than this Personage has just rounded out a career of indifference to "legalisms" by angrily advising congress that if it does not pass an unconstitutional Presidential vote bill in his interest, it will perpetrate a fraud on the people. Mr. Roosevelt has been three times elected President of the United States. It is to be assumed that he knows how he was elected each time, altho if his friends wish to raise a doubt, as an apology, it will be entertained.

If Mr. Roosevelt, by chance, knows how he has been elected, he nevertheless retains the privilege of saying how he should be elected the next time. A fourth term candidate can change the law by virtue of authority acquired merely by long tenure. To heck with the Constitution.

The Trotskyites are in prison, but the American form of government does not seem to be any safer because they are locked up. They were not in the protected precincts.

HOLLYWOOD ORGANIZES FOR AMERICA.

A group in which some leading figures in Hollywood are included has organized to combat communism and its propaganda in the movie colony.

Hollywood has long stood in need of such an organization. Communism and fellow-traveling have flourished there, probably in resentment against the immense fortunes taken from the movies by men and women, many of whom are not distinguished for wisdom or virtue. There was corruption in the labor unions headed by the Bioffs and the Brownes. There was corruption in management as the Schenck trials revealed. The fact that Schenck, the bribe-payer, is again a power in the colony, with the blessing of Wendell Willkie, the chairman of his board, cannot fail to disgust honest men and shake their confidence in our institutions.

All of this and much more to the same effect that might be recited help explain why the Communist imprint appears repeatedly in movie scripts, in the direction, and in the Hollywood cutting rooms. The apologists for soviet Russia did their most ambitious propaganda job in Joseph Davies' "Mission to Moscow," but the same end has been served, and probably more effectively, in a thousand little scenes, subtly conveying a revolutionary message.

Sam Wood, Walt Disney, and the other men who have organized the Motion Picture Alliance for the Preservation of American Ideals are proposing to do something about it. They recognize that the motion picture industry is a great power in influencing public opinion and they have declared themselves opposed to "the effort of Communists, Fascists, and other totalitarian minded groups to pervert the powerful medium into an instrument for the dissemination of un-American ideals and beliefs."

Americans who find their relaxation and entertainment in the movies have had all they want of pinko movie actors, directors, and producers and their more sinister Communist companions in Hollywood who are turning the movie screen into a soviet propaganda medium. The movie audience can hope that thru this new alliance the movies will begin to display considerably more respect for America, her ideals, and her form of government.

THE NEW DEAL IN OIL IMPERIALISM.

Mr. Ickes has announced the intention of the United States government to build a pipe line from the Persian gulf oil fields to the Mediterranean, 1,250 miles away. A number of American oil companies—Standard of California, the Texas company, and Gulf Exploration—have drilling rights in the Persian gulf area.

These corporations have come to an understanding with Mr. Ickes as petroleum administrator, by which the taxpayers will build and operate the pipe line and will be repaid over a period of 25 years. The government will be permitted to buy oil at a 25 per cent discount under the price prevailing at the Persian gulf or in the United States, whichever is lower, but whether the cost of the pipe line is to be repaid thru this means or some other is not entirely clear. The consent of the local potentates in Saudi Arabia and Kuwait will be required because the oil wells lie in their territories and so will the pipe lines.

That, in briefest outline, is the scheme, and it stinks of scandal. Obviously, this is not a war measure because in all probability the war will be over long before the pipe line can be completed, even if construction is started today. The promise that the job can be finished in half a year cannot be taken seriously. Obviously, too, there is no need for involving the government in the deal if it is economically sound. The three corporations concerned are each of them immensely wealthy, with almost unlimited credit. If our government is drawn into this project it will be because the scheme carries undue risks of either an engineering or a political nature, and more probably the latter. It is quite likely that the oil companies want the United States government to have an interest in their properties because then it will be easier to get the army and the navy to protect them. The oil barons may reckon that if our government had made a big investment in pipe lines in Mexico, the expropriation would have been prevented by force of arms, if necessary.

Certainly suspicion about this Persian gulf deal is warranted in view of the record of this administration in oil. The Canol and Elk Hills scandals are still fresh in the public mind. Ralph K. Davies was a vice president of Standard of California before he became Mr. Ickes' right-hand man in petroleum administration and may return to his company or another like it in due time. There should be no presumption that Mr. Davies' advice on matters of immense interest to Standard of California is wholly detached and judicial.

Long before the Persian gulf scheme was announced, there was plenty of evidence to show that the New Deal administration not only was utterly indifferent to the welfare of the taxpayers but was shot thru with corruption. Accordingly, congressmen who value their reputations will examine this latest proposal with the greatest care.

Editorial of the Day

[New York Sun.]

In this nation's entire industrial system, as geared to military organization for the output of war supplies, nothing is more fundamental than chemical engineering. The president of the American Chemical society, Dr. Thomas Midgley Jr., has reiterated the warning that the loss of industry's technical personnel to the armed services may cut sharply into production of essential chemicals. He cited the example of a company that employs 900 chemists, more than half of them in the age group 18 to 30. From the testimony of Dr. Midgley we infer that the danger is in choking off the man power of chemical engineering at the bottom by the drafting of students and recent graduates in chemistry, so that not only the current output of basic materials of war will be reduced, but also the later production of chemicals necessary to the making of civilian goods after the war. If such a consequence of failure to defer a sufficient number of chemists is probable, the time to avert the trouble cannot be put off until our production system is weakened. The latest order from the director of selective service, effective February 15, will retain students of chemistry among the few for whom deferment will be considered, but does not affect working chemists.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 25.

1. Which one of these does not require the action of bacteria? Decay Oxidation Molding Fermentation.
2. A person described as being behind the eight ball would be Lucky Bad Thrifty Unfortunate.
3. A strike does not occur in which one of the following? Baseball Football Bowling Fishing.
4. The Morse code would be of most significance in the field of Business Law Commerce Communication.
5. The Hammurabi code would be of most significance in the field of Business Law Commerce Engineering.
6. This is a True-False problem in which you are to encircle the letter T in front of a statement if you consider it true, or the F if you deem it false. You deserve one point for each correct judgment.

T F [b] A dog has more teeth than a normal human adult.
T F [c] Domesticated rabbits are more active at night.
T F [d] Wild rabbits are more active in the daytime.
T F [e] In summer a cow swishes her tail less often at night than in the daytime.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

SOUVENIR OF VICTORY.

One of the stars in the Line o' Type column's service flag stands for Bud, brother of the Youngest Allen, whose verses about him, often in letter form, have frequently appeared here. Bud Allen himself stands for everybody's brother, and he reported himself yesterday as a veteran of the recent conquest of the Gilbert Islands.

He took part in the storming of Makin, but says little about that. Only personal observations are permitted, he explains, so he tells a story about a soldier in a fox-hole who got a laugh by cracking, "If you hear a machine gun tonight, it's not a machine gun but my knees." Then he writes about the natives of Makin after the fighting, underfed and bewildered but ready to offer American soldiers a share of their own food supply, which consisted only of coconut meat.

A snapshot of shattered palm trees and shell-pitted sand was inclosed, captioned, "Makin Taken, Nov. 20, 1943." From the tallest palm trunk the American flag is flying in a fine sea breeze. This, Bud wrote, is an authentic glimpse of the first Star Spangled Banner to be raised on the Gilberts.

Also inclosed as a philatelic curiosity was a postcard which had been mailed from Nippon to a Japanese soldier on the Gilberts. Bud Allen does not state where this was found, but no doubt it came from a captured barracks or post-office, for its condition is excellent.

This postcard is of the souvenir type, and one side bears a good photograph of some shrine or tourist resort in Japan. The other side, for address and message, is perplexing. The writing surface is covered with small characters, apparently written with a fountain pen, but over them, in heavy brush strokes, are a few large characters which conceal part of the message. Our guess is that this was a notation by the recipient. The stamp, postmarked dimly, bears the portrait of a Nipponese potentate with whiskers, who was identified by the interpreter of Bud Allen's company as the grandfather of Hirohito. . . . Quite a stamp collector's item, this postcard.

LETTER TO A LAD.

I've a letter waiting to write tonight
For a lad so far away
I can freely say, and with all my might,
The things I most want to say.

Such matters as others would flattery deem,
Or nice decorum bar—
A "waste of time" to folk who seem,
But never to folk who are.

I'll tell him the lifts that his laughter gave,
The courage his youth renewed,
The illumined mind, the outlook brave,
That so often our talk imbued.

I'll tell him the privileged, priceless sense
Of kindlier days to come,
Inspired of his praise and confidence
That increased my own heart's sum.

But more than all these I shall truly there
Recall to his chief concern
How my daily dream and nightly prayer
Ask only his safe return.

And when I have proved, beyond all doubt,
What his friendship means to me
(As it ever will, till Time's last shout
Is stilled in Eternity)—

Will he then, I wonder, still feel well worth
Their present war time price
The prizes left on this broken earth
For a soldier's sacrifice?

New Recipe for a Best Seller.

Choppy says that at a luncheon of Line contributors Thomas Curtis Clark said that if you want to write a book that will sell, you should write about Abraham Lincoln, as he did in his "Fifty Poems About Lincoln."

Quizzicuss said that another sure way to write a best seller is to write about your dog, and W. L. Hudson said the same is true if you write about your doctor. Mr. Noble said he heard of a man who combined two of them and wrote about Lincoln's dog.

Choppy says that he has no dog to write about, altho a book by a dog about a dog ought to be a success, so maybe he should buy a dog and write about him.

Choppy has no doctor to write about, either, he says, altho he does have a veterinarian, which gives him an idea. He says he will combine all the known sure ways of writing a book that will lead the best seller list.

Choppy says he is going to write a book about Lincoln's doctor's dog's veterinarian.

"That will get 'em," Choppy says.

THE OMNIPRESENT.

We have not far to look for God;
There are no tortuous heights to climb,
There are no gates which close the way,
No bars of distance or of time.

He is a golden bough in fall;
The endless music of the seas;
A church spire tall against the dusk;
The dignity of leafless trees.

He is the purple April cloud
Impaled by sudden shafts of light;
He is the passing of the wind;
The planets' flowering in the night.

He is the earth and all therein;
He is both change and constancy;
He is both time and timelessness:
He is our immortality.

EMERGENCIES OCCASIONED BY PEPTIC ULCER.

Among the medical emergencies which may confront the family, none is more alarming than the vomiting of fresh blood. And yet, it need not be so. Only rarely will life be in danger. The tendency, however, is to do entirely too much.

Before we know what is wrong, the sufferer may complain of feeling faint, dizzy, or weak. Assuming that the cause is a bleeding peptic ulcer, the patient may be put to bed with the head slightly lower than the feet and told to remain absolutely quiet. A reclining posture tends to lower blood pressure and aid clotting. A careful record of the pulse may be made and, as soon as apprehension passes, it will probably not be unduly high. When it exceeds 130 per minute, we must realize that the circulation is failing.

The plan of supplying food generously has largely replaced bold starvation which, however, is still used to some extent. But if the invalid is to be deprived of nourishment and liquids for three to five days, it will be necessary to introduce fluids in another fashion.

When the physician arrives, the chances are that he will administer a sedative. Small doses, oft repeated, may be better than a single "knockout" blow. He will then determine whether a transfusion or additional amounts of vitamin K are required. If food is allowed, edibles are given every two hours. Tea, white bread and butter, oatmeal, finely chopped meats, pureed vegetables, tapioca pudding, and soft eggs are all permitted.

Occasionally, if hemorrhage continues with no sign of cessation, surgical interference will be necessary to tie off the oozing vessel.

If perforation has occurred, this indicates that an ulcer has burrowed thru the stomach wall. This seldom happens without many prior disturbances. The patient will usually give a history of pain after eating. The actual rupture, however, is attended by a severe, lightning-like stab. While the site of great distress appears to be in the stomach area, it may travel to the shoulders. Instinctively, the victim will indulge in very little movement. He will do everything possible to protect his abdomen. As time goes on, he may become more comfortable. In the meantime, peritonitis may spread, endangering life.

This is always a critical situation and if the sufferer can reach the operating room within four or five hours, recovery may be expected. But even before the ambulance arrives, the doctor may see fit to introduce a suction tube into the gastric pouch to remove the remaining contents. It is always well to turn the afflicted person to the left side and keep him in that position.

We must recall that many of these individuals will go into shock and the absence of pain may be an unfavorable sign. This means that the fluid balance must be maintained and 5 per cent glucose solution is of value. If the diagnosis is not made until 24 hours after a rupture, surgery offers but little aid. Then it is that we hope for an abscess, which may be drained later. In all such cases, we may rely upon the sulfa drugs to combat peritonitis.

ALLERGY IN CHILD.

L. H. writes: A child 7 years old, with bronchial asthma, is not sent to school nor permitted to play with other children because of his affliction. Is this restriction necessary?

REPLY.

The physician will know best. The more normal life can be, the better. The objective is to find the edibler or substance to which he is sensitive.

SHRIVELED.

W. H. writes: Why do fingers look wrinkled after washing the dishes?

REPLY.

Hot suds will produce the effect quickly by withdrawing fluids from the tissues. Several hours will need to elapse before normal balance will be restored.

YOUNG OR OLD.

R. L. writes: Are freshly dug potatoes more fattening than those that are matured?

REPLY.

No difference. The starch content does not change under average storage conditions.

THE SHAKES.

W. S. T. writes: What causes trembling hands in a mild case of chronic alcoholism?

REPLY.

Muscle and nerve irritability, which may result in loss of control.

IMBIBING WATER.

S. C. writes: Is it better to take water before, during, or after meals?

REPLY.

Before or during. A moderate amount of fluid at meal time stimulates the flow of gastric juice.

NOT TO BLAME.

H. F. writes: Can gallstones be the cause of a bronchial cough?

REPLY.

Doubtful. The relationship is extremely remote.

"Dear Sir:

"We are in a fix.

"Being unable to pay our yearly income tax, we would like to reserve one large padded cell to accommodate seven. If not asking too much, we would like to request hot and cold water, a portable radio, and a few lounge chairs.

The soviets' commissar of foreign affairs, Mr. Molotov, may think, and may have led a good many others to think, that recognition of each of the 16 soviet republics may have given the U. S. S. R. 16 votes in the peace conference, as well as various other international niceties, but the defense housing commission in Washington could have squelched that at its inception. Sixteen republics will require 16 ambassadors to the United States. The 16 ambassadors will require 16 embassies in Washington. Sixteen embassies require 16 empty houses, preferably of white marble. Sixteen empty white marble houses require 16 ex-burocrats sick and tired of the whole thing. Sixteen ex-burocrats require . . . and so on. See what we mean? They'll never make it.

DOES EVERY ONE PASS?

Chicago, Feb. 3.—What's wrong with our Chicago schools? My daughter was graduated from grade school with an E average [the highest grade] in arithmetic. Upon entering high school in September, she was given a standardized test in which she made a 7B grade so they won't allow her to take algebra because they say she isn't ready for it.

I went to see the principal of her grade school and gave her my story and she also claimed my daughter wasn't ready for algebra because of the standardized test, yet she made the E average when she passed the eighth grade. The grade school principal is contradicting her own grades given in her own school.

Now just what were they teaching my child in grade school those eight years that she attended. Her marks were always good.

CRITICIZES SYMPHONY.

Glencoe, Ill., Jan. 31.—Why is it that the people of Chicagoland have to put up with an obviously third rate symphonic conductor such as Desiré Defauw? Is it that the directors of the Chicago Symphony orchestra think that we are too ignorant or artistically immature to know the difference? After the poor reception he received at Ravinia festival this summer and his repeated failures in Chicago, I fully expected to see some adjustment made, but for some reason nothing has been done. Most music lovers find it painful to recall the magnificence of the Chicago Symphony under the late Frederick Stock when it is noted what is left of this once great organization today.

I suppose that it would be expecting too much to ask for two first rate conductors as Boston has with Arthur Fiedler of the "Pops" orchestra and Serge Koussevitsky of the Boston Symphony, but it would be nice, and I think only fitting, for a great city like Chicago to have one good conductor to rescue our orchestra.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—My father and I own a small town weekly newspaper down state, and recently learned, via the selective service system, that newspapers apparently are no longer considered to be engaged in essential activity. The man to whom we leased the paper, after exhausting all appeal possibilities is about to be drafted. Several other small newspapers in the state are in the process of folding up because, we presume, they are regarded as "unessential" and their editors and publishers are needed in the army or navy.

If our paper is so unessential, then all those hundreds of columns of free publicity on salvage campaigns, bond drives, and changes in selective service regulations must have been unessential too. And those free subscriptions to soldiers and sailors in the country and abroad, also were unessential, we suppose. It makes us wonder why our editor did all those unessential things, unless, perhaps, it was because he was patriotic. We may be wrong, but we think it's possible to be patriotic without being in the army. DISGUSTED.

SOLDIERS' RIGHTS.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—A lot of crocodile tears are being shed by the administration and the politicians generally about the soldier's right to vote. As a matter of fact, the whole thing is a pretty cruel hoax. In the first place more important than the vote is the right to select or file candidates of their own choosing and to discuss issues freely and fearlessly. This they cannot do. The President admitted this in his message to congress when he said, "They are not ordinarily permitted to write their congressmen on pending legislation."

The time to consider the wishes of the boys in service was when the conscription act was passed. The voters were never given a chance to register opposition on that major issue.

LIQUIDATION.

Columbus, Ind., Feb. 5.—Winston Churchill has stated definitely that he has no intention of "liquidating" the British empire. Certainly, no one had ever thought that Mr. Churchill has any such intention. Our main thought has been that his apparent intention is to liquidate the United States—using President Roosevelt as his chief assistant.

CREDITS REDUCE VICTORY TAX TO LESS THAN 5%

Exemption of $624 Given to Every Taxpayer.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The victory tax is a temporary tax which will expire automatically after the end of the war.

Altho it is a part of the income tax structure, this temporary levy has different and fewer exemptions and deductions than are allowed in computing either the normal tax or the surtax.

The victory tax rate nominally is 5 per cent, but every taxpayer is allowed a "credit" which reduces the actual rate considerably below 5 per cent. The credit, formerly called a post-war credit, is 25 per cent of the tax for single persons and 40 per cent for married persons, plus an additional 2 per cent for each dependent.

The net rate for a single person with no dependents, therefore, is 3.75 per cent, and for married persons living together it is 3 per cent, whether they file a joint return or separate returns. A single person who is head of a family is allowed the same credit as a married person.

$624 Exemption Given.

A "specific exemption" of $624 is allowed in computing the victory tax on any return reporting the income of only one person, whether single or married. Thus, on the return of a husband whose wife had no income, the exemption would be $624.

On a joint return of a husband and wife, both of whom report income of more than $624, the total exemption is $1,248. If one spouse's income is less than $624, however, the exemption is $624 plus the amount of the smaller income. For example, if the husband's income was $1,000 and the wife's $400, the victory tax exemption would be $624 plus $400, or $1,024.

The $624 specific exemption is not affected by changes in family status or by death. Thus, the full $624 would be taken on the final return for a person who died during the taxable year. The victory tax credit, however, must be apportioned according to the number of months during which the taxpayer was single, and the number during which he was married. The credit for dependents must be similarly prorated. No pro-rating of the credit is required on the last return of a decedent, nor on the return of a taxpayer who files on the short form 1040A.

Limit Placed on Credit.

A limit is placed on the dollar amount of the victory tax credit. For a single person or a married person not living with husband or wife, the limit is $500 plus $100 for each dependent. Married persons who file separate returns are limited to $500 each, plus $100 for each dependent. If a joint return is filed, or if only one return is required because either the husband or the wife has no income, the limit is $1,000 plus $100 for each dependent. A head of a family would also be limited to $1,000 plus $100 for each dependent other than the one qualifying him for the head of family status.

On the short form 1040A the rate used to compute the victory tax is adjusted for the credit. On the regular 1040 form the tax must be computed first at the 5 per cent rate, and the credit then figured separately, because of the possibility that the taxpayer may be affected by the dollar limitations. The limitations do not affect users of the short form.

[The discussion of the victory tax will continue in tomorrow's article.]

POET MASTERS NOT DESTITUTE, SAYS DAUGHTER

A daughter of Edgar Lee Masters, Illinois poet and biographer, denied last night that he is impoverished and destitute. Reports from New York City recently have said Masters, who is 74, was taken from a city hospital's charity ward only thru the intercession of friends.

The daughter is Mrs. Barton R. Gebhart, the former Madeline Masters, who lives at 993 Elm Ridge dr., Glencoe.

"The stories are untrue," she said. "My father is not destitute and is adequately provided for, I am informed. I talked to him on the telephone after he had been in the Park East hospital for three or four days and he told me he had been unhappy in Bellevue hospital [a city institution] and had arranged his transfer by himself."

Now in Bronx Sanitarium.

The Park East hospital is a private hospital, to which Masters was removed from Bellevue. He is now convalescent in the Hill Crest sanitarium in the Bronx, New York.

"Dad was taken to Bellevue originally, he told me, because he became ill suddenly and had to be removed to the first available hospital," Mrs. Gebhart added.

"Dad was certainly in good spirits on the phone and we've had letters from him since then. I can't comment on his plight because there isn't any plight at all."

Mrs. Gebhart said she didn't know about a plan of his second wife, the former Ellen F. Coyne, who is 30 years his junior, to take care of the poet.

Son on Duty in Army.

There are two other children by Masters' first wife, the former Helen Jenkins of Chicago. They are Maj. Hardin Masters, now on active duty with the army at an undisclosed base, and Mrs. Marcia Jennings of Chicago, who writes under the name Marcia Masters. She is said to be in California visiting friends.

Masters was a successful lawyer here until his "Spoon River Anthology" raised him to the front line of American poets in 1915. A few years later he abandoned the practice of law to write and has since written more than 20 volumes of prose and poetry. He was reared in the Lincoln country near Petersburg, Ill.

TAKE $953 IN HOLDUP.

Two masked white men last night held up Louis Hass, owner of the Chicago Building, Loan and Homestead association, and his brother, Adam, of 5212 W. 23d st., Cicero, in the company's office at 2215 S. California av., and robbed them of $953, they reported to police.

PAROLEE BRIBE OF $10 SPURNED; $732 IN POCKET

Max Berman, alias Burman, notorious burglar and bail jumper paroled in July, 1942, after serving 12 years in prison, was arrested yesterday at Winthrop and Lawrence avs. by Policemen Edward Burke and Leo Mikell of the Summerdale station. The policemen said he offered them $10 if they would let him go. They refused, and when they searched him, found $732 in his pocket. Berman said he was holding the money for a friend.

CITIZENS GROUP TO PROBE BACK OF YARDS FIGHT

Parks' Head Promises 'Astonishing' Data.

The citizens' committee appointed to investigate operations and expenditures of the Chicago park district yesterday stepped into the controversy between Robert J. Dunham, president of the park district, and the Back of the Yards Neighborhood council, when it ordered an investigation of the council's activities.

Park district commissioners, in a resolution welcoming the investigation, voted unanimously to supply the citizens' committee with all information desired. The committee, appointed in 1937, is composed of leaders of civic, business, labor, and welfare organizations. Max Murdock, an attorney, is chairman.

Hopes to "Smoke Out Facts."

Dunham, in a statement, said he "hoped the investigation would smoke out some vital facts concerning the activities of the Back of the Yards Neighborhood council which the public as taxpayers have a right to know and which heretofore have been steadfastly concealed."

Included in the council's activities is the sponsorship of school lunch programs, for which it receives reimbursement from federal and state funds.

At the same time it was learned that Mancel Talcott, state supervisor of school lunch programs in the office of the superintendent of public instruction, Springfield, had demanded field audits of the school lunch programs being conducted in Chicago. W. A. Stolte, state supervisor for the federal government's food distribution administration, has been asked to supply the figures. State expenditures for the school lunch program are on the basis of pupil participation figures furnished by FDA.

Cost Million in Chicago.

Stolte recently admitted that he had not yet made field audits of the school lunch programs, which for the current school year will consume federal and state subsidies totaling more than a million dollars for the city of Chicago alone. Field audits are intended to check claims for federal and state funds by sponsoring organizations, such as the Back of the Yards Neighborhood council.

The citizens' committee notified the park district commissioners it would investigate "the park district's policy with reference to affording private agencies continuous use of park facilities and services."

Murdock said the investigation had been inspired by the controversy over use of the Davis Square park fieldhouse by the Back of the Yards Neighborhood council for its school lunch program. The controversy so far has resulted in the barring of the council from further use of the fieldhouse and the resignation of Joseph B. Meegan, former director of Davis Square park. Meegan now has a full time job as executive director of the council.

Promises "Astonishing" Data.

Dunham also said he would furnish the investigating committee with facts "that will provide some astonishing disclosures on the role of Saul Alinsky and the astounding growth of the organizations he has sponsored."

Alinsky is listed by the Back of the Yards Neighborhood council as its technical consultant. He also is executive director of the Industrial Areas foundation, a little known organization which maintains offices at 8 S. Michigan av., and has sponsored the establishment of organizations similar to the Back of the Yards Neighborhood council in Omaha, Neb.; South St. Paul, Minn.; Kansas City, Kas., and Cleveland, O.

The citizens' committee, in addition to Murdock, is composed of Herbert Bebb, representing the City club; Harry E. O'Reilly, Chicago Federation of Labor; Mrs. W. H. Hermsdorf, Chicago and Cook county Federation of Women's Organizations; Philip L. Seman, Chicago Recreation commission and Jewish People's institute; Douglas Sutherland, Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency; Harriet E. Vittum, Chicago Recreation commission and Northwestern university settlement, and George B. McKibbin, Commercial Club of Chicago. McKibbin now is state director of finance.

This was the seventh consecutive month that Illinois led other states in the 6th war production board region.

TAX RATE EQUAL TO $10.26 ON $100 EXPECTED HERE

A tentative estimate that the 1943 tax rate in Chicago, based on a 100 per cent valuation, would be $3.93 on the $100, was made yesterday by the Civic Federation. The 1942 rate, based on a 37 per cent valuation, was $10.42; on the same basis the federation estimated that the 1943 rate is equivalent to $10.26.

The reduction in actual rate, the federation bulletin said, is not attributed to the change in assessment methods, but to smaller tax levies. The Chicago levies were $193,777,000 last year and are estimated at $188,472,000 for this year.

Two taxing bodies—the board of education [building fund] and Cook county, which has transferred some of its obligations to the state—accounted for most of the decrease in levies. [These are tentative estimates, as the county has not yet made its budget.]

The bulletin asserted that the new system of assessment would result in a loss of 1¼ millions to the taxpayers; with $711,000 attributable to taxing bodies having and using a rate producing more revenue than was possible under 37 per cent assessment. The remaining $551,000 was attributed to bookkeeping methods of splitting odd pennies in tax rates.

BUTCHER AND 2 PRODUCE FIRMS FACE OPA ACTION

Paul A. H. Shults, acting Chicago area OPA director, yesterday disclosed actions against a butcher and two wholesale produce dealers on charges of selling commodities above ceiling prices. He also said that in the first action of the OPA against a member of the leather industry for violation of maximum price ceilings a judgment for $1,575 has been entered by Federal Judge Igoe against Adolph Salomon & Sons, Inc., 222 W. North Bank dr., a jobbing firm.

Shults filed a suspension petition against John Knipper, operator of a meat market at 8939 S. Loomis st., charging that since August he had charged 8 to 22 cents a pound above ceilings for meat. Hearing on the petition was set for Feb. 17.

Suits for triple damages were filed in federal district court against A. J. Panagakos, 736 Randolph st., and Gust Karedes, 854 Randolph st., the produce dealers. They were charged with selling onions at prices above OPA maximums. The OPA seeks $337.65 from Panagakos and $2,081.34 from Karedes.

The judgment in the Salomon case was by stipulation and followed filing of a triple damage suit by Shults.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Second Lt. Gerry H. Kisters, Bloomington, Ind., leans forward as his wife, Nola, places the congressional medal of honor about his neck after presentation by the President in Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt today awarded congressional medals of honor to an army hero of the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns and a marine flyer who has knocked down 20 Japanese planes.

One of them, 2d Lt. Gerry H. Kisters, 24, of Bloomington, Ind., had received the distinguished service cross from Gen. Marshall, chief of staff, a few minutes earlier.

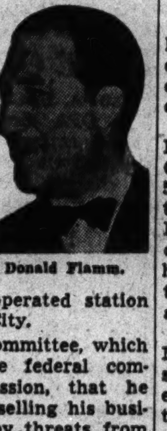
Lt. Kenneth A. Walsh, 29, of Washington, D. C., is the marine who received the medal of honor.

TELLS PRESSURE BY WHITE HOUSE IN WMCA SALE

Ex-Owner Bares Duress for Hopkins' Aid.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—A house investigating committee today heard the former owner of a radio station charge he was forced to sell his station under a barrage of "duress" which was "greased from the White House down."



Donald Flamm.

The witness was Donald Flamm, who until January, 1941, operated station WMCA, New York City.

Flamm told the committee, which is investigating the federal communications commission, that he was pressured into selling his business at that time by threats from a former FCC official that his operating license would be rescinded if he refused.

Negotiated by Dempsey.

Flamm said he was forced, under this threat, to sell the station for $850,000 to Edward J. Noble, former undersecretary of commerce to Harry Hopkins. The actual deal, he said, was negotiated by the former FCC counsel, William J. Dempsey, who served as Noble's attorney in the transaction.

According to Flamm's testimony, the plan for the sale to which he unwillingly assented originated with David K. Niles, special administrative assistant to President Roosevelt, and Thomas G. [Tommy the Cork] Corcoran, then a White House intimate.

Niles laid the groundwork for the plan, the witness said, by urging him [Flamm] to engage another former government official as WMCA's Washington representative. The official, whom Flamm hired in 1939, was Leslie E. Roberts, one time director of WPA's radio projects.

"Not Interested" in Sale.

Flamm said that Dempsey approached him in the fall of 1940 and said he had been retained by a "former member of the President's cabinet," whom Dempsey refused to identify but later turned out to be Noble, for the purpose of negotiating for the purchase of WMCA.

Flamm testified he replied he was not interested in selling "at any price." Soon after, he continued, Dempsey said his client, still unnamed, was planning to apply to FCC for permission to operate a station on WMCA's wave length and thus displace WMCA.

According to the witness, Roberts, who was then employed by WMCA, advised Flamm to sell out and told him "this thing has been greased from the White House down—it is supposed to be a political favor for some one."

Appealed to Niles.

Flamm said Roberts reported he had appealed to Niles to drop the proposed transaction, but that Niles had told Roberts he would have to see Corcoran. Subsequently, the witness continued, it developed that Roberts was a participant with Corcoran, Niles and the others in planning the deal.

Dempsey's first offer, Flamm testified, was for $750,000, and was accompanied by an ultimatum to "take it or else." Flamm refused it, explaining he did not want to sell and had previously refused offers for more than 1 million dollars. Later, the offer was raised to $850,000.

Flamm said he finally agreed to the sale on Nov. 28 when the "situation appeared hopeless" because of the "duress" brought upon him. It was not until then, he explained, that the prospective purchaser was identified as Noble.

When he finally met with Noble and the attorneys to draft a sale contract, Flamm related, Noble seemed "considerably embarrassed by the whole thing."

The committee adjourned before Flamm's testimony was completed and will hear him again tomorrow.

Florence Conklin (left) with Dorothy Ellen Hurtt, 14, whose custody is being sought by her parents.

Judge Lewe of the Superior court heard testimony yesterday in a child custody suit which he said called for one of the most difficult decisions in his career on the bench.

The suit was brought by Marks Hurtt, 59, manager of a grocery in Geneva, O., and his wife, Martha, 54, who are seeking to regain custody of their daughter, Dorothy, 14. Defendants in the case are Hurtt's cousin, Miss Florence Conklin, 59; her sister, Miss Nellie, 61, and Dorothy's older brother, William Hurtt, and his wife, Betty.

Dorothy has been living with the Misses Conklin at 1259 Rosedale av. since she was 4 years old. Her parents contend they surrendered custody of the child on condition that she be returned whenever they wanted her, and that the Conklin sisters refuse to give her up.

James H. Cartwright, attorney for the defendants, said that welfare of the child is the paramount issue. He said the elder Hurtt and his wife had nine children, and their income was sufficient only for bare necessities.

ROBBED BY THREE BANDITS.

Michael Connelly, 6636 Greenwood av., told police yesterday he was robbed of $16 by three men near his home.

HEALTH QUIZ

	YES	NO
Do you have poor digestion?	☐	☐
Do you feel headachy after eating?	☐	☐
Do you get sour or upset easily?	☐	☐
Do you feel tired—listless?	☐	☐

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails—your food may remain undigested—lie sour and heavy in your digestive tract.
Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.
Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's aid digestion after Nature's own order, when taken as directed. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—at any drugstore—only 25¢. You will be glad you did.

Agent J.T. Lane
—RAILROADER WITH A WILL TO "CARRY ON"

WAR DAYS are busy days for "North Western" agents. J. T. Lane at Centerville, South Dakota, is an example. When this 31-year service man isn't selling tickets, or arranging for the shipment of grain or live stock, he's doing any one of a dozen other jobs.

Agent Lane's thoughts, when not on his work, are occupied with something even closer to his heart—his four boys wearing the fighting uniforms of Uncle Sam. Alan, now in Sicily, went through the North African campaign. Claire's in the Air Corps and at present is an instructor at Chanute Field. Leo, who for three years was a "North Western" telegraph operator, is in the Naval Air Force somewhere in the Pacific. Maurice is in training at Camp Kohler, California.

Lane's working philosophy is a wholesome one. Realizing he is an essential unit in America's rail transportation, he's determined to make every working moment count in the Fight for Freedom. Even though miles from the fighting front, he realizes his efforts, plus those of every other railroad worker, count tremendously in the part transportation is playing in winning the war.

So to members of "North Western's" family and to all other patriotic railroaders we say—you're doing a great job—CARRY ON!

New Maternity Center Library Dedication Set

BY JUDITH CASS.

ONE of the nicest of the Valentine day parties will be the dedication of the Lena K. Witkowsky Memorial library at the Chicago Maternity center Monday night. The ceremony will be preceded by a buffet supper given by the board of directors of the center at 8 o'clock, with Mrs. John Andrews King officiating at the punch bowl and roast beef sandwiches on the menu.

The library has been created out of what was formerly the recreation room of the center by Mrs. Howard Linn, whose exquisite taste in furnishings is reflected in her Lake Bluff home and again in the small apartment she and Mr. Linn have taken in the city, in which plans for the dedication were announced at luncheon yesterday.

Eighteen months ago the family of Mrs. Lena K. Witkowsky presented a sum of money to the maternity center for a medical library to be established in her memory. With it Mrs. Linn has brought an atmosphere of charm and comfort out of a bleak and cheerless room. Bright draperies, furnishings of pine against dark floors and walls, and indirect lighting are used effectively. Instead of using conventional curtains at the glass paneled entrance doors, Mrs. E. Harris Brewer has decorated the glass with paintings.

The library will be for the use of physicians, medical students, nurses, and the staff of the center, and the buffet supper will provide the opportunity for the center's personnel and the directors to meet and know one another better.

The center is the largest out-patient obstetrical clinic in this country and in the last year delivered 2,179 mothers in Chicago's poorest districts. Its maternal mortality is only one-fourth the average of the entire country and equals that of the best hospitals.

Mrs. T. Philip Swift, honorary chairman of the board of directors; Mrs. King, chairman, and Mrs. Linn, a director, were some of those who discussed the dedication yesterday. Clark J. Lawrence is president of the board. Dr. Beatrice E. Tucker is medical director.

Wedding News.

When Joseph A. Mead returned unexpectedly Sunday from China, where he has been connected with an aviation company, he and his fiancée, Miss Flora Falconer, immediately made plans to be married last night. The ceremony took place at 9 o'clock in the chapel of the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest, where both the bride's parents, the Albert William Falconers, and Mr. Mead's mother, Mrs. Edward H. Bennett, live.

Miss Jean Campbell of Lake Forest was the bride's only attendant, and Mr. Bennett was best man for his stepson. Missing from the gathering were young Mr. Mead's sister, Mrs. George W. Merck, and Lt. Merck, who had to leave earlier yesterday for Washington, D. C. Mr. Mead and his bride have gone on a short wedding trip.

From New York comes news of a marriage that is of interest here because the bridegroom is Seymour Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Thomas Morris of Winnetka, and a popular bachelor-about-town until his work took him to New York. Monday, in the University chapel in Princeton, N. J., Mr. Morris and Mrs. Constance Looram Dixon were married. The announcement is being made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Richard A. Peabody of New York.

The new Mrs. Morris, whose mar-

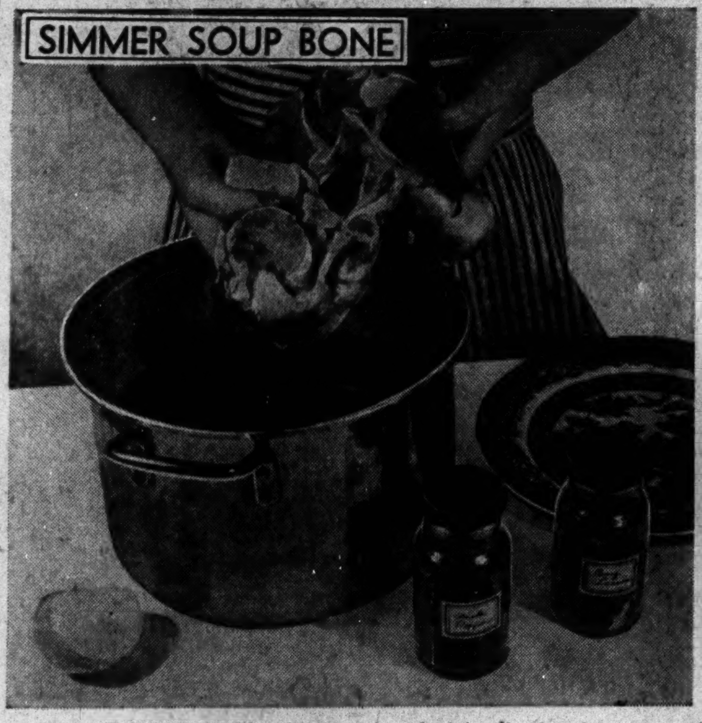
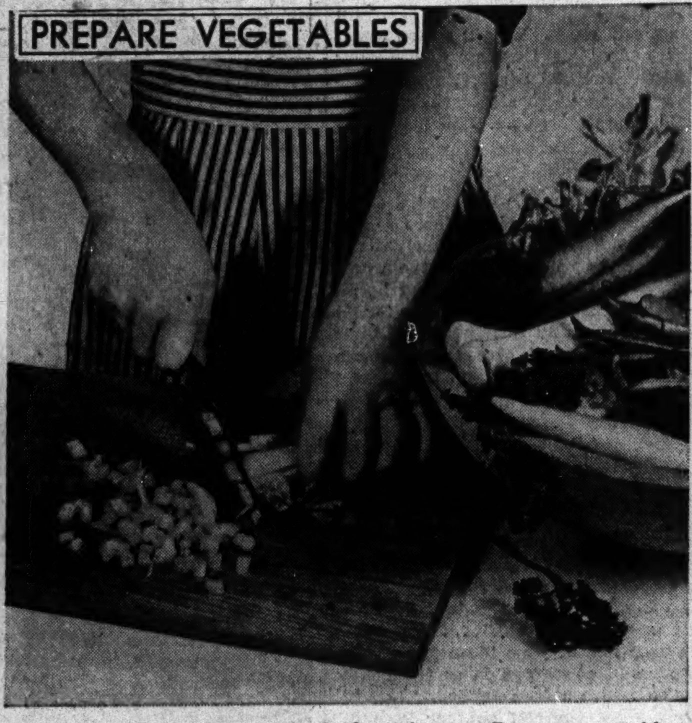
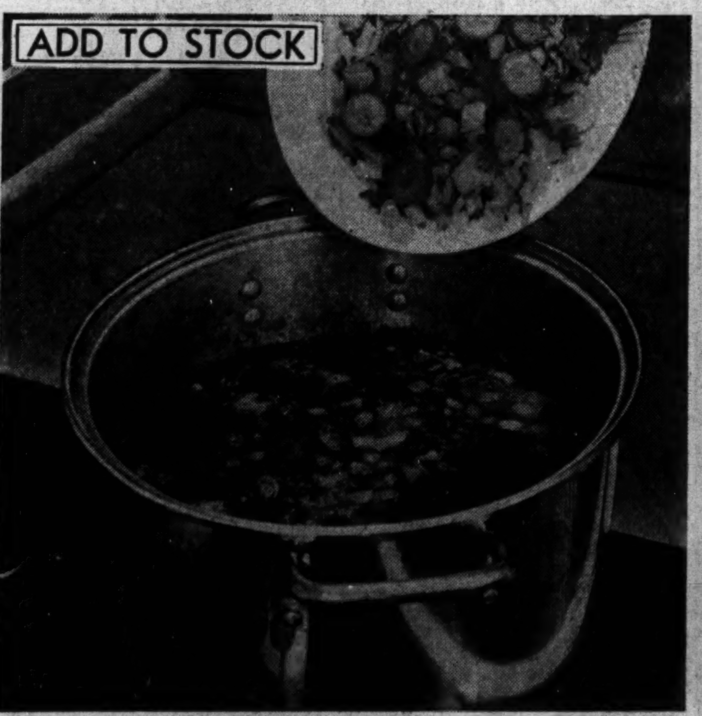
Mary Meade Shows How to Prepare Vegetable Soup



1. A beef soup bone like this one (cracked by the butcher) costs only a few cents and no ration points. Place it in a kettle with water to cover, salt, an onion, a bay leaf, and a few peppercorns (whole black peppers).



2. Let soup bone simmer gently for 3 hours. Prepare vegetables toward end of simmering period. Celery, leeks, green beans, carrots, and potatoes are going into this soup. The parsley will be used for garnish.



3. Remove bone from stock, strain stock, and replace in kettle with any scraps of cooked meat which can be cut from bone. Add vegetables. Taste soup and adjust seasonings. You'll probably need more salt.

4. Cook about 45 minutes after adding vegetables. Serve soup piping hot; sprinkle each serving with chopped parsley or grated cheese. If large amount of stock is made, some may be saved for soup or gravy later.

Yanks, Realists, Scorn Slogans, Educators Told

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Don't shout any slogans such as "make the world safe for democracy" or "the war to end war" within the hearing of United States fighting men in this war; in fact, put no dependence on slogans at all. In this respect the nation's fighting men of today differ from those of 1917-'18. Nowadays the slogan user is answered with one word: "Bunk!"

These assertions were made yesterday by Dr. William B. Pugh of Philadelphia, who was the principal speaker at the fellowship luncheon of the International Council of Religious Education, holding its convention this week in the Stevens hotel. Dr. Pugh, who, as a representative of the country's Protestantism, recently returned from a 40,000 mile tour of the principal battle fronts, declared that today's fighting men have acquired a tough realism that scoffs at slogans.

An illustration of slogans "probably coming out of offices in Washington," Dr. Pugh said, is one attributed to the South Pacific area: "There are no atheists in foxholes." He added that some of the raft stories were invented in Washington to show the people at home that the men in uniform are spiritually minded.

Dr. Pugh praised the unity of the Roman Catholic church as it supports chaplains in the field, adding that "when the Protestant chaplain gets into a jam he has no united support back of him and frequently has to give ground and yield on points that he knows are right."

The first award of the Russell Colgate citation for lay leadership in Christian education was made at the luncheon to James L. Kraft, Chicago manufacturer. Dr. Arlo Ayers Brown, president of Drew university, Madison, N. J., presented the citation, which will be awarded annually. Mr. Kraft is acting president of the council and has been its treasurer since 1922.

Dr. Liston Pope of Yale divinity school told the ministers' section of the convention yesterday that distant problems such as the disposition of the British empire seem easier to solve than home front problems. "While protesting Hitler's enslavement of the German people, we fail to see that there are forces in this country ready to destroy or enslave every mass movement, particularly labor," he said.

All the newest tub materials are here, smooth chambrays, clever crinkled seersuckers, crisp piques and ginghams, and more are promised almost daily during the next two or three weeks. Those who are timid always can start on children's clothes, cunning little aprons, jumper dresses, and tiny little blouses as well as dresses and two piece suits.

Snappy white pique with effective eyelet embroidery and sheers like organdy, dimity, and lawn are ideal materials for high fashion vestees, sleeveless blouses, and waistcoats. More ambitious needlewomen will combine exquisite embroideries and laces with thin lawns and organdies to make indispensable lingerie blouses for the coming march of spring suits.

Print and plain combinations are time tested since they have been going strong for three seasons. Exacting women fully appreciate the fool proof assortment of matched prints and contrasting plain materials as the background colors of the various prints are quickly and flawlessly matched to the plain. For example, a blue and white print can be combined in one dress with a solid color blue which is the same shade as the background blue of the print. You'll find stunning red prints and plain gold, green, yellow, and purple, very distinctive printed designs with all colors clear, strong, and true.

OPA Explains the A B C's of Ration Tokens

BY JEANNE McCARTHY.

William F. Sullivan, regional office of price administration information executive, yesterday explained, with the aid of motion pictures, illustrated printed matter, and a question and answer period, the uses of the new ration tokens, which will be put into use Feb. 27. The new program, he said, has been introduced to save wear and tear on consumer and retailer alike.

He spoke to 400 women in the People's Gas Light and Coke Co. auditorium, 122 S. Michigan av. The women were community office of civilian defense consumer information chairmen, called together by Mrs. William H. Stanley, director of the information service. They will carry back the message to their home communities.

The new plan makes three major changes in the processed foods and meat rationing program: [1] Each stamp, regardless of its indicated number, assumes a value of 10 points. [2] Tokens will be given only as change; they will remain valid indefinitely; they may be used for future purchases; each has a value of 1 point. [3] Stamps will have a validity period of 12 weeks; they are now good for from four to five weeks.

After a change-over period, the red and blue stamps in ration book 4 will be used exclusively. Red tokens will be given in change for red stamps in the purchase of meats, butter, cheese, oils, canned milk, and fish. Blue tokens will be change for blue stamps in the purchase of processed foods. The tokens are slightly smaller than a dime. They are of plastic, with a fiber center.

During a change-over period, expiring March 20, consumers will use brown stamps Y and Z in book 3 for meats, and green stamps K, L, and M in book 4 for processed foods, at their numbered values. Tokens, however, will be given in change for point excesses; the point value of these stamps remains unchanged. After these are used, the red and blue stamps in book 4 will provide rationed meats and canned goods exclusively. Mr. Sullivan advised the women, tho, not to throw away their out-of-use books.

He explained that under the new system consumers would be allowed a total of 50 blue points each [for processed foods] and 60 red points each [for meats, etc.] each month. This provoked a storm of protest from the women who thought they were being cut down on their food. The existing system allows about 64 points worth of rationed foods and meats each month.

Mr. Sullivan explained hastily that point values were being revised mathematically, so the consumer will receive exactly the same amount of food as heretofore.

The use of the new system was illustrated thus: After Feb. 27, Mrs. Johnson, who has bought 16 points worth of processed foods, will pay the dealer with two blue coupons, marked 8A and 8B from book 4. Because these will now have a point value of 10 points each, he will give her 4 blue tokens in change. She may use these at a later date for smaller purchases.

Mr. Sullivan said that an actual demonstration in a Chicago store showed a 50 per cent saving of time thru the new system. He also said that it simplified the grocer's after-hours work because he will have only to separate the red from the blue points, instead of separating the individual numbers. Nationally, it will eliminate the retailers' handling of 2 billion 400 million ration stamps, and one book will do the work of two or three, Mr. Sullivan said. Dealers are receiving their tokens, in boxes of 250, from ration banks.

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

Annemarie Berndt.

A young woman who lived for six months under Hitler's rule in Vienna was sworn into the WAC this week. She is Miss Annemarie Berndt, who wanted to enlist as soon as the United States entered the war but had to wait for her American citizenship papers, which she received Jan. 20.

Miss Berndt is a coloratura soprano, having studied voice in Vienna and also in Chicago, with Mme. Ada Paggi. She has stated a preference for a WAC billet as an interpreter but is willing to serve in any capacity in which she will be of greatest use to the army.

The new WAC enlistee came to the United States in October, 1938, after her father, Frederich Berndt, obtained his release from a concentration camp in which he was confined for several months. Both Miss Berndt's parents are musicians and teachers of music. The family home is at 5104 Winthrop av.

A number of the more than 50 Illinois WAC recruits who left Chicago this week for basic training at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., are Chicagoans.

Miss Margaret A. Parks, 4322 Sheridan rd., is the fifth member of her family to join the army. Four of her seven brothers are wearing khaki. One of them, Pvt. Steven W. Parks, recently received the distinguished service cross in New Guinea.

Another of the new Chicago WACs is Miss Cecile L. Jacobs, 3920 Marine dr., who has been a writer of popular songs.

Pvt. Lillian M. Lindskog, a Chicago singer, is among the women already in WAC training at Fort Oglethorpe. She is the second woman in her family to enlist in the army. Her sister, Pvt. Flora B. Lindskog, is stationed at Camp Edwards, Mass.

Pvt. Lillian Lindskog made her musical debut at a recital last year, and appeared at several of the popular Grant park summer concerts.

She was graduated from Senn High school and attended the Bush Conservatory of Music, the American Conservatory of Music, and North Park college. She is a member of Phi Beta, professional music fraternity; the Chicago Artists' association, and the Society of American Musicians.

Both WAC privates are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Lindskog, 2051 Berwyn av.

Scientist Gives Women a Look Into the Future

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE.

Roomy automobiles furnished by their owners with sofas, bridge tables, and television sets; personal radio wave lengths listed in the telephone book to enable individuals to "tune in" each other, and air ducts in homes for heating, cooling, removing fine dust and pollen grains from the atmosphere are some of the post-war improvements predicted by Dr. Gerald T. Wendt, whose provocative talk on "Science and the War" kept his audience at the Woman's Athletic club spellbound for an hour yesterday.

Because a television set will be too costly for the average family, Dr. Wendt believes that free television shows will cause a marked swing toward community gatherings. Dehydrated foods appearing under brand names will be as common as breakfast cereals, he said, and "the architecture of roast beef will be gone forever."

Mrs. John C. Slade, who rarely misses an event at the club, was absent from yesterday's talk for a good reason. Between 4 and 6 p. m. yesterday Mrs. Slade entertained at tea in her Lake Shore dr. apartment for her sister, Mrs. Keyes Stillwell, who arrived last week for a three week visit.

Before her return to this country early in December on the Gripsholm, Mrs. Stillwell had spent seven months in a Japanese concentration camp, having been taken into custody in Peking, China, last March. From Chicago she will go back to Washington, D. C., to spend a week with her daughter, Mrs. Pearsons Rust, before returning to her home in New York. Only the absence of Mrs. Slade's daughter, Shirley, kept yesterday's party from being a complete reunion, as Miss Slade is in Harlingen, Tex., flying bombers and towing targets for the army air forces.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 8.—I hope it's true that Harold Lloyd and Preston Sturges are getting together. If it is, we'll have Lloyd back on the screen. I'm sure the present generation will be as happy to make his acquaintance as we were. . . . Paul Langton, cast for "Marriage Is a Private Affair," did a test stand in for Van Johnson and now he's been taken out of the Lana Turner picture and given an important part in "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo." . . . Start of "A Wing and a Prayer" was held up a couple of days so that Lloyd Nolan could appear with Kate Smith in New York. . . . Henny Youngman gets the top comedy spot in "A WAVE, a WAC, and a SPAR." When Henny gets here in March for the picture, he'll also guest star with Abbott and Costello on the air. They replaced him when they got their first break with Kate Smith.

Father Got Left.

When Oscar Serlin learned the Salvador Dalis had no place to stay he turned over his apartment at the Beverly Hills hotel. He was leaving next day anyway. Manager let him occupy Acquanetta's room. She wasn't expected back for a week, but turned up in the middle of the night—so Serlin slept on a cot in the manager's room. Dali is here to paint Mrs. Jack Warner's portrait. When a friend of hers said to him, "I hope you won't make it look like the nightmare song from 'Iolanthe'," he replied, "How could I paint anybody so beautiful except as she is?" At his first show in London, in 1930, when critics were introduced to oddments hanging from dresser drawers and quaint characters playing with eyeballs as tho they were marbles, the one thing they picked out was a small head of his wife. It was beautifully done.

Among Her Memories.

A soldier at the canteen came up to Florence Bates and asked, "You don't remember me, do you?" "I certainly do," said Florence. "Four months ago you came up to me and asked if you might kiss me. A woman who's just turning to 56 doesn't forget an occasion as rare as that." At which he kissed her again. . . . Sophie Tucker stopped off long enough to do her act for "Sensations of 1944." She returns here in May for six months at Florentine Gardens. Our red hot mamma says business thruout the country is phenomenal. Every night is like New Year's eve. While I was saying hello, three people phoned to ask her to appear at the canteen, sell war bonds, and do a benefit

About Time.

One of few most important happenings was a meeting of some of our finest writers, directors, actors, and thinkers in the industry, getting together for the preservation of motion pictures and to combat growing propaganda and infiltration of communism and all other isms which might find their way to our screens. They haven't given it a title—I hope they won't. It's a motion picture alliance for the preservation of American ideals. Even our radicals can't gripe at that. . . . Jerry Wayne, radio singer, is about to get a big buildup for pictures by Buddy De Sylva. Three years ago he could have been signed up for $75 per. It's costing many times that now.

Got Left.

Betty Hutton will probably have a relapse. She spent the week-end at Arrowhead Springs, but there wasn't a sign of Clark Gable. . . . Mrs. Frank Sinatra got a five karat diamond cut emerald ring to celebrate their fifth wedding anniversary. . . . Dr. Fred Miller, dentist, got Sinatra's autograph while here from Altoona. Said he, "With women swooning all over the place, think of the saving in my gas bill. I'll frame it and hang it where the women can see it. They'll swoon and I can start drilling." . . . "The Hairy Ape" is Dorothy Comingore's second picture. Dorothy's having a baby. She had her first after finishing "Citizen Kane." . . . Janet Beecher, about to start rehearsals in "Love and Learn," becomes a grandmother in March. . . . Dick Powell's going to fight for his children.

Goes Right on Planning.

Sat beside Jimmy Hilton at the free world dinner. We started chewing the fat about kind of pictures we'd like. I want him to do a sequel to "Mr. Chips" called "Mr. Chips' Boys"—about those who survived the war, and one who comes forth with a real plan for putting the world together again and perpetual peace. Jimmy liked the idea. And here's one he'd like to do, but doubts very much if the studios would go for it: To make the boys who are crippled or physically disfigured, on their return to private life, center of their homes, and give them even a firmer place in the hearts of their wives, sweethearts, and friends, by letting them see the adoration and respect the world has for them, even tho they may never be whole again.

Freed World.

Too bad Vice President Wallace hasn't been here before. He's a farm boy gone glamorous—so naive. Fascism, he explained in three words: "Money above man." "Democracy," he said, "is the greatest thing in the world. Next comes America." I'd put it the other way around. He sure had a full house—except wives of the biggies stayed home. . . . Marriage of Jacqueline De Witt and Lt. J. S. Pennell postponed because of his serious illness. His new book, "History of Rome Hanks," will be on sale soon. She's in "Dragon Seed." . . . Herman Mankiewicz to Orson Welles: "I've used one of your ideas for a story soon to appear in a national magazine, and wrote you in as the heavy. Would you like to be co-author?" To which Orson replied, "No, I'll wait till it appears. If it stinks, you've got yourself another lawsuit."

INSTALMENT XXVII.

ELLIOT ANGERED.

Miss Silver was soothing on the subject of Rena.

"Of course I like Elliot," said Irene, "and Phyllida was dreadfully in love with him. You know they are separated. I don't know what happened—Aunt Grace didn't talk about it. They were only just back from their honeymoon, and we all thought how happy they were, and then all of a sudden Aunt Grace said Elliot had gone and he wouldn't be coming back. Poor Phyl looked exactly like a ghost. You can't think how surprised every one was when he walked in on Wednesday night just as if nothing had happened."

"I can well imagine it," said Miss Silver.

She conversed presently with Phyllida, who told her quite simply that she had come down to the study and talked with her uncle after the others had gone to bed.

"Elliot didn't want me to tell any one, but it hadn't anything to do with what my uncle said at dinner. Elliot was afraid the police might think it had. I wanted to see Uncle James about something quite different."

"You would naturally wish to find out why Mr. Paradine had invited Mr. Wray, and why Mr. Wray had accepted his invitation."

Phyllida's color brightened. She did not quite know what to say. While she hesitated, she met Miss Silver's gaze.

"I had to talk to some one."

"And Mr. Paradine was able to help you?"

"Yes, I think so."

"I am glad about that. Misunderstandings should never be permitted to continue."

"I know. It wasn't just a misunderstanding."

Miss Silver smiled. All at once Phyllida felt as if she and Elliot were in the nursery again. They were being told not to quarrel, and they were being encouraged to kiss and be friends.

"When you came away from the study, did you see any one?"

She was taken off her guard. She was thankful that she could say no.

A second question came quickly.

"Or hear anything, Mrs. Wray?"

This time her color changed. She looked down, she looked distressed.

"O, no—there wasn't anything——"

The men coming in at this moment gave Phyllida a chance of escape. A small cold thought like a snake moved suddenly in the shadows of her mind. A shudder went over her and she looked so white that Miss Paradine threw her an anxious glance.

"Come and sit down, darling, and get warm. You've been too far from the fire."

She smiled faintly in reply, but instead of approaching the coffee tray she crossed to the other side of the hearth.

Elliot came over to her, coffee cup in hand.

"I want to talk to you."

The words pushed in over the thought that had robbed her of her color. They were like some one coming into the room and banging the door. She knew Elliot in this mood. At the moment she found it heartening. Still looking into the fire, she murmured.

"I don't see how——"

"What's to stop our walking out of the room together?"

"I couldn't."

Elliot laughed.

"Afraid of the scandal?"

"I couldn't. Tomorrow—I'll find a time tomorrow."

"She's kept you running all day. It'll be the same tomorrow, with plenty of the family handy to make sure we don't get a minute alone."

Phyllida went on looking into the fire. Elliot was in bad temper. Unreasonable to feel a pleasant glow creeping into the cold frightened place where she had been.

"Phyl darling!"

"Yes, Aunt Grace?"

"Darling, if you could just keep Brenda with you and away from Irene. Both their nerves are in such a state, and I don't really feel I can bear much more."

Impossible to refuse. Impossible to do anything except comply affectionately. She settled down to an evening of innuendo mounting by sharp degrees towards open accusation. Whether you talked about the North Pole, the war in the east, or the latest film, Brenda managed to drag Irene in somehow.

The drawing room of the River house was not the only place where Irene was being discussed. Col. Bostock, relaxing pleasantly in the society of his daughters, tossed a log on the fire. He addressed himself to Janet, a healthy, well set-up young woman with a pleasant, sensible face.

"Remember the Pennington girls—Irene and, what's her name, Lydia?"

"Of course. Why?"

"Old Paradine's dead. One of them married the stepson, didn't she? What's his name—Ambrose?"

Alice Bostock said:

"There'll be pots of money. I wonder if Irene comes in for any of it."

"She wasn't the red-headed one, was she?" said Col. Bostock.

Both girls spoke together.

"O, no—that's Lydia."

Col. Bostock leaned back.

He said in rather an abstracted voice:

"Irene—now wasn't there something about that girl Irene?"

Alice looked at Janet and then looked away again. Neither of the girls said anything.

"There was something about that girl Irene, wasn't there? You were at school with her, Janet. What was it?"

Janet said reluctantly, "It's a long time ago—it doesn't seem fair to rake it up."

"Rubbish! It either happened or it didn't happen. If it did, there'll be dozens of people who can tell me. Do you want me to go 'round asking them? I'm asking you two. That's better, isn't it? Make less talk."

Fine Arts Festival.

A fine arts festival will be held at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Jefferson park fieldhouse, Higgins and Long avenues, by the fine arts department of the 7th district Federation of Women's club.

Amazing Cough Relief, Mixed In Your Kitchen

Saves Big Dollars. No Cooking.

Yes, ma'am, right in your own kitchen, you can easily mix a cough medicine that is a wonder for quick results, and gives you about four times as much for your money. And it's no trouble—a child could do it.

You'll need a syrup. Make it by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a pint bottle. Then add your syrup. There you have a full pint of really remarkable medicine for coughs due to colds. It lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

You'll say this beats anything you ever tried. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Horowitz Finds New Beauty in Old Concerto

Suite No. 3, D major............Bach
Morceau Symphonique, from "Redemption"................Franck
Symphony No. 3 [in one movement]......................Roy Harris
Concerto for piano, No. 2, in A major..........................Liszt

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

Vladimir Horowitz, besides being one of the greatest pianists who ever lived, is also one of the most handicapped. For when he sits to play with orchestra—a procedure that never fails to put him on his most extraordinary mettle—there are, of all the piano concertos that have been produced in the two centuries since composers began to write in this form, scarcely a half dozen that permit him to do the things that Horowitz alone can do and which the public expects each time it pays to hear him play.

Yesterday afternoon, for the second time in 16 years, he performed Liszt's second concerto in A major with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The work usually has been regarded as a stepchild, remembered by pianists only when utterly wearied of the theatrical glitter of the ubiquitous first concerto of this composer. But as Horowitz differs from his colleagues in other respects, so did he differ in his approach to Liszt's second concerto.

Nothing of boredom or apology tainted this publication. It was definitely a process of re-creation. The long curves of romantic melody had the ring of truth and sincerity with which they must have appealed to the mid-nineteenth century. The turbulent episodes were proclaimed as fiery, exciting drama, and one forgot that at other times they have sounded like sheerest bombast. The cadenzas were not gratuitous incidents of vain display but delicate strokes of relieving color, deftly applied to a broad canvas.

It was also a shrewd performance, for Horowitz declined to cheapen himself by playing the blustering glissandi the composer indicated in the finale, and when a lyrical moment in the middle section appealed to him, he had no scruples about repeating it, with no damage to Liszt's sprawling architecture and only heightening the audience's enjoyment of some rarely beautiful tonal evocation.

The whole, it need scarcely be added, provoked a torrential reaction, but even to this brief 20 minutes, the pianist resisted all urging to add the teeny weeny bit more that would have made history.

Mr. Defauw's portion of the program involved the third Bach suite which had appeared on an earlier program—again brightly played, with an especial salute to the trumpets for a tricky job neatly turned—and the Morceau Symphonique from Franck's "Redemption," music in which the conductor appears to specialize without making any one care too much.

Roy Harris' third symphony, which completed the program's first half, has enjoyed one of the most successful careers of any American work of this type. It is not music of extraordinary inventiveness, but when sympathetically interpreted it carries a definite emotional urge. That its reception was lukewarm yesterday was mainly due to a performance that ignored most of the dynamic subtleties and contrasts of tempo the composer so clearly indicated in his score.

Chicagoans to Confer in N. Y. Tomorrow on 'Met' Opera Season

New York, Feb. 8 [Special].—Officials of the Chicago Opera company, including John D. Allen, president; James C. Thompson, Abner J. Stilwell, and Fred A. Poor, are expected here Thursday to confer with Edward Johnson, general director of the Metropolitan Opera association, about a proposed two week season of Metropolitan Opera opening April 17 at the Civic Opera house in Chicago.

This is a week later and a week shorter than the engagement originally planned, and the change was made necessary by the return of Boston to the Metropolitan's touring schedule. The troupe opens at the Boston Opera house April 10, and is due in Cleveland May 1. The Chicago engagement would be sandwiched in between.

Discussing the possible repertory for Chicago, Mr. Johnson said today he would like to submit in advance a list of about 18 productions, from which the opera public would be asked to choose 12 or 14.

Possible additions to the standard repertory are Debussy's "Pelleas and Melisande," Verdi's "The Masked Ball," Strauss' "Salome" on a double bill with Puccini's "Gianni Schicchi," Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier," Offenbach's "The Tales of Hoffmann," Wagner's "Parsifal," and repetitions of Mozart's "The Magic Flute" and "The Marriage of Figaro."

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

In countless deals the declarer can see that it would be fatal to draw trumps, since he needs those cards for ruffing purposes. Yet he plays in such a way as to allow an opponent to do what he himself would not dream of doing. For example:

West, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH

WEST

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 diamond.	2 clubs
Pass	5 clubs	5 diamonds	6 clubs
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's six club bid was a sheer shot in the dark, and it robbed North of the opportunity to make a profitable double of East's five diamonds sacrifice. If, however, South had played his slam contract to the best advantage, his bid would have turned out beautifully.

West led the diamond four. South ruffed, led a spade to dummy and returned the heart queen. East covered, declarer won, cashed the heart jack, discarding dummy's low spade, then cashed his other spade trick. A second diamond was now ruffed with the nine, a heart with the four, and a third diamond with the 10. Right here, however, West took an interest in the proceedings by over-ruffing with the queen and returning a trump. Declarer soon discovered that he could not ruff two spades and another heart with only two trumps remaining in dummy.

East's bidding had been the best possible evidence that West could have no more than two diamonds—evidence substantiated by West's lead of the four spot with the three appearing in dummy. Thus, declarer should have ruffed the third diamond with the king or ace of trumps. Now a second heart could be ruffed, a fourth diamond with the other top honor, and a spade or a heart lead would then put West in a highly embarrassing position. He would have three trumps, headed by the queen, against the J-8 in dummy and the singleton 10 in the closed hand, but he would be powerless to prevent declarer from winning the two vital tricks.

Get That Date, but Don't Tie Up Telephone

BY MAUREEN DALY.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

on the SOLID side

Often an attractive fellow with whom any gal would be glad to spend an evening muffs his chances by going amateur and using the wrong telephone technique when asking for a date. A chap who talks solid smoothness face to face can talk straight off the cob when he gets on the other end of a telephone line.

You can't ask for a date and play guessing games at the same time so cross the "bet you can't guess who this is" and "what's knittin', kitten" approaches off your list and get down to business. Your date-bait friend may embarrass you both by saying, "Dick? Bud? Alfonse? Jackson?" when your real name is joe blow and by now she should know it!

Just identify yourself and tell the little gal that you have big plans for Friday, Sunday, or next Wednesday and that you would like her to go along. Come right out and give her the straight dope—time, place, and event. Skip the cross-questioning such as "you aren't busy this Friday night, are you?"—"you don't have a date for this week-end, do you?" or "some other fellow hasn't asked you to go to the dance yet, has he?" She'll like it better that way.

And if you call your honeychile up for nothing in particular—just to pass the time of night and because you like the sound of her voice—make sure you don't hold that line too long! She may still sound animated and interested and as if everything was sweetness and light on her end of the wire but most family phones are in constant demand. Her father may be hovering close by, anxious to call up for the latest hockey scores or her older sister may be waiting hopefully for a long distance call from Camp Crowder so maybe you won't find yourself No. 1 of the hit parade next time you stop at that home to pick up your gal for a date. Just make it short and sweet—you're going to see her in school tomorrow anyway.

Thru the Looking Glass

There are ever so many reasons why we like two new preparations that were launched a couple of months ago. We approached them cautiously, because these are of the scientific school and where that trend is concerned we are always from Missouri.

These preparations contain a newly discovered ingredient that is claimed to set up skin respiration. Its incorporation in a cream is the outgrowth of some impressive discoveries made for the treatment of burns.

Be that as it may, we find that the cream is a good one, especially for the woman whose skin is delicate and overly susceptible to the naturally withering effects of exposure and the inevitable advance of years. It isn't a cleansing cream, nor a foundation. It's a night cream, to be applied over a clean surface and left on overnight to lubricate the skin and to help restore it to clarity and softness. This it does very well, as we know from some careful experiments of our own. [We were particularly impressed with what it did in banishing that common, but irritating reddened and rough V at the base of the neck that was a post-vacation bother.] Roughened, weary skin brightens up remarkably, a point which should endear it to women on whose complexions the bloom of youth obviously is wearing away.

In addition to the cream there is a daytime lotion, containing the same substance. This, applied lightly, dries invisibly. You can powder over it or use it as a base beneath your usual makeup base. Your skin looks better in a matter of days—brighter, somehow.

We can imagine that the youthful, perfect skin might not need preparations of this type. But we're quite convinced, after playing with them carefully for a long time, that the mature woman's skin is much improved by the consistent use of them. They're new and interesting and so far performance is impressive.

What Accounts for Success?

Dr. Daniel Starch, quoted in the magazine, American Business, outlines the reasons why 150 executives whom he interviewed were successful. He listed four qualities which had raised them above their associates:

1. Ability to think thru a problem.
2. Ability and willingness to assume responsibility.
3. Capacity to handle people.
4. Inner drive, that rare ability of the few to make themselves do those things which lesser men put off until another day.

But what accounts for the woman executive? Does she need the same characteristics to place her among the envied few? The answer is yes, but in greater degree, if she is going to win a coveted executive position in competition with men.

Not long ago Bess Bloodworth, vice president of a Brooklyn department store and member of the women's advisory committee of the war man power commission, boiled it all down to a few direct statements:

"A little crabbing, a bit of sulking, a few tears, and, regardless of the woman's production, the judgment of the total performance will be biased and then it becomes one of those decisions based on 'just-like-a-woman' reasoning. There must be intense seriousness on the part of the woman in her application to the job—a conscientiousness that brooks little lateness, a minimum of absence from the job, a few lighter moments if she wants to be considered 'just as good as a man'."

And Think of the Points.

"—also testified that his wife frequently smeared butter on him"—from divorce trial proceedings reported by Rogers Van Voorhies, who comments: "His butter half!"

One for Our Side.

To prove that business is a fine education as well as a means of self-support, four members of the Tall Girls' Club of Chicago competed in a W-G-N spelling bee with the Detroit Eagle basketball team. The girls had only a smattering of college before entering their business careers, while three of the four men had degrees and were required to keep up their grades to be eligible for college basketball. The girls won the spelling bee.

"We, 140 representative young career girls, after due consideration of the question, hereby declare that business in itself is an education," writes Jewel H. Wolkenhauer, president of the Tall Girls' Club of Chicago. "A close association with business or industry furnishes instruction and keeps knowledge fresh in mind by constant use. During the present acute shortage of help, we think women not only are helping win the war getting into business NOW but actually are doing themselves a good turn."

Increased Popularity of Missions Is Told at Winnetka Meeting

Missionaries from India, Africa, Cuba, Borneo, and China appeared on the platform together last night at a meeting in Christ Episcopal church, Winnetka, with Dr. Henry Little, a secretary of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions, serving as moderator.

Dr. Little said the reports of soldiers and returning civilian travelers indicated missions have achieved an amazing degree of popularity, and he urged the churches to take advantage of this opportunity to interpret missions to their people.

Among the speakers was Dr. Newton Chiang, a cousin of the Chinese generalissimo and a professor in a Chinese theological seminary. In an interview before the meeting he said the influence of Christianity on his people has been immense, adding it was possible China might be on the other side of the war if Christian missions had never been established there.

Charlie Chan Movie Series Starts Anew

"CHARLIE CHAN IN THE SECRET SERVICE."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

KIND: First film in resumption of series featuring the Chinese detective, created by Earl Derr Biggers.

ACTING: Sidney Toler, following in the footsteps of the late Warner Oland, makes Charlie Chan a shrewd and human character, albeit he doesn't merge himself in the portrayal as did Mr. Oland. He is supported by a so-so cast. . . .

DIRECTION: Fair.

DIALOG: Far from spontaneous.

SETS, SCENERY, PHOTOGRAPHY: Passable.

STORY: The inventor of a secret weapon which the government expects to rely on greatly is mysteriously murdered in his own home at a time when he is being guarded by government intelligence men. . . . Opens a closet door and—pronto—is no more. . . . Charlie Chan is called in to solve the mystery and, as usual, acquits himself brilliantly—hampered by a No. 2 son and daughter who insist on following Pop around the while he makes deductions and spouts Chinese philosophy.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Some.

Headlining the Grand's program is "Hari Kari," an antique once known as "Thunder in the East." . . . In it Charles Boyer impersonates a Japanese naval officer, consumed with racial pride, who cultivates "foreigners" and apes their customs—insisting that his lovely wife [Merle Oberon] do the same—that he may suck their success secrets thru these diplomatic straws. . . . Eventually he takes a coward's way out—hari kari. . . .

A spoken prolog and epilog bring the movie up to date. . . . It fits in rather nicely with present day events and is, Manager Roble tells me, doing an enormous business.

See you soon.

Advice Is Given on Management of 'Active' Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

If you have a child of about 18 months of age, I believe you will be interested in the following letter:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"I would like advice on how to gain obedience and on the use of tact with children. Do you think tactfulness means just 'giving in'?

"Also I would greatly appreciate an article on a 'must do something all the time' child of 18 months.

"Won't you please tell a harassed mother just what 'active' and 'quiet' activities to plan on?

"A recent article 'hit the nail on the head,' but I find myself unable to apply this idea of allowing activity because I don't know what to suggest to interest the boy."

First, mothers must accept the fact that these young, growing things are bursting with energy. Such children must let it out. Parents should make provision for that energy to come out in acceptable ways. Incidentally, everything interests a small child.

A glittering generality, but one which is marvelously successful if put into effect, is to allow your small child the freedom of the house. It is, after all, his only home.

Playthings and toys are perhaps the smallest part of little children's play equipment. In each room in your house, especially in the kitchen, there are things that a small child can play with or handle without doing any damage. Children develop muscular control from the free bodily activity and reasonably free use of their hands.

A mother should be companionable with her small children and not expect them to stay shut off in a room to play. She should show interest in what her child does, so that he feels that he is sharing his experiences with her.

For some of the quieter moments a mother should have on hand big picture books to show to her child. She will also find in the better toy departments and in some of the kindergarten supply houses certain large scale playthings, such as pegboards and blocks. These afford quiet occupation for small hands which have not yet learned to use their smaller muscles accurately.

SYNDICATE HITS SNAG IN BUYING DODGER STOCK

Owners Say They've Sold No Options.

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—Everybody in Flatbush has a "sold" sign hanging on the Brooklyn Dodgers, but all official sources connected with the stock of the National league club say that not a single share has changed hands or is under option.

This was the latest development as, after four days of conferences, visiting baseball moguls packed up and headed home today after the National league concluded its spring meeting by granting full approval to all recommendations of the post-war planning committee.

Meyer Has No Options.

In the complicated Brooklyn situation the latest development is that Max Meyer, who has been named as heading a syndicate to buy the franchise, does not have any definite option on the 25 per cent of the club owned by the estate of the late Edward J. McKeever according to Steve Ryan, a Brooklyn director and administrator of the McKeever estate.

Ryan admitted he had talked with Meyer but that he was not bound in any way at all and there had been no limit, implied or otherwise, mentioned in their conversations. He repeated an earlier statement: "Anything is for sale for a price."

The 50 per cent of the stock owned by various heirs of the late Charles Ebbets could mean control of the Dodgers if Meyer is able to conclude a deal for the McKeever shares on which he was reported to have held an option.

Deal in Preliminary Stages.

George V. McLaughlin of the Brooklyn Trust Co., which holds a loan against the Ebbets stock, said today that discussions with Meyer still are in the preliminary stages.

American league owners scattered without a meeting but National league owners held a three hour session after which President Ford Frick announced the April 18 opening day pairings as Boston at New York, Brooklyn at Philadelphia, Chicago at Cincinnati, and Pittsburgh at St. Louis.

For the second opening, April 21, New York will be at Brooklyn, Philadelphia at Boston, Cincinnati at Pittsburgh, and St. Louis at Chicago. The season will end on Oct. 1.

HARRIDGE RETURNS

It still isn't clear what the so-called post-war planning committees of baseball accomplished during their two day's of oratory in New York last week-end, but American league President Will Harridge who participated, returned to his office yesterday looking none the worse for wear.

Expectation was that during the meeting Commissioner K. M. Landis might declare free agency for scores of players now in the service of Uncle Sam and previously employed in minor leagues now disbanded. These are players who were moved to the defense list of minor league clubs which continued to operate, the idea being they would be returned to their original employers after the war. So far as is known, Landis continues to debate this matter with himself.

Harridge, however, did announce that opening home games of the 1944 season would be played April 18 and April 21. The schedule: Tuesday, April 18—Cleveland at Chicago, St. Louis at Detroit, Philadelphia at Washington, and New York at Boston.

Friday, April 21—Chicago at St. Louis, Detroit at Cleveland, Boston at Philadelphia, and Washington at New York.

The 154 game season will close Sunday, Oct. 1, Harridge said.

GLENVIEW BEATS PIER, 56 TO 28; LEADS LEAGUE

Thanks in part to the excellent play of Al Simpson, who scored 19 of his team's points, the Glenview Naval Air station basketball team defeated Navy Pier, 56 to 28, in a Chicago Area Service Men's league game at Glenview last night.

The victory kept Glenview at the top of the league standings with seven triumphs and no defeats. Navy Pier, previous to last night, had been tied with Fort Sheridan for second place with a 7 to 1 record.

GLOVER WITH A KICK!

Libertyville's Pastoral Acres Produce Potent Golden Glover

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Golden Gloves tournament annually enlists the bulk of its regiment of swingers from boys who have learned to toss their fists in the city. They hail from every section of our town—the stockyards neighborhood, the steel mill area, and the gold coast. Seldom do local fans find a boxer from outside the metropolitan area, but they'll find an exception—and with a punch as potent as his name—when the Chicago city final bouts are waged Monday night in Marigold Gardens, Grace st. and Broadway.

The country lad is 19 year old Louis Edward Kick, who will carry the colors of the north section in the 126 pound open division clash against Pete De Simone of the Catholic Youth Organization and the south side. Lou's appearance represents a graduation for him, since he began his Golden Gloves career by winning the featherweight novice championship in last year's tournament.

The Kicks Like to Fight.

Kick may well be the forerunner of the greatest family dynasty in the 17 year history of Golden Gloves. The third of a family of seven brothers, he is the first to come this far, but back of him are four younger Kicks, all of whom are now learning how to trade punches.

Lou's older brother, Ralph, is now with Seabees in the Aleutians, and the second of the brothers Kick, Horace, is in boot training at Great Lakes. He made his mark by capturing the C. Y. O. novice flyweight crown last November. Following Lou at home are Harold, 15; Jim, 13; David, 12, and Tom, 10. All are faithful attendants at the thrice-a-week boxing sessions conducted by Frank Gilmer at the Libertyville Boys' club.

Family's a Cheering Section.

There's a reason for all this fistic enthusiasm in the clan Kick, and you'll hear him rooting for Lou next Monday, along with several of the young man's Libertyville neighbors. That would be Horace Kick, Lou's father, who came to Libertyville from Somerset, England, at the age of 17 and bought a farm. Horace Sr. is one of the most rabid boxing fans in the country and he'll be in Lou's corner at Marigold.

Lou has accumulated 66 pounds since he first enrolled as a 60 pounder seven years ago in the Gilmer glove school at Libertyville. Much of that additional muscle has been added as a workman on the 670 acre Marellbar stock farm, near his father's acreage. Marellbar boasts 150 of the finest Scotch longhorns in the country. While many of Lou's rivals in the Golden Gloves tournaments are working in offices and factories or answering roll call in army and navy camps, Kick is doing a 12 hour stretch, from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m., at Marellbar, feeding, bedding and nursing the stock. His favorite charge is Klamor Footprint, an 1,800 pound herd bull valued at $8,500.

Larkin, who whipped Bobby Ruffin in his last Garden bout, is the 8 to 5 choice altho he may have difficulty making the weight.

FORMER STAR AT CARNEGIE KILLED IN DUTCH GUIANA

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 8 (AP).—Lt. Walter J. [Whitey] Loos, who played football, basketball, and baseball at Carnegie Tech in 1937-'38-'39, and had been purchased by the Cincinnati Reds just before enlisting in the army, has been found dead in the wreckage of a plane in Dutch Guiana. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Loos, of Crafton, Pa., the parents, received notice of his death today from the war department.

GREAT LAKES HOST TONIGHT TO NOTRE DAME

Navy Preview

ARCH WARD'S Sports Preview, aired over W-G-N and the Mutual network every Wednesday night, will originate from the Naval Training station at Great Lakes tonight at 9:15. Among Ward's guests will be Capt. Robert R. M. Emmet, commanding officer of the station; Lt. Comdr. J. Russell Cook, athletic officer; Lt. Tony Hinkle, football and basketball coach; Herman Schaefer, basketball captain, and Steve Lach and Paul Anderson, who executed the forward pass that defeated Notre Dame in the last minute of their 1943 football game.

Great Lakes' basketball team, which won its 17th consecutive game at Wisconsin Monday night, seeks to avenge the only defeat in three years on the station court when the Bluejackets face Notre Dame tonight at 7:30. In the final contest of the 1943 season the Irish defeated Great Lakes, 44 to 42, in an overtime period on the sailors' floor.

Herman Schaefer, who broke the Bluejackets' scoring record Monday night, and his teammate at forward, Paul Armstrong, will pace the Great Lakes' attack. Schaefer has scored 315 points in 26 games. The former record was set by Bob Callihan, former Detroit university center, who scored 308 points in 1942 in 36 games. Armstrong has amassed 255 points this season in 23 games.

Divided Last Year.

The Bluejackets now have won 24 of their 26 games and have not been defeated since the Northwestern game New Year's eve in Evanston. Notre Dame and Great Lakes divided their games the past two years. The Bluejackets took the first game last year on the Stadium court in overtime, 60 to 56. In 1942, Notre Dame won, 46 to 43, and then was beaten, 52 to 46.

Notre Dame will start the same team that opened against De Paul last Saturday night with Leo Klier, who scored 22 points against the Demons, pointing the offense.

DICKEY SIGNS FOR $20,000; HIS 17TH YEAR WITH YANKS

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—Bill Dickey, who was given a plaque Sunday by the New York Baseball Writers' association as the outstanding player of 1943, has signed his 1944 contract, Ed Barrow, president of the New York Yankees, said late today.

It will be the veteran catcher's 17th year with the Yankees and his salary for the coming campaign is estimated at $20,000, the same as for 1943.

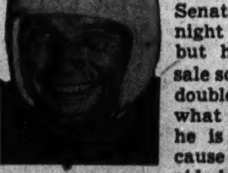
In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

THE CHICAGO BLACKHAWKS have played 16 home games this winter, only three of which have attracted fewer than 10,000 customers. . . . These were week night contests and one was barely under the five figure mark. . . . The over-all average is 13,800 per game, more than the capacity of most of the rinks in the National Hockey league. . . . Sammy Baugh named one of his sons Todd, after Dick Todd, who caught many of Sammy's passes at Washington, and the other Davey, after little Davey O'Brien, his teammate at Texas Christian. . . . Clark Griffith of the Senators a few years ago predicted night baseball would ruin the majors, but he now plays it on a wholesale scale. . . . He contends synthetic double headers on Sunday will do what night baseball failed to do, but he is disturbed at the moment because the 1944 schedule does not provide him with a Sunday double header in New York. . . . Ensign George Williams, 1934 football captain at Auburn Polytechnic, is at the naval armed guard center, New Orleans, waiting to be assigned commander of the navy gun crew on a merchant ship. . . . Billy Evans says the late Kid Elberfeld gave him his first argument while he was umpiring a game in which the New York Highlanders were participating. . . . "I called Elberfeld out," said Evans. "He stepped on my feet in protest, then apologized. He offered to punch me in the nose and I dared him to." . . . "How much do you weigh?" inquired the Kid. . . . "I weigh 185," Evans replied. . . . Elberfeld went into reverse and said, "So you're going to punch a little 135 pounder on the nose, are you?" . . . He then walked off the field laughing, Evans added. . . .



Davey O'Brien.

Billy Evans.

Jake Atz, who piloted Fort Worth to five straight baseball pennants, is working in the mutuel department at the New Orleans Fair Grounds. . . . Jimmy [Happy] Sivell, former Brooklyn Dodgers' guard, still is in the guarding business. . . . Stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash., he's standing watch over war prisoners. . . . Manager Charley Grimm, burdened with the title of vice president of the Milwaukee Brewers, intends to play the part by holding three press conferences a week. . . . The authors won't miss any of them, because Grimm's humor is unique. . . . Charley says he is serious about the press sessions, because he thinks he may learn something from the writers about how to act in a front office. . . . Lt. Walter School, former Cornell half back who threw three touchdown passes in the famous fifth down game with Dartmouth, is stationed at the army air forces Atlantic City redistribution center. . . . He took part in 72 missions over North Africa and Sicily and holds the distinguished flying cross, silver star, and air medal with eight oak leaf clusters. . . .

Mountain Top.

The white clouds rose above the mountain top,
And as I stood below I understood
A simple story with a counter-plot,
Man builds of evil—God creates but good;
And all the tearful beauty of the sky
Could never be contained in man-made things,
While every mountain breeze can softly sigh
A tender note that only Heaven brings.
And as I gazed, I somehow seemed to know
I'd never rest until I climbed its peak,
Much like the salmon in the stream below,
Would fight my way to reach the goal I seek.
One cannot quiet souls where sunsets burn,
Nor visit Heaven once—and not return.

Reunion on Tarawa.

"Reunion on Tarawa,"
The picture's caption said,
Showing a soldier kneeling
Beside his brother, dead.

For months in the same combat zone
In that far-off alien land,
They'd looked forward, O, so eagerly,
To the reunion they had planned.

But when the time of meeting came,
Awaited with bated breath,
It proved a lonely rendezvous—
A rendezvous with death.

No picture ever touched my heart
Or so deep a feeling gave
As that soldier kneeling tearlessly
At his brother's new-made grave.

Think of those boys, those of us
Who feel we are doing our part,
That "Reunion on Tarawa"
Should stir every American's heart!

Hawks' Foes Keep Seibert in Stitches

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Earl Seibert.

Capt. Earl Seibert will be featured as a de luxe specimen of needlepoint embroidery when he appears at his usual Blackhawk defense position in the Hawks' game in Chicago Stadium against the Boston Bruins tomorrow night. Currently, Earl is carrying more stitches than the winning crazy quilt at a county fair.

Capt. Seibert sported a few stitches here and there in his anatomy when the Hawks left Chicago on their recent three game road trip, also a nice, mousey shiner, or discolored optic. He picked up a few stitches in Boston, a few more in Montreal. Then he ran into Bucko McDonald of the Rangers, Sunday night.

As all hockey fans know, Bucko, like Seibert, is of the old rough and tumble, body checking school of defense men. The main difference between the two right now is that Bucko is on a team hopelessly out of Stanley Cup eligibility; Seibert is seeking to make the profitable playoffs.

Penalties Mean Little to Either Bucko or the Rangers.

Because it makes little difference whether the Rangers are shorthanded, Bucko can risk getting locked in the penalty box. As a consequence, he recently has been yielding to a nostalgic mood which causes him to knock opponents on the seats of their shorts, just for old time's sake. It relieves the boredom of being employed by the Rangers.

On the other hand, Seibert can't indulge in these rompful whimsies, the Hawks' defense being what it is. Capt. Seibert can't spend much time on the bench with a substitute in his stead, much less loiter in the penalty coop with the Hawks thus rendered shorthanded.

Bucko, smiling the while, knocked down Seibert a half dozen times or more last Sabbath evening in New York. Thrice Earl had to retire for repairs. A gash in his forehead was sewed up. Cuts in his lips drew the needle twice later. A body cut also required some sewing.

Manager Paul Thompson said that only once in his life had he seen a player get such a going over—the other fellow is rated with Seibert as one of the all-time great defense men—Eddie Shore.

Seibert Ready for His Usual Duties Tomorrow Night.

With all his wounds, Seibert said he would be ready for the usual assignments tomorrow night. Because of the Hawks' defense weakness this season, especially before the belated reporting of Art Wiebe, Seibert has played more than 50 minutes in 10 games and has averaged 44 minutes over the entire season, a record iron man stretch as modern hockey procedure goes.

Seibert is the first captain the Hawks have had since the death of Chuck Gardiner in the summer of 1934. Others have shunned the job as a jinx until Earl accepted at the start of this season.

Seibert, son of Oliver Seibert, a famous hockey and lacrosse player of Kitchener, Ont., was born in Kitchener [then Berlin], Dec. 7, 1910. Since the beginning of the 1930-'31 season he has played with Springfield [Mass.], the New York Rangers, and the Hawks. He came to the Hawks at the start of the 1935-'36 season, in a swap for Art Coulter. Two years ago Earl became a citizen of the United States.

FORT SHERIDAN BEATEN, 45 TO 43, BY FORT CUSTER

Fort Custer, Mich., Feb. 8 (AP).—A Merriwell finish gave Fort Custer's basketball team a 45 to 43 victory over Fort Sheridan tonight, snapping a four game losing streak and avenging a 57 to 38 beating handed the Custer quintet at Fort Sheridan Jan. 31.

Charles Mauck looped in the winning basket with the score tied at 43 to 43 and with five seconds to play. The goal was his third successful long shot in the late minutes of the game.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.
Boston, 3; Montreal, 0.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 8 (AP).—Boston's Bruins, in a surprising display of offensive and defensive hockey, tonight shut out the Canadiens of Montreal, 3 to 0, before 12,000. It was Goalie Bert Gardiner's first shutout of the season and the second time Montreal, leader of the National Hockey league, had been blanked. It was Montreal's fourth defeat.

The victory moved the Bruins into a tie with the Chicago Blackhawks for fourth place—the last qualifying position for the Stanley Cup play-offs. The Boston team left after the game for Chicago to meet the Blackhawks Thursday night.

The veteran Buzz Boll, with two third period goals, was the big man for the Bruins tonight. In the first period they failed to capitalize on a Montreal man power shortage resulting from two Canadiens being sent to the penalty box for misbehavior.

Score Twice in 3d Period.

Prior to the final period Boston had protected a 1 to 0 margin which Rookie Russ Kopak provided in the last minute of the first period by converting Al Rittinger's pass-out. However, a Canadien came in for an unrecorded assist on the play, Bob Fillion's skates edging the puck into the nets.

Herb Cain, high scoring Boston wing, regained the league's scoring lead by collecting assists on each of Boll's goals. The two points gave him 59, two ahead of the total of Lorne Carr of Toronto, with whom he had been tied.

The fourth place fight between the Bruins and Blackhawks has been one of the highlights of the season since the first three places have been taken care of successfully by Montreal, Toronto Maple Leafs, and the Detroit Red Wings.

Hawks Lead Bruins, 4-3.

Boston and Chicago have met seven times, the Hawks winning by scores of 8 to 4, 7 to 3, and 5 to 4 in Chicago and turning in a 2 to 0 shutout against the Bruins a week ago tonight. The Bruins had won in Boston over the Hawks by scores of 6 to 5, 4 to 3, and 6 to 4. The fourth place feudists last met in Chicago on Nov. 28, the occasion of the 5 to 4 Hawk victory.

A week ago tonight the Hawks ran Boston's losing streak to seven straight in recording their first shutout of the year. During Boston's losing streak the Hawks had gained 5½ games to take a one and one-half game lead for fourth place. The margin was cut to half a game Saturday night when the Hawks lost to the Canadiens, 6 to 1, and Boston beat the New York Rangers, 7 to 2. The Chicago lead increased to a game or two points, Sunday when it tied New York. Lineup:

Marshall Juniors Beat M'Kinley for 93 in Row.

Highlights of yesterday's City league basketball program centered in the west section where little Wally Mroz scored 48 points to lead the Wells seniors to an 88 to 15 victory over Medill, and the Marshall juniors rolled up their 93d straight triumph with a 50 to 21 margin over McKinley. This was the Commandos' sixth victory in the section and Wells' sixth in seven games, to remain right behind Austin's unbeaten five.

Mroz, youngest member of a basketball family and only a fraction of an inch over 5 foot 7 inches, established a new school record with his total, exceeding the previous mark by Casimir Kilian in 1938 by a point.

PROVISO FIVE'S VICTORIES KEEP COACH IN TRIM

BY MARK COX.

Sam Storby of Maywood's Proviso High has been coaching prep basketball teams for more than 20 years, but he doesn't have a gray hair in his head nor has he dropped a pound of weight. Maybe it's because Samuel, whose initials sound S. O. S., but usually for the opposition, always catches that hour and a half nap on game afternoons. But it's more probable that a consistently winning team is the answer.

His present band of Proviso Pirates is no exception, having won 15 of 19 games, including six out of seven in monopolizing the Suburban league lead. Sam, a compact little fellow who is one of the most active members of the Illinois Coaches association in his capacity as a member of the executive committee, calls this one of his better teams. And that's a compliment coming from a coach who has produced a state championship five and for three years in a row directed teams into the Illinois finals, among other accomplishments.

Quincy Remembers Storby.

The folks down in the Mississippi River city of Quincy still weave many traditions of their teams around Storby, who altho present there only six years, contributed the state champions in 1934, and went back to the finals again the following year before moving to Proviso nine years ago. He's still demanding and receiving the same results from his boys. He's a strong fundamentalist, never slighting his defense to stress a scoring punch. He looks for fight in his players as well as ability, and believes in a balanced offense on the theory it's still a team game.

Sam, speaking in his usual frank manner, doesn't believe his present group is the equal of the 1936 Pirates who went to the state finals, or the 1937 five which won 24 straight before yielding to Dundee in the Waukegan sectional when Dave Buck suffered a sprained back on the day of the game. Still it's a team with the necessary Storby requirements of a balanced scoring attack, progressive spirit and snug defense to go far in tournament play.

Schlichting Leads Scorers.

The team which lost its only conference game in the opener in Evanston, is sparked by Glenn Schlichting, a gifted left hand shooter, with enough tricks and ability to lead the Suburban league individual scoring with 86 points. Teaming with him at forward is Herb Blumenthal, one of the two juniors in the opening lineup.

Then there is the height of the five. Center James Hicks measures 6 feet 5 inches and Guard Bob Kalember reaches 6 feet 3. Both are rebounders becoming their height and are quick enough often to steal the ball. The other member, George Cole, junior guard, also is a lefty and the slickest dribbler of them all.

The present Pirate five, which Sam prefers to bring along on a game by game basis with tournament plans being shelved until the regular season is exhausted, is seeking to capture the third Suburban league crown in the Storby era."

GLENBARD WINS, 54-41

Glenbard High was assured of at least a tie in the West Suburban conference last night by defeating Maine, 51 to 41, in Des Plaines. It was the 10th victory in 11 contests for the Glen Ellyn five which has only Hinsdale to face on Feb. 18, in the final conference game. In other league games York won from Riverside, 46 to 39, and La Grange whipped Downers Grove, 34 to 29. Lineups:

Navy Calls 154 at N.U.; Junior Stars on List

BY WILFRID SMITH.

One hundred and fifty-four men of the junior and senior classes at Northwestern university, who are members of the naval R. O. T. C., will receive commissions Feb. 26 as ensigns and will be called to active duty, it was announced yesterday by university authorities upon receipt of an order including members of the junior class. Thirty-seven seniors already had expected to be commissioned.

The ceremony will be in Scott hall and the seniors also will be granted university degrees. The junior R. O. T. C. members thus are receiving commissions eight months in advance of the original date.

Lose Seven Junior Athletes.

Seven athletes, who are juniors, are affected. Nick Vodick, forward on the basketball team, is in the group. He and three other football men also will be lost to the 1944 Wildcat varsity. They are Lynne McNutt, captain elect; Harry Franck, and Joe Scriba. Franck and McNutt also are members of the university track team. Other track men to be commissioned in the navy are John Cooley, hurdler; George Rue, sprinter, and Sherrill Smith, distance runner.

Other track men, who are in the marine reserve and who will be shifted from Northwestern March 1, are Ed Bush, weights; Ken Cushman, miler, and Don Johnson, shot putter. Four marines—George Felt, John Ward, Ronnie Schumacher, and Jerry Carle—also will be lost to the basketball team for the concluding conference games with Iowa on March 3 and 4.

Graham Plays Saturday.

The Northwestern quintet will be intact this week for the game at Illinois and the game against Camp Grant in the Stadium Saturday. This will be final competition for Otto Graham, team captain, who is enlisted in navy aviation.

Coach Dutch Lonborg is hopeful that the basketball squad will be high in the running for the conference title before the final series with Iowa. The Wildcats play Michigan in Evanston Feb. 19, Illinois in the Stadium Feb. 25, and are at Purdue Feb. 26 before the games at Iowa. Northwestern has lost only one game.

CONCORDIA TOPS ELMHURST, 52-51, IN LAST SECOND

A free throw by Don Lohr in the final second furnished Concordia of River Forest with a 52 to 51 victory over Elmhurst college last night in Elmhurst. Concordia led, 29 to 17, at the half but the hosts had tied the score in the last minute of play. Lineups:

MINISTER TELLS HOW DRY ISSUE DIED IN MISSOURI

Tavernkeepers Helping Clergy Fight Evils.

The Rev. E. W. Potts.

Preachers and tavernkeepers of Kansas City are now so successfully fighting shoulder to shoulder the evils of the liquor traffic that there is no longer any conflict between the wets and drys in Missouri and not a single state political contest on that issue is expected in the coming elections, the Rev. Edward W. Potts said last night.

The Methodist minister, head of the Ministerial Alliance of Greater Kansas City, discussed his experiences with the saloon men as he left for home after telling a six state meeting of them that a return of prohibition would not solve the liquor problem but merely bring a return of gangsterism and wholesale murder.

His statements were indorsed by Frank Cain, president, and J. D. [Dave] Witcher, executive secretary of the Kansas City Tavern Owners association, who took the same train back.

Tells of Coöperation.

"We ministers were agreeably surprised," the Rev. Mr. Potts said. "When we started fighting the evils in the use of liquor we found the tavernkeepers knew more about how to fight them than we did. And we found them perfectly willing to coöperate.

"Now, despite our Union station massacre and our Pendergasts and other political bosses, Missouri is one of the serenest states in the Union when it comes to liquor control. We have found that the men whose business it is to dispense whisky and the milder alcoholic beverages not only know where the evils lie but how to get rid of them. And that they have helped to do."

Cain and Witcher agreed. Then Witcher said: "The tavernkeepers about two years ago saw that something had to be done. We went to the ministers and asked their help. When they found that as a group we were on the square and really wanted to get rid of the evils, they pitched in. And we've had results quite satisfactory to both groups."

Minors Kept Off Jobs.

All three said the employment of minors in the traffic has been stopped. Places in Kansas City selling bottled and packaged liquors had been hiring boys as deliverers. After several deliveries in one spot a boy would often be induced to join the drinking. Thru coöperation of the ministers, that was stopped. They are no liquor delivery boys now, and few delivery men because the stores can't afford to pay men's wages.

The Rev. Mr. Potts called for temperance as opposed to total abstinence or prohibition. "That was Jesus' method," he said. "Regardless of efforts to explain away Jesus' changing of water into wine, I believe he did it. Jesus was not a prig or a prude. The occasion demanded wine and he saw to it that there was wine."

FILLMORE AREA GAMBLERS SEEK TRADE IN STREET

With regular gambling establishment in the Fillmore st. district closed, operators are soliciting patrons on the street, in bars, restaurants, and poolrooms, and taking them to apartments rented for the night, Capt. Thomas Alcock said yesterday.

"They will rent an apartment from a family for $10 or $15," Capt. Alcock said, "and run a game all night. In the morning they move out and rent somebody else's apartment for the next night."

The police captain's assertion followed arrest yesterday of seven men and three women when detectives raided a poker game in a first floor apartment at 1210 S. Lawndale av. Adolph Nettler and his wife, Molly, tenants of the apartment, were booked as keepers of a gambling establishment; the others as patrons. Police confiscated a professional type table, cards, and a kitty of $6.10.

'HOW DRY I AM' NOTE MARS BEER BARREL POLKA!

There's Real Shortage of Foaming Brew.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Yes, there is a beer shortage right now, the Illinois liquor control commission informed a thirsty public yesterday. The scarcity isn't so bad as it might be, but it may get worse, Dr. Joseph C. Ross, commissioner, and William M. Devine, secretary of the commission, declared. At any rate, beer drinkers will have to get along on a little less this year.

"The shortage is beginning to be felt by tavern keepers," Dr. Ross said. "They are not able to get as much draft beer as they could use. The shortage, I believe, is due to three factors.

Grain Restriction a Factor.

"1. Breweries are allowed only 65 per cent of the amount of grain formerly used.

"2. By agreement with the government, 15 per cent of their product is allocated to army and navy camps.

"3. There is a shortage of metal caps, wood for boxes and paper for cases, material for repairs, tools, man power, and other necessities.

"In 1943 thruout the country 72 million barrels of beer were consumed. This was six million barrels in excess of the previous high figure which was reached in 1914. More beer was drunk because there was less hard liquor available."

Most Beer Is Packaged.

Statistics of the liquor commission, compiled by Max Loeb, chief of field investigators, showed that of the beer produced in Illinois in 1943 approximately 55 per cent was packaged beer. Cans are not being used any more, because tin is not available. Rough figures on production showed that 90 million gallons of packaged beer was put on the market in this state along with 75 million gallons of draft beer.

"We are on the alert to protect the beer supply for our state," Dr. Ross said. "We have heard of Chicago beer being shipped to Rock Island, then into Iowa and up to Canada. There is no law to prevent such shipments, but we frown on such practice. The home public should come first, and it will insofar as this commission can help the situation."

Excise Taxes Decline.

Excise taxes collected on all liquor by the state of Illinois were $4,000,000 less in 1943 than in 1942.

Comparative consumption totals for the two years were given by Charles J. Fleck, chairman, as follows:

	1942.	1943.
Wines	7,683,000	5,818,000
Spirits, etc.	13,834,000	10,076,000

These figures reflect no changes in drinking desires, it was stated; the public just had to take what it could get. High prices for scarce "hard" liquors had some effect.

The Illinois commission has no jurisdiction over enforcement of ceiling prices, but dealers complain that inequities in ceiling price regulations had a lot to do with the present shortages, Dr. Ross said.

ADOPT 12 POINT PLAN FOR FUTURE TRAFFIC SAFETY

A comprehensive 12 point plan for preventing post-war traffic accidents was adopted by the nation's traffic experts yesterday at the conclusion of a two day meeting of the post-war traffic safety committee of the National Safety council.

Basic principles of the plan include "blue printing" highways now for maximum safety with all safety features incorporated before the new highways are opened; modernization of existing highways as soon as possible; adequate traffic engineering and personnel; standardization of law enforcement practices; compulsory vehicle safety inspections and broadening of traffic safety education.

The committee represents all phases of traffic control from construction to enforcement and the plan is the result of three months' study of post-war traffic probabilities. Kenneth B. Colman of Seattle, Wash., is chairman of the group.

Loved, remembered, thought of always,

REVENUE PLAN GRANTS APPEAL ON WAR PRICING

Raise Exemptions for Many Plants.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Two important changes relating to renegotiation of war profits are contained in the new revenue bill that congress sent to the White House Monday.

The "or else" alternative that has faced contractors dissatisfied with decisions of their price adjustment boards is softened. For the first time contractors are specifically authorized to appeal price adjustment decisions to the United States tax court. The original price adjustment made no provision for appeal. Altho many contractors have protested rulings of the reviewing boards they have lacked effective legal means of obtaining court review.

Specific Exemption Raised.

The second important change is that raising the specific exemption from $100,000 to $500,000 for any year ending after June 30, 1943. This means that a large number of contractors and subcontractors will not be subject to profit renegotiation.

The bill also provides for a new interdepartmental board which will attempt to eliminate differences of policy between war department, navy and other contracting agencies that have plagued contractors in the past. This will be known as the war contracts price adjustment board with one member each from the war, navy, and treasury departments, the war production board, and the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and the sixth representing the maritime commission and the war shipping administration.

The board can review at its discretion rulings made by officers and agencies authorized to handle renegotiation cases. A contractor can ask the board to review his case. The board can decline a review but the contractor in any event can go to the tax court with his appeal.

Limits Law to This Year.

The new bill specifies that renegotiation of war contracts is to end next Dec. 31, with the President retaining the power to lengthen or shorten the period by six months. Under the original act renegotiation would continue for three years after the end of the war.

The right to appeal renegotiation decisions will not apply to settlements already agreed to by contractors nor does it apply to future settlements to which both parties subscribe. A contractor will have 90 days to appeal after a ruling is made.

WARD BAKING'S PROFIT CLIMBS TO 1.6 MILLIONS

Ward Baking company's profit for the fiscal year ended Dec. 25 increased to $1,623,285, equal to $6.35 a share on the preferred stock, from $1,241,333, or $4.85 a preferred share, in the preceding 12 months, the company reported yesterday. Cumulative preferred stock dividends in arrears as of Dec. 25 amounted to $53.50 a share.

The year's sales set a new record high of $49,546,830, a gain of 12.9 per cent above the preceding year's volume of $43,898,514.

NASH MOTORS BUYS PROVING GROUND SITE

Kenosha, Wis., Feb. 8 [Special].—Nash Motors announced today that it had purchased a site for construction of a proving ground after the war. Included will be a one mile circular track of concrete for high speed driving, 15 miles of winding gravel road, a half mile circular track of rough blacktop, and stretches of corduroy gravel, loose sand, rutted mud, and Belgian rock. The site is in Walworth county, approximately three miles southwest of Burlington, Wis.

Stocks Rally on Boost in G.M. Dividend

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—The stock market made slow but fairly broad recovery today under leadership from motors, rails, and specialties.

Boosting of the General Motors dividend from 50 to 75 cents, which was reported after yesterday's close, seemed to be the principal stimulant for bullish sentiment. Also, some commitments were reinstated because certain traders believed the recent price relapse had put the list in a position to rebound on any worthwhile news.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.3 at 50. Transfers totaled 608,390 shares, compared with yesterday's 572,576, the smallest total since Jan. 3.

RAIL BONDS PUSH AHEAD.

New York, Feb. 8 (AP). — Rails moved irregularly higher in the bond market today under the impetus of selective buying that concentrated chiefly on reorganization and medium grade issues.

Loans of the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville railroad—the Monon—were among the best climbers, picking up 1¼ to 5¾ in fairly heavy demand.

Bond issues listed on the stock exchange as of Jan. 31, numbered 1,091 with a par value of $90,741,549,801, a market value of $90,544,387,232 and an average of $99.78. A month earlier 1,096 issues were listed with a par value of $90,840,915,406, a market value of $90,274,071, 634 and an average price of $99.38.

CHICAGO LIST MIXED.

Price changes were irregular yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Of the volume leaders, Chicago corporation, Commonwealth Edison, and Libby, McNeill & Libby lost small fractions; United States Steel advanced nearly a point, and Middle West corporation was unchanged.

TITLE IS TAKEN TO PART OF SITE FOR FIELD PLANT

Title to part of the prospective site for a publication plant was taken yesterday for Marshall Field by C. Golightly. The northwest corner of Market and Monroe sts., 191 by 141 feet, was purchased from the Monroe-Market Service Station, Inc., of which Ben D. Kissel is the principal owner, for $185,000.

The adjacent property on the north, fronting 97 feet on Market, with a depth of 167 feet, was bought from the Selz heirs for $44,722, according to the county records. Ward Farnsworth & Co. was broker for Field.

The site may cover most of the block bounded by Madison, Market, Monroe, and the river. On this Field is said to be planning the erection of a plant when post-war building conditions permit.

ORDER INCREASE IN ICED RAIL CAR DEMURRAGE FEE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 (AP).—Effective Friday, the interstate commerce commission has ordered imposition of new demurrage charges on refrigerator cars which are not emptied within the "free time," usually two days, fixed by law. Charges will be $2.20 a car a day for the first two days, $5.50 for the third day, $11 for the fourth day, $22 for the fifth day, and $44 for each succeeding day. The maximum demurrage charge formerly was $5.50 a day.

CANADIAN MARKETS.

Are there any restrictions on the purchase of securities listed on the Montreal or Toronto stock exchanges by a resident of the United States? Could such a person readily get his money back if he sold the securities, and would he be subject to any Canadian tax?—J. F.

Answer: There are no restrictions on buying of Canadian securities by a resident of the United States, but if the securities are sold in Canada the funds would not be convertible into American dollars until present Canadian exchange controls are lifted.

Canada does not have a capital gains tax. There is, however, a 15 per cent withholding tax on dividends and interest. This tax would be deductible by the American resident from his combined normal tax and surtax liability.

U. S. EXPORTS, AIDED BY VAST LEND-LEASE, ESTABLISH NEW PEAK

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 (AP).—United States exports, swelled by vast quantities of lend-lease shipments, set a $12,716,902,000 peak in 1943 to exceed the preceding year's total by 58 per cent and 1920's earlier record by 54 per cent, the census bureau reported today.

Imports valued at $3,364,809,000 also were higher than in any year since 1929, reflecting the vast requirement for materials that has developed as a result of the war.

The bureau reported that 1943 exports equaled those for any two years of World War I. and more than doubled the $6,233,513,000 total set in 1917, peak year of the last war.

John Simpson Elected Head of A. M. Castle

John M. Simpson yesterday was elected president of A. M. Castle & Co., steel products distributor, succeeding Alfred C. Castle, who, it was announced, will retain his interest in the company and serve as vice chairman and director.

Simpson, who has been associated with the company since 1935 and vice president since 1938, is a son of James Simpson, who at the time of his death in 1939 was chairman of the Commonwealth Edison company. He is a nephew of William B. Simpson, chairman of A. M. Castle & Co.

Castle has been president since 1930 and has been connected with the company 35 years. On the advice of his physician he asked to be relieved of executive responsibilities.

Stockholders of Fitz Simons & Connell Dredge and Dock company added Herbert L. Taylor to the board of directors. Taylor became a vice president of the company last month after the retirement of E. J. Fucik.

RENEW BATTLE TO GAIN CONTROL OF CERTAIN-TEED

A renewal of the proxy fight for control of the Certain-teed Products corporation, Chicago, was disclosed yesterday in a letter sent stockholders by Rawson G. Lizars, former senior partner of Rawson Lizars & Co., Chicago brokerage house and now a lieutenant commander in the aviation supply department of the navy. He is seeking proxies to vote in the election of nine members of the board of directors.

Lizars charged that the Celotex corporation, which he said owns 24 per cent of the common stock of Certain-teed, entered into a manufacturing arrangement with Certain-teed whereby Celotex profited at the expense of Certainteed.

He also said that Bror Dahlberg, chairman of the board of Certain-teed and president of Celotex, received $500,000 in salaries and bonuses over a four year period ended Dec. 31, 1942, and would probably receive $114,853 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1943, whereas total net earnings of Certain-teed for the first nine months of 1943 were $468,748.

At the office of Certain-teed it was said a statement would be issued later.

HOG HOLDOVERS CLIMB TO 13,000; MARKET STEADY

Altho no changes were made in the price level of the hog market yesterday at the Chicago stock yards, the holdover increased to 13,000 head from 10,000 Monday night. Receipts totaled 31,000, including direct shipments to packers, compared with 32,037 a week earlier.

Cattle prices were uneven. Best steers and yearlings were steady, but weakness prevailed in stock below the $15 level.

Senate Ready for Windup of Subsidy Fight

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 (AP).—The senate squared off for its long delayed showdown on food subsidy legislation today with foes of the administration program offering an amendment that would continue existing price control subsidies until June 30. The house of representatives voted last November to cut off subsidies as of Dec. 31.

The extension concession was made by Sen. Bankhead [D., Ala.], who said he thought federal agencies concerned with price control should be given adequate time to plan future policies in the event that congress outlaws subsidy payments.

Linked with Bill Extending CCC.

The senate agreed to open debate tomorrow on the anti-subsidy legislation, which is linked with the bill continuing the life of the Commodity Credit corporation beyond Feb. 17.

Bankhead and other opponents of subsidies predicted the senate would follow the house lead in voting to outlaw the subsidy method of bulwarking retail food price ceilings.

Democratic party leaders were equally sure that President Roosevelt would veto a repeal bill, as he did a year ago. They expressed confidence this would force either a compromise or a new bill extending the CCC, an agency which legislators on both sides of the subsidy fight want continued.

Predicts Appropriation Attempt.

Democratic Senate Leader Barkley [Ky.] said today the administration had no intention of asking a temporary extension of the CCC beyond Feb. 17 in order to allow more time for the subsidy debate.

He said the administration would concentrate on an attempt to substitute for the repeal section of the pending bill a provision giving authority to government agencies to spend 1 billion 500 million dollars for subsidies in 1944.

YOUNG ASSERTS RAIL DEAL HAD ICC'S APPROVAL

Cleveland, O., Feb. 8 (AP).—Robert R. Young, chairman of Alleghany corporation, said tonight the holding company acquired control of the Chesapeake & Ohio and two affiliated railroads before congress passed the interstate commerce act of 1940. The statement was in reply to an interstate commerce commission order for an investigation to determine whether Alleghany's acquisition of the three lines was in violation of the act after it was passed.

Alleghany corporation acquired its interest in C. & O. in February, 1929, with indirect control of more than half the common stock, Young said, and control of the Pere Marquette by the C. & O. was authorized by the ICC, April 2, 1929, when C. & O. acquired 48 per cent of Pere Marquette stock.

Asserting he and Allan P. Kirby acquired Alleghany securities from George A. Ball in 1937 "at a time when Alleghany's relationship to the C. & O., Nickel Plate, and Pere Marquette had long been firmly established," Young declared they "fully explained the entire transaction" at a senate subcommittee hearing. He said the ICC on Dec. 29, 1937, authorized the C. & O. to acquire control of the Nickel Plate.

COURT APPROVES REORGANIZING OF COTTON BELT

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 8 (AP).—The interstate commerce commission plan of reorganization for the St. Louis-Southwestern [Cotton Belt] railway, cutting its total capitalization from $105,946,995 to $75,000,375, was approved today by United States District Judge Moore.

The plan would eliminate equities of present preferred and common stockholders and would leave $8,243,764 of creditors' claims unsatisfied. Annual fixed interest would be reduced from $3,159,045 to $1,513,731.

The plan goes to the ICC for an election among the various classes of creditors, with approval of two-thirds in each class required.

TAX BILL EASES FILING, MAKES PAYING HARDER

Return Simplified by Killing Credits.

BY DANIEL NICHOLSON.

A start toward simplification of the individual income tax is made in the new revenue act of 1943, passed by both houses of congress Monday and now awaiting Presidential approval or veto.

Not only will the filing of returns a year from now be made simpler than in other recent years, if the bill becomes law, but the filing of 1943 returns will be simpler and cheaper for some individuals thru repeal of the anti-windfall provision in the existing law.

There's a catch, of course, so far as the majority of taxpayers are concerned. Simplification is being achieved in part by eliminating some of the deductions previously allowed. The earned income credit is eliminated, along with the allowance of deductions for federal excise and stamp taxes paid by the consumer. Neither of these deductions is outstandingly important, however, and the earned income credit computation always has been confusing. It is deductible only in computing the normal tax, now 6 per cent.

Victory Tax Same for All.

The victory tax rate is established at a flat 3 per cent of income in excess of $624, regardless of family status and with no credit allowed for dependents. This is a reduction for the single person, now paying a rate of 3.75 per cent, and leaves the rate unchanged for married persons with no dependents. Those with dependents would pay a slightly higher victory tax.

Apportionment or pro-rating of the personal exemption and the credit for dependents on the long form 1040, where a change in status occurs during the year, would be eliminated. The marital and dependency status of the taxpayer on July 1 of the taxable year would be his status for the entire year, as is now the case with taxpayers who file on the short form 1040A. A couple who married prior to July 1 would benefit by this provision; those who married after July 1 would lose the additional personal exemption previously allowed.

Muster Out Pay Exempted.

Mustering out pay received during taxable years beginning after Dec. 31, 1943, for military or naval service, is specifically exempted from tax by the new revenue bill.

The anti-windfall provision was designed to limit the partial forgiveness under the pay as you go law if the taxpayer's surtax net income for 1942 or 1943 was more than $20,000 larger than the surtax net income for a pre-war year chosen by the taxpayer. The intent was to place an additional tax, in effect, on large incomes swollen by the war.

The windfall tax was attacked as unfair because it failed to make allowance for incomes which increased from causes unrelated to the war.

Unions Must File Returns.

Other highlights of the bill are provisions to disallow tax benefits where mergers or acquisitions are effected as a means for reducing income tax liability, and where a business has been operated for a loss for a period of years.

The bill would require nonprofit organizations exempt from tax to file returns of income and disbursement to enable the government to determine whether or not they should be required to pay tax. Labor unions would be affected by this section, but religious and charitable organizations are exempted.

REPORTS LARGE NEED OF HOMES THRU ILLINOIS

Expenditures of 1 billion 300 million dollars for 300,000 new homes will approximate Illinois' share in home building during the first two years after the war, William C. Bell, managing director of the Western Retail Lumbermen's association, said yesterday. He spoke before members of the Illinois Lumber and Material Dealers' association in the Hotel Sherman.

"I am not predicting the volume of the post-victory market for new homes," Bell said. "I am citing figures, based on national surveys, which may serve to help you visualize the immense pentup demand of Americans for new dwellings."

Banker Urges Post-War Tax Slash to Ward Off Socialism

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—Henry A. Theis, vice president of the Guaranty Trust company of New York, urged today a drastic reduction in income tax rates immediately after the war and said the alternative was national socialism.

Speaking before the midwinter meeting of the American Bankers' association trust division, of which he is president, Theis asserted "our present tax policy, if maintained in the post-war period, threatens to lead to national socialism."

"The general assumption is that we will end up with a post-war debt of around 300 billion dollars," Theis said. "To service such a debt will require a high national income. To maintain a high national income and to create additional wealth it is necessary to have a high rate of production.

Gives Two Alternatives.

"You can obtain a high rate of production only thru encouraging private enterprise or thru some form of national socialism. Certainly the great bulk of the people we represent do not desire the latter.

"To preserve private enterprise, the tax policy must be changed. Venture capital must be encouraged. People must be given an incentive to invest in productive enterprise, to work, and to save.

"This can be brought about only by a drastic reduction in income tax rates on corporations and individuals and the reduction or elimination of the capital gains tax."

To achieve stability for post-war international trade Theis proposed a return to "the international gold standard, with free coinage of gold, free markets, private ownership of gold and currencies convertible into gold, both for domestic use and for shipment abroad."

He said that altho this may not be possible for all countries, those short of gold could adjust their currencies in terms of the post-war gold standard monies.

Theis suggested this nation should extend long term credits to other countries, preferably thru private rather than government lending, but said the largest contribution the country could make would be the maintenance of high production and employment.

View of Eccles

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—Chairman of the federal reserve board Eccles cautioned today against a "premature" reduction of present high taxes, declaring that "every attempt should be made to bring about a balanced budget at the earliest possible date after the war." Predicting an annual federal budget of 20 billion dollars after peace, Eccles asserted that "wholesale tax reductions are out of the question if we are to maintain a balanced budget, and such tax reductions as we can afford must be applied in a way that will contribute most to the maintenance of employment."

Bureau's Rule Held Barrier to Super-Road

Construction of superhighways after the war to handle the increased vehicular traffic expected will be impossible unless the federal bureau of public roads develops a more realistic view toward construction specifications, James B. Steep, Detroit highway engineer, said yesterday.

Speaking before the Central Fabricators' association in the Palmer House, Steep said the bureau now demands construction specifications for elevated highways equal to those required for a heavy duty bridge across the Mississippi river.

Calls Demands Unnecessary.

"This is completely unnecessary," Steep said. "Elevated highways would be built for passenger cars which weigh only 16 pounds per square foot of roadway surface, with buses and trucks using the ground level streets."

Steep said a super-highway should embody three characteristics: A physical separation between the opposed streams of traffic; no direct access from abutting property, and a continuous grade separation.

These essentials, he said, are satisfied at less cost and more efficiently in the elevated rather than the depressed type of super-highway.

Tells Biggest Problem.

"The biggest problem that will have to be eliminated before superhighways can become a reality," Steep declared, "is the discharge of a large volume of traffic in a congested area. Parking facilities will have to be constructed on all available sites in the congested districts. These facilities should be in the form of multiple deck structures limited to passenger cars, and with most of the parking done by the drivers themselves."

GRAIN MARKET'S PRICES NARROW IN LIGHT TRADE

Grain prices held within narrow limits yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade with speculative interest light. Wheat declined on scattered selling and failure of a broad milling demand to develop for futures and closed unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel lower. Rye slumped about ¾ cent early only to rally later on short covering to close ⅛ cent higher to ¼ cent lower. Oats declined ⅛ to ¼ cent and barley was unchanged to ½ cent lower.

Commission houses were fair buyers of rye on the decline. Trading, however, was not as active as recently.

800,000 IDLE HELD CHICAGO'S PEACE OUTLOOK

U. S. Help Needed, Says Harrington.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—Predicting that 800,000 Chicagoans will be left jobless when the war ends, Philip Harrington, Chicago commissioner of subways and superhighways, today proposed a joint program of federal aid and government incentives to private business to provide post-war employment.

Philip Harrington.

Testifying before the house buildings and grounds committee, which is studying post-war problems, Harrington said Chicago is planning to do its full share to speed up peace time industrial conversion and furnish jobs quickly. But, he continued, the problem is too vast to be met without assistance from the federal government.

Housing Projects Urged.

"It is recognized," Harrington said, "that one of the prime requisites for steady, healthy economic growth is that private initiative be stimulated to play as large a role as possible in our economy."

Specifically, he proposed the following incentives to post-war recovery thru:

1. Federal and state laws to facilitate property condemnation for municipal housing programs.
2. Federal legislation allowing private businesses to deduct as tax free expenses all or part of the sums they invest in civic projects such as housing and highways.
3. Statutory guarantees to war plant owners that their contracts will be settled immediately when they are terminated.

Need Conversion Policy.

4. Prompt adoption of a definite policy as to the disposition of government owned war plants, of which there are many in Chicago, so that producers may plan for peace time output.
5. Federal aid to cities, especially metropolitan areas, to help tide their residents over the employment problem in the transition to a peace time economy, because, Harrington said, municipalities alone can not do the job.

Harrington said Chicago has "on the shelf" a group of post-war projects totaling $850,482,000, some of which contemplate federal aid.

Chicago Problem Acute.

He estimated this money would provide continuous jobs for six post-war years for only 50,000 persons, compared with 800,000 jobs needed for those thrown out of war work and for returning service men.

"The problem of maintaining employment after the war will undoubtedly be more acute in Chicago than perhaps in any other large city in the nation, for Chicago occupies a unique position in the manufacturing field," Harrington said. "Cook county manufactures more goods than any other county in the nation."

The 850 million dollar Chicago program, Harrington said, includes a 110 million dollar transit modernization to be undertaken by Chicago "on its own," a 260 million dollar super-highway project contemplating federal aid, and vast housing.

OPIATE
Inherited freedom is so rare a luxury in the world that its action on the beneficiaries may be likened to that of an opiate, which induces sleep and relaxes vigilance in the sleeper.
Even when war wakens him to outside perils, the citizen who didn't have to fight for the freedom his ancestors gave him is too pre-occupied with foreign enemies to keep an eye on the domestic variety.
The Times-Herald is doing it for him.

TEACHER RIPS UNION AID TO SCHOOL CRITICS

Federation Officer Asks for Reasons.

Miss Frances Kenney, vice president of the Chicago Federation of Teachers and a teacher at Austin High school, asked last night why the Chicago Teachers union should contribute approximately one-fourth of the budget of the Citizens Schools committee annually when the union is only one of 80 member organizations claimed by the committee. The payments have totaled $15,000 thru the last five years. This sum is approximately the salary of the executive director of the committee for that period, she added.

The committee's treasurer, Ralph L. Goodman, reported the director's salary as approximately $3,500 a year.

Miss Kenney's comment came after Ira S. Turley, union president, had reported the union's contribution, but denied the union pays the director, as charged last week in an anonymous communciation displayed to the board of education by President James B. McCahey.

Federation Assails Union.

The federation assailed the union and the schools committee in a pamphlet distributed to 10,000 teachers yesterday. It contained a statement signed by President Lillian Lewis of the federation.

Miss Kenney asserted that many of the schools committee's frequent criticisms of the board of education had been pointless, unsound, and unfair to the board, the teachers, the pupils, and the cause of education. Few of the criticisms have been accompanied by suggestions for improvements, she added.

Miss Kenney said she could see politics in the committee-union activities and declared: "The school room is and should be as far removed from politics as possible and I hope the teachers keep it that way."

Pointless Criticism Condemned.

She asserted that in a democracy any one has the privilege of criticizing any public institution, but one should do it with the intention of correcting errors.

"Pointless criticism, merely to be critical, injures the interests of teachers, of children, and of education, which depends on the public for support," Miss Kenney said. "In general the public gets good return for its school tax money. Campaigns that tend unnecessarily to tear down public confidence in schools only create greater reluctance among tax payers to pay their bills," she added.

Miss Kenney has been state legislative representative of the teachers' federation in the last three general assemblies, she said.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

V. I. D. writes: "I am a pipefitter and maintenance man in a nonessential industry and my draft board informs me I will have to leave this activity and get into a defense or war industry. I have heard the navy needs pipefitters in the navy yards. If I file an application, would the navy request my occupational deferment?"

ANSWER: Men who are recruited for the regular navy ship repair units [SRU] are sworn into the navy. Evidently you have the shore establishment recruiting program in mind. This is under civil service jurisdiction. Civil service advises us that even tho applicants may have been reclassified to 1-A, a pre-Pearl Harbor father is acceptable for work, providing his experience qualifies him and he passes the physical examination. Applicants who are engaged in critical occupations in nonessential industry or self-employed should go to the nearest United States employment service office and obtain a certificate of availability before going to the enrollment office for the free physical examination. Enrollment may be at either 321 Plymouth ct. or the nearest civil service office. The navy department furnishes transportation and housing reservations.

S. J. writes: "I am 30 years of age and a certified master welder, with my deferment expiring in about a month. My boss and my draft board have hinted that my deferment will not be renewed. Is there any way I can request a preinduction physical examination before I am called by my board or do I have to wait? I'd like to know now if I'm acceptable because if not I'd like to go to Pearl Harbor in the shipyards."

ANSWER: It is probable you will be called for your preinduction physical examination within a short while anyway or you can sign a voluntary induction order. The board ordinarily does not send a man for this examination unless he is liable to induction within 89 days from date of the examination, hence as long as you are still under an occupational deferment, the board will wait until it is ready to call you up in your normal order.

E. M. O. asks: "Does a lieutenant in our air forces who has been held prisoner for the past eight months still receive credit for flying pay in addition to his base pay?"

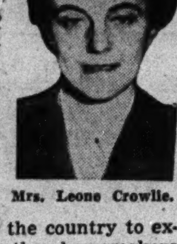
ANSWER: Yes. The conditions are set out in AB 35, page 1320, and are too long to quote here.

L. W. A. writes: "I was sent to the induction station and rejected. I received a card from my board, '1-A [L].' Will they reclassify me when it is time to go to the induction station again?"

ANSWER: 1-A [L] is not a classification. It merely indicates you are acceptable for limited service whenever there is a quota and you will not have to be reclassified.

NOTE: Approved application forms and instructions for the severance pay for all branches of service are available from this department on request, accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope or by personal visit to The Tribune public service offices.

'TYPICAL HOUSEWIFE' SAYS OPA JOB KEEPS HER OUT OF KITCHEN



Mrs. Leone Crowlie.

Mrs. Leone Crowlie of Huron, S. D., confessed yesterday that she has been so busy during the last year being "America's typical housewife" for the office of price administration that her own housewifely skills have suffered. She indicated that living in Washington, D. C., eating in restaurants, and traveling all over the country to explain the OPA to other homemakers are rather distracting.

Mrs. Crowlie, who is 42 and the mother of three children, was in Chicago and visited the regional OPA offices at the halfway point of a tour of seven midwestern states. Her official mission as the "typical housewife" at a salary of $5,600 a year is to convey to price and rationing officials what housewives are doing and thinking, and tell women of OPA price control and rationing.

Asked if her career wasn't taking her away from the finer points of homemaking, Mrs. Crowlie admitted it was. She recalled that she recently addressed a women's group in Green Bay, Wis., and was asked a question regarding the validity of a brown food ration stamp. She hadn't been shopping lately and the question stumped her. She also told of recently baking bread "which didn't turn out as well as it has in the past."

2 JURORS FAINT WHEN THEY HEAR ABORTION STORY

Two members of the grand jury fainted yesterday after they had heard the story of a fatal abortion for which George E. Fosberg, 79, an ex-surgeon, and Mrs. Avis Kamaradt, 49, a practical nurse, 4008 Drexel blvd., later were reported to have been named in true bills charging manslaughter.

The jurors, Mrs. Elsie B. Jones, 1324 Forest av., Evanston, and John J. Brenner, 2713 Nelson st., pay roll clerk, became so ill they were obliged to leave the jury room. It was reported Mrs. Kamaradt told the jurors how Fosberg had performed an operation on Miss Geraldine Schuyler, 20, 6239 Newark av., who died Jan. 23.

Fosberg, who lost his physician's license after he was convicted in a $500,000 bank swindle, is alleged to have performed the operation on Miss Schuyler, betrothed sweetheart of a soldier, in the basement of his rooming house at 5460 Blackstone av. The nurse, who introduced Fosberg to the young woman, is reported to have agreed to be the state's chief witness against him.
